The feminine members of the Field, Happy Hollow and Country clubs are giving over the dates on their social calendars to the events of the second annual national clay court championship tournament at the Field club this week.

The matches of the big tourney with its 120 visiting players from over the country is the drawing card for the afternoon and bridge parties, have taken a back seat, while the women in their daintiest gowns and hats fill the gallery at the Field club. Most of the week's luncheons and dinners will also be at the club.

The younger women are especially interested in the Wednesday and Saturday evening dances at the club, when the visiting men will be the guests. And they also have been promised spectators seats at the ping pong tourney which will be given for the men on Tuesday evening.

The vaudeville Thursday evening given at Happy Hollow for the visitors will be one of the features of their entertainments. Judge Howard Kennedy has charge of the affair and has arranged the following program:

Potter and McGuire, mandolin and banjo artists.

Mrs. H. O. Steel, contralto.

Harry Hanger, piano rag.

Charles Gardner, baritone.

Miss Daisy Davis, impersonator.

Pupils of Prof. Chambers, specialty dancing.

Mrs. Grace Clark Parks of Lincoln, lyric soprano.

Dr. Z. D. Clark, specialty of his own.

Monday evening the players will be the guests of Ak-Sar-Ben and Friday will be given a smoker at the Field club.

Dancing promises to be more than ever a feature of the coming season's pleasures. Most of the dancing clubs have set the dates for their parties, which will be held at Chambers' academy, twenty-fifth and Farnam streets, and a new school of aesthetic dancing will be opened at the Metropolitan club on Harney street by Mr. Willard E. Chambers, who has taken the club.

According to Mr. Chambers this season's dancing will be more dignified than that of last year. All "mucky" dancing, turkey trotting and gyrations of all kinds are to be strictly tabooed. Among the new dances which will be tried in Omaha are the Spanish schottische, invented by Mr. Chambers, The Elm and the Mexican. There will also be some of the fencer dances such as the astor, butterfly, colored schottische, harvard, ostende, sicilian and polka.

In addition to aesthetic and classical dancing and swimming lessons, which will be given by Miss Cooper of Council Bluffs, a graduate of the Gilbert and Russian schools, Mr. Chambers will present the history of classical dancing in one of the theaters.

The Omniclub club will give its dances at Chambers' academy October 28, November 2, December 2, February 2 and April 2.

The Quil Vives have selected the following dates for their parties: November 3 and 17, December 1, 15 and 29; January 12 and 15, February 9 and 23, March 8.

The Week End club will dance November 11 and 25, December 5 and 19, January 2 and 16, February 9 and 23, March 8 and 22, April 5 and 19.

The Capitol Hill club will dance November 4 and 18, December 2 and 16, January 11 and 25, February 10 and 24, March 9 and 23, April 6 and 20.

The Creighton seniors will hold their annual party November 22, the High school seniors December 22, High school juniors January 26 and Cadet Officers' club February 16.

The Friday Night club will give fifteen night dances during the year on dates not yet set. The A-Vers, the Creighton Medics and the Knights of Pythias have not set the dates for their dances.

You all know the regulation bride-who who dons her trousseau finery, her chiffons and margarites and flits from luncheons to bridge parties and from bridge to dinners and dances. You all know her.

Now let us introduce you to a brand new type of bride-who who dons a big blue and white checkered apron and goes out into the kitchen of her brand new home and bakes and brews with a devotion that would delight the heart of faithful housewives of the past generation.

For a wave of domesticity has swept over the Omaha brides. Such is their enthusiasm that they are not only pursuing the gentle art of cooking to please the palates of their spouses, but they even make early morning trips in their machines to the market on Eleventh street, pick out their fruits and vegetables and go home laden with potatoes, corn and baskets of pums and tomatoes.

None of these domestically inclined brides has ever studied domestic science, but all are learning by the experience method. Four of them are doing their own work, according to the services of a maid. And although they declare that they have the best of luck, occasional stories of bread that didn't rise, or jelly that forgot to jell, or coffee that boiled over while the fair mistress was interviewing the koman, do get abroad.

One of these brides, who is a musician of ability, decided one bright morning to make a batch of cookies. She started out bravely, following the recipe in her pretty new cook book. One little round cookie after another she cut and baked from her stack full of yellow dough. But somehow the dough seemed to be bewitched. It would not diminish. And it was only after every platter and plate in her pantry were filled to overflowing with golden cookies that the task was finished. The recipe she had followed was meant for a family of ten. So now this bride is

Let Them Learn Now --Hospe Helps You-- The young man and woman whose parents were good to them in their childhood days and had them learn to play a piano, possess an advantage which gives them high position in society. The young man who is thinking about marriage wants a wife who can play a piano. The young man who can play a piano may move in good society—his accomplishment paves the way. There is absolutely no doubt that a piano education gives a young man and woman an advantage which aids them in their social attainments. Parents sometimes neglect to educate the children in music because they feel they cannot afford the expense. Hospe's "pay while you play" plan makes it possible for the parent of most modest income to give his girl or boy a piano training. Hospe charges nothing for a slightly used piano on which the beginners learn. Through these are priced from $60.00 to $100.00 they cost nothing when you are through with them if you buy a new instrument. The cost of the first is applied on the second.
