INCENDIARY PLOT THWARTED

Attempt Made to Destroy Italian Tenement and Grocery.

OIL-SOAKED TORCHES FOUND

Plan Discovered Proposed Explosion of Tank of Gasoline Close to Sleeping Men—Building Crowded with Families.

Incendiary fire and a possible attempt at double murder were discovered at an Italian grocery store, 164 North Twentieth street, at 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

Torches soaked in oil were placed against the ceiling of the basement directly under a tank of gasoline standing on the floor above. But a thin layer of flooring separated the explosive fluid from the flames.

Four families, each including several children, occupy the apartments above the store. Two men were sleeping in a room against the wall where the gasoline tank stood. Firemen aroused the sleepers only after repeated efforts.

When the fire department arrived the blaze was easily controlled. An investigation by J. C. Trouton, fire warden, and Chief Miller of the department revealed the cause of the fire. A quantity of waste soaked in fish oil was wired to the ceiling of the cellar. The work indicated care and deliberate plans for the destruction of the building.

Sereno Crisid and Sebastian Mandola operated a butcher shop and grocery on the first floor of the structure.

The fire warden will make further investigation of the case Monday. The actual loss is less than $100.

MC'COOK AFTER NEW SCHOOL

Commercial Club Points Out Advantages of City as Site for Agricultural College.

MC'COOK, Neb., April 2.—(Special Telegram.)—Quite an interest is concentrating in southwestern Nebraska about the location of the agricultural college, and McCook and the western portion of the district embraced within the provisions of the bill are keenly interested in the location of the school here.

One of the most earnest and enthusiastic meetings ever held among the members of the McCook Commercial club and McCook citizens generally was that of Friday night. A. Galusha, chairman; P. A. Pennell, vice chairman; Earl Cona, secretary; L. W. McConnell, J. Walsh, J. R. Stanbery, L. W. McConnell and Charles Skalka were constituted executive committee, with absolute liberty in appointing sub-committees and conducting a winning campaign for McCook.

It is especially encouraged over the offers of assistance from all over the district, and these, in addition to the unequalled claims of position, best sugar, cotton, irrigation and dry farming, diversity of soils, etc., all make a proposition which seems impossible of evasion.

SESSION ENDS IN WEEK

Nebraska Legislature Today Enters on Final Work.

MESSAGE ON SUNDAY

Governor Will Probably Make Recommendations that May Result in Compromise on the Measure.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Neb., April 2.—(Special Telegram.)—Within a week the thirty-second Nebraska legislature will adjourn. It has labored and retired to home and constituents. One member, Moody of Logan county, has already departed for good and everybody is getting restless. The date set for final adjournment is April 6, Thursday, but the actual work will probably not be concluded until Saturday, and the stopped clock will be necessary until the adjournment is joint agreement. As far as the senate is concerned the members would be willing to cease their labors tomorrow, but the house has many unfinished plans and projects still unfinished and has patience to stay a few days more.

The legislative year book, the catalogue of members and officials of both houses, which usually makes an appearance at about this time during the session, is out and the lawmakers are eagerly scanning their copies to get a glance at their pictures and read the cheerfully chosen words in which they modestly set forth their own virtues. Each man wrote his own biography, a fact which some of them might be unwilling to admit. One attaché was so exceedingly humorous at his own expense that the editor of the book, A. R. Harvey, put a foot note on the bottom of the story to protect himself from the man's friends.

ALDRICH GIVES HIS REASONS. Special Message to Legislature Tells Why He Voted Bill Lengthening Term.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Neb., April 2.—(Special Telegram.)—Following is the text of the governor's message concerning the controversy about the South Omaha school board:

"I have no official signature and approval of the bill because it is a purely legislative matter in its nature. There is no necessity shown for amending the bill. The bill is an annotated Statute of Nebraska for the year 1910, and the original section as it is now reads:

"Second. The provisions and the object and intent of said statute are simply to meet an alleged condition in the city of South Omaha, and that condition is simply this: That the officers of certain members of the school board are such famous old timers as Charles Heed, who paid $100,000 for the Derby winner, St. Blaise; Billy Ditch, who once broke the bank at Monte Carlo; Harry A. Percy, C. K. G. Billings, the trotting expert; Prof. Hermann, the magician, who despite his dexterity at cards never had a winning poker session, and many others.

Washington will spend his summers hereafter, it is expected, in one of the finest sections of Long Island—a neighborhood where many wealthy New Yorkers have large estates. He has just purchased the J. Cornell Brown property, overlooking Long Island sound, at Fort Salonga, in the town of Huntington.

The sale to Washington was made through William J. Fallon of Manhattan, after several transfers of the property. The property consists of two and one-half acres with 200 feet of front on the sound. The land is on a knoll and commands a fine view.

Not far away is a tract formerly owned by the late duchess of Marlborough, and maintained as her American home. There she resided during a part of each year, in order to retain her property rights in America.

For near neighbors Washington will have Francis B. Swaine, a prominent lawyer, Miss Farman, niece of the late Bishop Potter; Dr. Killeen, a New York physician; C. O. Wetmore and H. D. Tremain. Washington's purchase is near the famous Indian Head farm, owned for many years by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Brown.

ELECTRIC AND STEAM ROADS MUST EXCHANGE TRAFFIC. Interstate Commerce Commission Announces Decision Involving New Principle.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Interstate traffic must be exchanged between electric and steam railroads, where otherwise shippers would be compelled to make a long wagon haul of the traffic in order to reach the steam railroad.

This was the effect of a decision today by the Interstate Commerce commission in the case of the Chesapeake & Columbia Traction company against the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern railroad and other carriers.

The principle stated by the commission is new and will be made generally applicable in cases where electrically operated lines require switching connection with steam railroads in order to handle interstate traffic.

B. Priestley & Co. BRADFORD, ENGLAND

FIRST FEW GRAY HAIRS MAY BE POSTPONED. A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as the heralds of advancing age.

Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age, for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is unnatural and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day.

If everything is right with Nature, the hair, even in comparatively elderly people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak of gray. The ideal assistant to Nature in restoring and preserving the hair is Verrill's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a clean and wholesome dressing for daily use. It not only removes dandruff but strengthens weak, thin and falling hair and promotes its growth. A few applications will restore faded or gray hair to its natural color and keep it where it belongs.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle and is recommended and sold by Sherman & McConnell Drug Co., and Owl Drug Co.
