

Small Women Are Choosing Spring Suits Now

Plenty of small women who know the wisdom of early selection are buying their Spring Suits HERE now.

There's the small woman who finds difficulties elsewhere in finding the desired styles in her size. Naturally her steps turn to us—and we are now better prepared than ever before to meet her most exacting demands.

Of most all garments there are but one or two of a kind—and the wisdom of earliest selection is immediately apparent.

IOWA WANTS AN INCOME TAX

Legislature Adopts a Resolution Authorizing Congress to Act.

RECESS OF NINE DAYS IS TAKEN Members Go Home to Confer with Constituents and Upon Return Are Expected to Elect a Senator.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(Special Telegram.)—Miss Bertha Johnson of Washington and Jay H. Cleaver of Council Bluffs, Ia., were married in Rockville yesterday afternoon by Rev. S. R. White of the Baptist church, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's father. They left for Washington immediately afterward.

The above is from the Rockville, Md., correspondent of a local paper. Behind it there is a rather romantic little story. Several years ago, Jay H. Cleaver, who is the son of Dr. Cleaver of Council Bluffs, came to Washington to attend school. He made his home with a relative on K Street, in this city, and shortly thereafter a wealthy lumberman from the south, Mr. Johnston, purchased a neighboring house and moved his family to the capital.

Young Cleaver, after graduating, secured a position in the chemical division of the Department of Agriculture, and in the meantime struck up a friendship with Mr. Johnston and his family, which consisted of a wife and one daughter, Miss Bertha. Later, Mr. Cleaver secured a position with a chemical company in one of the southern states and left Washington. It was announced about that time that the young people were engaged, but the statement was denied by the family of the young woman. A short time ago Mr. Cleaver resigned his place with the chemical company and returned to his home in Council Bluffs, but last Sunday he arrived in Washington on a visit and at once renewed his acquaintance with the attractive Miss Bertha.

The day before yesterday they met and took a car ride to Rockville, which is about five or six miles from the capital. Yesterday Mrs. Johnston received a telegram from her husband suggesting that she come to the south and bring the daughter, as Mr. Johnston was unable to return to Washington, owing to the pressure of business. When the young woman was told of her father's desire she at once explained that she could not leave her husband. Mrs. Johnston was thoroughly taken by surprise, but explanations followed and, although the bridegroom was not present, it was understood that parental forgiveness was assured.

REVOLUTION IN PARAGUAY Rumor that Colonel Alberto Jara Has Proclaimed Senior Ortils President.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 25.—Advices received here today state that another revolutionary movement has begun in Paraguay. The political situation in Paraguay has been described for some time by the present year Colonel Alberto Jara, then minister of war, got the upper hand of the government and forced the resignations of President Manuel Gondra and Vice President Juan Gaena. On January 19 the Paraguayan congress accepted the resignation and elected Jara president of the republic.

Since that time the news from Asuncion, the capital, has been censored, but advices from Buenos Aires have stated that Jara was unable to maintain the support of a majority in congress. Two weeks ago advices from the same source set forth that Jara had dissolved congress, established a dictatorship and proclaimed Senior Ortils, who was minister of finance in the cabinet of President Gondra, president.

MISS GRACE BRYAN ENGAGED Report in Denver She is Betrothed to Richard Hargreaves Without Parents' Knowledge.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DENVER, Feb. 25.—(Special Telegram.)—The Republican tomorrow will say: Denver intimates of Miss Grace Bryan, youngest daughter of William J. Bryan, are advised that Miss Bryan is engaged to Richard Lewis Hargreaves, son of the late A. E. Hargreaves of Lincoln and one of the owners of the Standard Grocery company of that city. They have been sweethearts since childhood and their many Denver friends have expected that they would marry.

It is said that Miss Bryan's parents are opposed to the match, but that Miss Bryan is determined to have her way. It is also said that this publication will be the first notice to Mr. and Mrs. Bryan of the formal betrothal.

RUN ON BERLIN SAVINGS BANK Rumors of Extensive Losses by Speculation Bring Depositors to the Doors.

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—Depositors of the Berlin Savings bank, a run on which in the morning yesterday afternoon caused much excitement today to clamor for their money. A placard posted on the bank's doors, which were kept closed, informed the depositors that all accounts would be settled.

The rush of thousands of women of the poorer classes to draw out their savings was caused by rumors of extensive losses of the savings bank. The managers of the bank, which is one of the largest and most popular of the private savings institutions in Berlin, assert that the depositors are fully secured. The incident was without significance on the hours.

RAILROADS ARE RETRENCHING Paquet Steam Line Will Forget Extension and Pennsylvania Cancels Order for Engines.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Following the recent decision of the Interstate Commerce commission, E. W. McKenna, vice president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railroad, today ordered that retrenchment be begun and that extension work be "forgotten for the present."

A similar order is said to have been issued by the Pennsylvania system officials and an order for fifty locomotives cancelled. Officials of the Rock Island, the Burlington and the Santa Fe systems stated that they were at present practicing all the economy possible.

Shot by His Brother. CASPER, Wyo., Feb. 25.—(Special.)—The 10-year-old son of Charles McFarland, was shot by his brother, while they were playing with an old revolver at their home. The bullet entered the boy's left shoulder and came out through the back just inside the shoulder blade. He may recover.

TRIAL OF CAMORRA LEADERS Famous Case Will Occupy Italian Court for at Least a Year.

Forty-One Men Charged with Being Implicated in Murder Conspiracy—Four Hundred and Fifty Witnesses.

VITERBO, Italy, Friday, Feb. 17.—This historic town, called by ancient writers "The City of Handsome Fontanels and Beautiful Women," has now been a center of such interest as not since the thirteenth century, when the conclave which resulted in the election of Theodore Visconti as Gregory X met in the Episcopal palace here and continued in session for two years and nine months, during which time it was the scene of unending violence and bloodshed, among the murdered being the English Prince Henry.

At the present time it is a criminal trial instead of a conclave which attracts the interest of the whole world. The leaders of the dreaded Neapolitan Camorra are about to be judged and the case may rival in duration the conclave of 1271 with the difference that while then the people removed the roof of the Episcopal palace to force the cardinals to come to a decision, there is now no way according to Italian legislation to shorten procedure of the courts.

Long Trial. It is expected that the trial will occupy one year unless there is a postponement. It will open on March 12. Already through the city of Viterbo, making arrangements for accommodations in the town and the authorities are busy perfecting elaborate police and military precautions against interference on the part of the thousands of friends of the forty-one prisoners, many of them desperate men. The testimony of 450 witnesses has been prepared by the state. No one knows to what revelations his testimony may lead, or what ramifications in official life the exposure of the Camorra may have.

Story of Crime and Remorse. The voluminous documents in the case reveal a story more engaging than romance. It is the result of four years of police work. It shows that Gennaro Cuocolo, upon whose murder the case was built, was not only a notorious criminal, but also a rival in the Camorra of its alleged head, Enrico Alfano, also known as Ericone. His body, bearing many stab wounds, was found at Torre Del Greco, a suburb of Naples, on June 7, 1906. He appeared to have died in a duel, but there were no ashes on the dancing pumps of the handsome and well dressed victim, though the Neapolitan sahas were knee-deep about the place. It was plain that the body has been brought to the place and so murder was established. Identification failed until a certain cavalier, Cuocolo, recognized the body as that of his brother's son.

"He was bound to finish like this," the uncle exclaimed. "Ever since his boyhood he had given himself up to light larceny and had companions and was anything but an honor to his family. His father died of a broken heart. Gennaro soon dissipated his fortune and almost ruined his younger brother. He was interdicted and given 300 francs a month, which should have enabled him to live decently, but he continued to follow his evil ways to the point of marrying a woman of doubtful character, Maria Cutinelli, who was a beauty of the people, called 'The Beautiful Sorrentino,' as she came from Sorrento. It must be she who has involved him in some new infamy in which he has lost his life."

The body of "The Beautiful Sorrentino," horribly mutilated, was found in their pretty apartment a few steps from the royal palace. Then was begun a police inquiry that uncovered the greatest criminal conspiracy of modern times and which led unquestionably to the assassination of the New York detective, Lieutenant Joseph Petrosino.

Money for Western Cities. The house today passed items in the sundry civil appropriation bill carrying appropriations of $15,000 for purchase of sites for new public buildings at Chadron and Alliance, Neb. Last session Representative Kinkaid secured in the general omnibus public building bill authorization for the expenditure of $15,000 each for sites at Chadron and Alliance, and following it up today obtained the appropriation for sites in these Nebraska cities.

Should amendments to the appropriation bill be adopted relative to the increase of postage on certain classes of magazines, it will affect but two publications in Nebraska, while four will be affected in Iowa, and twenty-six benefited by a new ruling as to fraternal and scientific publications.

Senator Gamble was today advised by the general land office that the removal of the land office from Aberdeen to Timber Lake will be made May 1. The census bureau has announced the population of Orleans, Harlan county, to be 82, as compared with 68 in 1900 and 813 in 1906.

HENRY L. AUSTIN IS DEAD Wealthy Iowaan, Injured in Auto Smashup, Expires of His Wounds.

WATERLOO, Ia., Feb. 25.—(Special Telegram.)—Henry L. Austin, victim of an automobile wreck, died Saturday noon. The accident occurred Wednesday afternoon when a string of Great Western freight cars crushed him and his seven-passenger auto into a space two feet wide. Part of a coal shed had to be moved to extricate him. Death was caused by failure of circulation of blood through the wounded parts. Mr. Austin was one of the wealthiest men in the county and is survived by a widow and three children, Walter G. Austin, Charles W. Austin and Mrs. Alice Patterson, all of Austinville, Ia., the town he founded.

The funeral will be held in Waterloo, burial at Austinville.

EIGHT-HOUR BILL IS LOST Wyoming Legislative Measure Regarding Hours of Employment of Women Cannot Be Passed.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Feb. 25.—(Special.)—It was generally supposed that the bill regulating employment of women and girls in laundries, restaurants, shops and factories in Wyoming and restricting their employment to eight hours per day had become a law, but such is not the case. The bill disappeared during the closing hours of the recent session of the legislature.

On the last day of the legislature the bill

after a bitter fight in the last session, has not been very hopeful during the last few days, but thinks there is still a fair chance of passing his measure.

Near Limit for New Bills. If there are any new or startling sorts of legislation to be attempted at this session, they must make their appearance during the next three days.

Friday was the thirty-seventh day of the session and 542 bills had been introduced up to that time. On the corresponding day of last year there were only 464 in the house and at the close there 573.

The house will this year exceed its mark of 1909 by one hundred bills, but the senate seems very likely to fall short. The total number last year in the senate was 408 and on the thirty-seventh day 354 had been introduced.
