An audience that filled every seat in the auditorium of the First Baptist church, held last night the lecture given by Dr. Miller of the Union Pacific Railroad company on wireless telegraphy. Prof. Miller made things very clear and those who had the electric energy, known as the Marconi waves, was a profound mystery had it explained to them so clearly that it was easy for them to grasp the explanations of wireless apparatus that followed.

The funeral of little Ruth Bellinger, only child of Dr. and Mrs. M. F. Bellinger, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Dr. Bellinger's residence, 218 Oakland avenue. The pallbearers were four cousins, Mel, Steve, Earl and E. Miller. Rev. Dr. Marcus P. McCullough had charge of the services. It was a private funeral, only relatives and friends were present.

George Staff, indicted for breaking into a Wabash freight car and stealing all of the shoes he could conveniently carry, pleaded guilty when called for trial in the district court yesterday. Judge J. M. Pierce gave him an indeterminate sentence of five years in Anamosa. William Smith, the shoe clerk caught stealing shoes from S. A. Pierce & Co., also pleaded guilty and received a sentence of thirty days in the county jail. Smith stole as many shoes as Staff, in fact more, but J. M. Pierce, the head of the firm, interceded strongly in his behalf.

The funeral of Rev. T. McK. Stuart was one of the largest ever held in Council Bluffs. The auditorium and the balconies of the First Methodist church, where it was held, were filled. All of the clergymen from the local churches and nearly all from the three cities were present. Among the clergymen from other towns were Rev. A. E. Miller, of Harlan; Rev. E. Conroy, Silver City; Rev. W. N. Weaver, Glenwood; Rev. A. L. Curtis, Missouri Valley; Rev. Thomas Aton, Underwood; and Rev. Mr. Goodell of Glenwood. The services were impressive and beautiful. The reading by Rev. St. Grant Lewis, of Fifth Avenue Methodist church, was followed by prayer by Dr. Curtis. Rev. Mr. Baxter gave a biographical sketch and spoke of his influence on the conference. Rev. Mr. Miller of Harlan, paid an earnest tribute to his character as a man and as a clergyman. Rev. Mr. Graves spoke on "His Influence on My Life," and told how he had been brought through the ministry of Dr. Stuart to see the true light. Rev. James M. Williams, pastor of the church, spoke on "Our Relations To God." All of the talks were marked by an intensity of earnestness. The special music was furnished by a mixed quartet, Ralph Anderson, Lyle McPadden, Alice Fintel and Fred H. Snow, with Buckler at the great organ. خاک pallbearers were all chosen from Dr. Stuart's Bible class. They were Professor Hammond, F. H. Fintel, J. A. Deffenbaugh, G. W. McFarland and R. N. Weiff.

Council Bluffs

WIRES MUST GO UNDERGROUND

City Council Will Pass Ordinance Requiring This Change.

GAS COMPANY IS IN THE CLEAR

Wire Companies Have Not Great Deal to Do to Comply, but Water Company Has Let Matters Drift.

Mayor Maloney and Chairman Fisher of the council committee on telephone and telegraph have written to the general superintendents of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies notifying them that an ordinance will be passed at the meeting of the council on Monday night requiring all wires on Broadway to be placed underground in advance of the paving. Assurances have been given the mayor by the officers of the wire companies that they will construct subways whenever ordered to do so. All of the city's fire and police alarm wires that traverse the street are strung on poles, and these will have to go underground as well as the others. It is feared that unless the wire companies evince an unusually hearty interest in getting the poles out of the way and putting corresponding delays of the paving. The subways must all be completed before the paving work starts at the city.

The gas company is the only corporation that has paid any attention to the appeal of the mayor and city council for every property owner on Broadway in the district to be removed to put in connections if desired and repair others if needed. The gas company has taken no chances, but has renewed every service pipe connecting with its mains on both sides of the street. Extra heavy galvanized inch pipe has been used, and all of the valves and connections are of brass. Connections have been made at the curb with business lot on the street, and the gas company will have no occasion whatever to tear up the new paving.

The telephone companies are practically in the same shape, and can distribute their wires to all patrons on the street without disturbing the pavement. The water company has made no attempt to comply with the appeal, and the water pipes all along Broadway are in bad condition. The connections with the water main in the street are all of lead and have not been examined since they were laid more than thirty years ago. The pipes are breaking now with great regularity, and it is only a question of time when all of the lead connections will give way. The appeal of the mayor to the business men to have this work done at once has passed unheeded so far. Not a single water connection has been made since the appeal was issued. If asphalt or cement is used as a binder the pavement cannot be taken up without irreparable injury, and several of the aldermen have suggested the passage of an ordinance prohibiting the opening of the pavement for any purpose for a period of five years except to repair a broken pipe.

WILL GRANT THE REQUEST OF NEW INTERURBAN LINE

Application Made for Permission to Install "Y" Granted by Committee of Whole.

The city council as a committee of the whole investigated the request of the Iowa & Omaha Short Line, the new interurban that is coming into town via the Iowa School for the Deaf, for permission to construct a large "Y" at Twenty-third avenue, one leg extending up South Eighth street to Twenty-first street and the other crossing over to South Eighth street. The base line of the "Y" connects with the Burlington and its apex coincides with the main combination tracks of all the railroads, also connecting with the Wabash main line at Twenty-first avenue.

No railroad tracks are crossed, but several of the principal waterways for the escape of storm water from the southern part of the city will be interfered with. The council decided to grant the request provided the proper crossings were constructed and interference not made with the escape of the water in flood times.

The company has now all of the terminal facilities desired without the expense and trouble of getting a charter from the city. A charter granted several years ago could have been revived, but the company, which is the Omaha & Council Bluffs Street Railway company, chose the easier way. All of the stock and merchandise cars can be switched directly upon the tracks of Iowa lines and the passenger coaches will run up Pearl and Main street to Broadway and then turn on the Omaha main line and be run directly around the loop in Omaha.

POULTRY FANCIERS MUST PICK OUT NEW NAME

Will Hold Meeting Next Week to Choose Another Title for the Organization.

The poultry association that was formed last Monday night will have to change its name. "The Mid-West Poultry association" is already appropriated by an organization that has long been in existence in Chicago and is in the national ranks of the biggest and best of the group of fine fanciers who gathered at No. 3 fire house Monday night. It was chosen without a dissenting vote. Yesterday the Chicago association notified the Bluffs men that they would have to change the name of their association or there would be something doing.

President W. S. Keefline has decided to hold a meeting for some evening next week when a new name will be selected. The members want something more pretentious than "The Western Iowa Poultry association," and there will be several names suggested.

The association is beginning to grow. A number of letters were received yesterday from chicken men residing in other towns in the western part of the state, including the required admission fee and asking to be made members of the organization. Some of the letters suggest that the membership fee is too small and say that it should have been made $5 and that he would bring a fine lot of chickens to Council Bluffs next winter when the association got ready to hold its exposition.

Omaha Girl Secures Good Position at Washington

MISS FLORENCE POAST.

Miss Florence Poast who has successfully coped with the civil service commission and been awarded a position as stenographer in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., expects to leave Omaha April 18, to take up her new work, which will be in the Bureau of American Ethnology.

At the time of her appointment, Miss Poast was stenographer in the office of P. L. Martin, lawyer. Her experience in stenography has been extensive and has been gained in Omaha where she has lived practically all her life.

Miss Poast began her stenographic work in 1902. Since then she has juggled with the intricate signs which are the shorthand short cuts in the different mercantile branches. First she wrote the letters for a installation furniture house, then she aided in managing a hotel, that is, wrote the manager's letters to the world. Then she worked in the mat terms and was in the office both of the Armour and the Cudahy packing companies.

For the last two years she has been stenographer to Paul L. Martin, at the Creighton College of Law. She took the civil service examination last September and was then offered a position in the collector of internal revenue's office, but declined this position, and has now been awarded for waiting.

FORMAL DINNER IN NORWAY

Men Eat in the Dining Room and Women Alone in the Drawing Room.

An American woman whose European wanderings last summer included Norway was lucky enough to receive an invitation to a formal dinner in the latter country. In a letter to the Epicure she tells the story of the dinner beginning with the throwing open of the doors at 8 o'clock.

"As the chief guests of the evening," she says, "we were forced to precede the eighty others and as the signal was given we found ourselves impelled forward, the ladies flocked behind while the gentlemen remained seated in the great drawing room."

"Then we were confronted with a serious problem—what to do. None of us knew, for facing us were three substantially covered tables with no chairs before them. Then appeared a guardian angel who whispered, 'Do as I do,' and with that she began helping herself.

"Plates of plates, napkins, knives and forks appeared at intervals down the tables, and taking one of each we fled back to the drawing room, from which we had come, where, in the meantime the servants had arranged many small tables. We seated ourselves with our impediments, only to find that the gentlemen in turn had disappeared and were comfortably seated in the dining room, having first choice of the various dishes which were afterward presented to us."

"First there was a delicious soup with forcemeat balls floating in it; then a bewildering variety of made dishes, but popularly the chief vegetable offered. The chief water took us in charge and often took our forks from our hands in order to transfer himself to our plates some especially dainty tidbit from the dish he carried.

"Course followed course of these made-as-it-came dishes, followed in turn by dishes and these were followed in turn by cakes and puddings were marvels of richness and delicacy. Norwegian cream is like Alder-cream, thick and golden, and this was used in great profusion, likewise eggs, often twenty to thirty being required in the making of a single pudding, and as the housewife would throw up her hands at their lavish use.

"Various wines accompanied the dinner, and shortly after the feast began the host proposed a toast after having first drunk 'Velkommen' to all. And then our names were given with 'Velkommen to Norge,' or 'Welcome to Norway,' followed by a seemingly interminable list embracing all the guests. At the end everybody advanced to the hostess and shook hands, saying, 'Tak for Maden,' ('Thanks for the repast'), and in return received the answer, 'Velkommen,' or 'May it agree with you.'

"Then like a Chinese mandarin everybody bowed to everybody else, and when coffee was served it was the same, and at last came the farewell with the never-to-be-forgotten form, 'Tak for idag,' or 'Thanks for today.' Following the dinner came many national games in which old and young joined, then at midnight a supper of sweets and wine. Fruit and coffee was served and the adieux were made at a late hour with the accompanying thanks and finally a last good night or 'Tak for Sildst.'"

D., April 7.—(Special.)—After suffering terribly for a period of one week, Miss Elizabeth Fike, who was seriously burned at Morris town, as the result of her clothing catching fire, has succumbed to her injuries. At the time of her death she was the owner of a homestead in the ceded portion of the Cheyenne River Indian reservation near Morris town.

HUNGARIAN TIPS ON LONG LIFE

World-Famed Doctor Gives the Rules for Crossing the Century Mark.

In his book, lately published in the American language and translated into almost every modern tongue, Dr. Lorand says that from recent reports of the register offices of Austria, Germany, France and England it appears that we are justified in assuming that though life is usually limited to 65 to 70 years, it may occasionally be prolonged to 100, or even more, by the operation of certain internal and external agencies, says the British Medical Journal.

By studying these, we may eventually be able to prolong the lives of many individuals of meat alters the ductless glands.

Take large quantities of milk, this being the extract and highly ventilated, especially that of the thyroid.

Be as much as possible in the open air, and especially in the sunshine, and take plenty of exercise, taking care to breathe deeply and regularly.

Take a bath daily, and, in addition, once a week or every two weeks take a Turkish or vapor bath.

Wear porous clothing, light hat and low shoes.

Sleep in a very dark, very quiet room and with a window open, and do not sleep less than six or more than seven and a half hours.

Have one complete day's rest in each week, without even reading or writing.

Avoid mental disturbances or worries.

Be temperate in the use of alcohol and also in the use of coffee or tea.

Avoid places that are oversteered, especially by steam, and badly ventilated.

Replace or reinforce the functions of the ductless glands beyond 80 or even 90, and to prolong our term of usefulness by ten or twenty years. We need no longer grow old at 60 or 65. This can be brought about by improving the functions of a certain few of the glandular structures of the body, provided one or more of the main organs have not already been too gravely compromised by incurable organic disorders.

To prevent old age coming on too soon, Try it yourself, and see.

HENDERSON'S FRIENDS HAPPY

Word of Election of Council Bluffs Man Highly Gratifying to Many in City.

The announcement from Des Moines last evening that Robert Henderson, for years the editorial writer for the Nonparell, had been elected state printer caused much satisfaction here. There was a field of half a dozen candidates, some of them skilled and shrewd politicians, and it was Mr. Henderson's first essay into the political field. He was no politician and had to rely upon his native merit and the promises of friends.

The change of ownership of the Nonparell left Mr. Henderson without a position. He would have stood a good chance of being appointed postmaster had it not been for the complete loss of his hearing, a rule of the department operating to bar him.

He is a living testimonial of the effect of his remedy. The photograph truthfully shows the terrible effects of the racking pains of rheumatism, but today he is enjoying the fruits of his discovery. His life is now a life of ease and comfort. When only a youth, the disease came chronic with him. He suffered under it about 20 years, and after spending $30,000 for medicines, doctors and experiments, he finally discovered the remedy which completely cured him.

He now offers to send any rheumatic sufferer a free package of the same, and he has literally busied himself with letters of gratitude and proof of his remedy. Address: S. T. Delano, Dept. 131, Delano Building, Syracuse, N. Y.
