ANNUAL MAY CLEANUP DAY

Mayor Dahlgren Names Wednesday as Time to Start.

EVERYBODY ASKED TO DO IT

Street Commissioner Will Assist in the Movement and Remove All Accumulation from the Streets Thursday.

Wednesday is spring "clean-up" day and every person in the city is supposed to make other business on that day a secondary matter. Mayor Dahlgren Monday morning issued a proclamation that May 1 would be the day to clean up yards, vacant lots and alleys. He requests every one to lay aside ordinary cares and labor and direct attention to cleaning up the city. The street commissioner will remove all accumulations of rubbish on Thursday, May 2.

The Proclamation.

Following is the mayor's proclamation To the People of Omaha: Spring is here and the rubbish that has gathered during the winter should be removed. As mayor of the city, I request that on Wednesday, May 1, of this year, every one lay aside ordinary cares and labor and direct your attention to the cleaning up of your yards, alleys and vacant lots; also those owning property that is being used for billboard purposes—they must be cleaned up.

I hope that the press, the schools and all others in the city will join in raising public sentiment toward making this one grand clean-up day.

A city is as its people make it—if we all do our duty our city will be beautiful. Upon notification the street commissioner will remove all accumulations of rubbish on Thursday, May 2.

JAMES C. DAHLGREN, Mayor.

REVOLVER DUEL TERMINATES FATALLY FOR PRINCIPALS

MARTIN'S FERRY, O., April 29.—In a revolver duel here today Earl Shaffer, aged 45, was instantly killed and Philip Smith, aged 35, badly wounded. Smith died in a hospital a short time later. Mrs. Earl Shaffer and her son, Robert, by a former marriage, are in custody. Smith formerly lived at the Shaffer home but left recently at the request of Shaffer, who was a well known mill man. Smith was a teamster.

Shaffer is alleged to have heard last night that Smith and Mrs. Shaffer were going driving today. Shortly before noon Shaffer visited the Pike road and waited. Soon two bugles came along. Smith and Mrs. Shaffer, with her son, occupied the first, and Mrs. Shaffer and her son were in the second. Without warning, it is said, Shaffer stepped into the road and commenced shooting at Smith, who promptly returned the fire.

Shaffer fell, shot through the heart, while Smith, wounded several times through the body, was driven to a hospital at Wheeling, W. Va., where he died. Shaffer's body was left lying by the roadside until recognized by the authorities.

Three revolvers were found at the scene of the shooting. Two were empty while one full cartridge remained in the third. To whom the third revolver belonged has not been definitely decided.

Nestlebusch alighted from a southbound Twenty-fourth street car and was crossing the tracks in the rear of it when he was struck by a northbound Hancock park car.

LINCOLN WRITES CENSURE

Son of Martyred President Criticizes and Condemns Roosevelt.

FATHER'S WORDS PERVERTED

Never, Even in Great Crisis, Did He Assail Judiciary—Would Have Abhorred the Proposed Plan.

ON BOARD PRESIDENT TAFT'S TRAIN, NEWARK, N. J., April 29.—On his way north to carry the fight into Massachusetts, President Taft last night made public a letter from Robert T. Lincoln, son of President Lincoln, in which Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is criticized and condemned for what Mr. Lincoln declares is perversion of the truth.

"My personal feelings," the letter read, "are unimportant, but I am not only impatient but indignant that President Lincoln's words and plain views should be perverted and misapplied before trusting people into support of doctrines which I believe he would abhor, living."

Mr. Lincoln's letter was written, he says, in answer to a request for an opinion of "repeated assertions by Mr. Roosevelt that his attitude on certain radical doctrines is supported by the recorded views" of the martyred president.

The letter in part follows:

"The government under which my father lived was, as it is now, a republic, or representative democracy checked by the constitution which can be changed by the people, but only when acting by methods which compel deliberation and exclude so far as possible the effect of passionate and shortsighted impulse. A government in which the checks of an established constitution are actually or practically omitted—one in which the people act in a mass directly on all questions and not through their chosen representatives is an unchecked democracy, a form of government so full of danger as shown by history, that it has ceased to exist in communities small and concentrated as to space. A New England town meeting may be good, but such a government in a large city or state would be chaos.

Means Revolution.

"As I understand it, the essence of Mr. Roosevelt's proposal is that we shall adopt the latter form of government in place of the existing form. This in simple words is a proposed revolution, peaceful perhaps, but a revolution, in support of these revolutionary doctrines, which, if successful, would abolish the form and spirit of our existing government and surely, I think, lead to attempted dictatorship, resort is had to what is claimed to be the words and teachings of President Lincoln.

"President Lincoln wrote many letters, made many public addresses and was the author of many documents. I do not know of the existence in any of them of a word of censure or of complaint of our government or of the methods by which it was carried on. He was sincerely and faithfully obedient to our constitution. In the single act for which he is most remembered—the issuance of the emancipation proclamation, he expressly supported it as an act warranted by the constitution upon military necessity.

Faithful to Constitution.

"On one public occasion he described the effect of the counting of slaves in congressional and electoral representation. In comment he said:

"'Now all this is manifestly unfair; yet I do not mention it to complain of it in the constitution and I do not for that cause, or any other cause, propose to destroy, or alter or disregard the constitution. I stand to it fairly, fully and firmly.'

"He hated slavery, but his reverence for the constitution and law was such that he said publicly again and again, if a member of congress he would faithfully support a fugitive slave law.

"His attitude toward the Dred-Scott decision is urged as in support of the pernicious project for the recall by popular vote of judges and of judicial decisions.

Loyal to Judiciary.

"He thought it an erroneous decision, but his chief point in reference to it was not its error, but that it indicated a scheme, and was a part of it, for the nationalization of human slavery. He never suggested a change in our government under which the judges who made it should be recalled, but said that he would resist it politically by voting, if in his power, for an act prohibiting slavery in United States territory and then endeavor to have the act sustained in a new proceeding by the same court reversing itself.

"Is there to be found here, or anywhere else, support for a project to abolish the essential elements or any elements of our constitution? And yet he is cited in support of such action.

The Gettysburg "Prayer."

"He loved the government under which he lived and when at Gettysburg he prayed (if I may use that word) that a government of the people, by the people, and for the people may not perish from the earth. He meant and could only mean that government under which he lived, a representative government of balanced executive, legislative and judicial parts and not something entirely different—an unchecked democracy.

"These often quoted words of President Lincoln are now deliberately altered and arguments founded on their altered form.

"I may be permitted to say that I do not think the public wishes the Gettysburg speech to be rewritten and its words changed by any one, however distinguished, for the purpose, least of all in support of a proposition that President Lincoln could not possibly have had in mind."

THEOSOPHICAL LECTURER TALKS IN OMAHA

D. S. M. UNGER.

CHRIST COMING, SAYS UNGER

Tells Theosophical Society We Need Christ for Teacher.

SAYS NEW RACE WILL BE BORN

Sixth Sub-Race Expects Coming of a Christ Who Will Unite All Men Into a Common Brotherhood.

"Christ is coming to earth again as He did 2,000 years ago," according to D. S. M. Unger of Chicago, who lectured for the Theosophical society of Omaha last evening in the Omaha School of Music at Eighteenth and Farnam streets.

"The world is calling for a religious teacher that will sound out a new note of life," said Mr. Unger. "Science, art, literature, music, capital, labor and all economic questions are waiting for a solution of their problems and history has taught us that when a great teacher is needed he is sent.

"In Egyptian history you may read of the great teacher called Hermes who gave to the people of the second sub-race their policy of government and religion. The great teacher of the third sub-race was Zoroaster, who gave to the Persians a religion of singular purity. Later Orpheus came to the Greeks and taught them the law and beauty of life. Five hundred years before Christ another great teacher came, and this time to the Hindus, Gautama Buddha. At the birth of the fifth sub-race, the Teutonic, the teacher was the one that we know of as the Christ.

The "Great White Brotherhood."

Mr. Unger spoke of a "Great White Brotherhood," composed of men who have reached the highest development of occult powers, and who live in such places as Tibet and Egypt, that have sent out the word the Christ is really to be born, spoken of by theosophists as the sixth sub-race.

In looking over the different sub-races a "World-Teacher" came," declared the speaker, "and according to the needs of each sub-race shaped and moulded the different ideals for their own special and peculiar evolution.

"By the testimony of the ethnologists, a new type of sub-race is now beginning to arise. What is the inevitable corollary? Shall the World-Teacher refuse to come as He came in every similar instance? No.

"The new note must soon be sounded for humanity, and the Christ will sound it, and with it a new religion will be born that will unite all religions. Theosophists everywhere are endeavoring to prepare the world for His coming, and thus avoid history repeating itself by the same sad tragedy of the cross.

"His creed will be brotherhood of religion—brotherhood of man. He will tell the rich their responsibility to the poor, and the wise their responsibility to the ignorant; teach such virtues as co-operation, tolerance, gentleness, reverence and magnanimity. The great movement of today toward universal peace will, in the near future, be incarnate in human history."
