Ex-Governor of Kansas Writes of the Hit the Judge Made in His Chautauqua Lecture.

Judge Lee Estelle of the district court, who delivered a chautauqua lecture at Marion, Kan., a week ago, received a highly complimentary letter on his address Friday morning from his friend, ex-Governor E. W. Hoch, a resident of that city. The ex-governor writes the judge that he took a sort of a straw ballot on the three, hest lectures delivered during the chautauqua, which lasted nine days, with many public men on the programs, and that of all the rest Judge Estelle's name was the only one that appeared on every ballot. "In my judgment," says ex-Governor "no one held the crowd as spellbound as you did."
