IOWA FARMER LIVES EASY

All the Comforts of Home as Seen Near Council Bluffs.

TELEPHONES PLACED AS NEEDED

Clever Arrangements for Increasing Comfort and Decreasing Labor Are Seen Everywhere on Farms.

Date Farm of H. Fahlender.

The comfort and convenience of the life of the American farmer at the present stage of progress was well illustrated by what a Council Bluffs man saw yesterday on the farm of H. Fahlender on R. F. D. No. 1, just across the line in Mills county.

A gasoline engine was driving the cream separator, the family washing machine and pumping water into an elevated tank that supplied a high efficiency water system to all parts of the house, lawn and barn.

While the Council Bluffs man was out in the field talking to the farmer he was asked to stay for dinner and it thus became necessary to apprise the housewife of the presence of the guest. The farmer stepped up to a wire fence, attached a small pocket telephone to the two top wires and "called up the house."

Mr. Fahlender's oldest son had taken a course in electrical work in Omaha, and has equipped the big farm with all of the handy little electrical devices. He insisted and advised the two top wires on all of the barbed wire fences on the farm and furnished each of the men a pocket telephone. All that is necessary when any of them want to call the house is to go to the nearest fence, plug in and call up.

The connection rings a big gong outside the house that can be heard a long distance. All the women folks or others about the house have to do is to step up to the fence or the wire leading to it, which forms the family clothes line, and answer up. When these at the house desire to call any person at work in the fields signals are given on the big dinner bell. The dinner bell itself is one of the steel discs from a big disc harrow. It is mounted, crowding side downward, on the top of a tall staggpole. A striker actuated by a strong spring is operated by a key from the ground, and the whole telegraph code can be decoded off in tones that can be heard on every part of the farm.

The funeral of Gus T. Sauer will be held Saturday afternoon at an hour yet to be fixed. The body will arrive from Des Moines accompanied by the father and younger brother this afternoon. M. S. Burke, president of the Henry Adair Mining company, where Gus Sauer had been employed for the last three years, arrived here from Chicago yesterday and will remain until after the funeral.

F. Smith and A. T. Brooks, two men from Oklahoma City, are in the city jail awaiting a hearing on the charge of being drunk and disturbing the peace.

The trouble occurred soon after they reached town and stopped at a South Main street drug store where they employed a lawyer and secured a continuance until this morning's session of the police court. Neither could the $200 bond required and both went to jail.

Mrs. J. S. Bryan, 242 High avenue, Louisville, has been visiting in this city. Her husband, who is a traveling salesman representing the firm of G. Scribner & Co., 22 Randolph street, Chicago, in her letter she says Mr. Bryan's father is seriously ill and the family is very anxious to get into communication with him. He is believed to be in the portion of his territory, located near Council Bluffs.

An apple about four feet long and one inch in diameter, bearing fifty huge Wolf River apples, making more than a bushel, was brought to town yesterday and placed in the window of the J. W. Smith & Co. store on Broadway. The weight of the crop was a greater load than it could bear and it broke under the strain, despite the props that had been placed to help bear its burden. It was grown on the farm of Joe Hancock, in the present road just outside the city limits. Orchardists report hundreds of trees around Council Bluffs had will bear fifty or more bushels each.

No word has been received from the relatives of Blanche Ferguson, the young girl who was taken in custody from Iowa.

Never use late to enter the Bookkeepers' Contest.
