BARBERS' LAW TO BE TESTED

Executive Committee of Nebraska Federation Meets Saturday.

OMAHA BIDS FOR CONVENTION

Meeting Which Was Proposed for Ak-Sar-Ben Week May Be Delayed Until a Later Date.

The executive committee of the Nebraska Federation of Labor will hold an all-day session today at the Her Grand hotel at which the principal topic of discussion will be the proposed test case on the barbers' Sunday closing law. If the executive committee decides to give this new law a trial the convention of state barbers, which has been proposed to be held in Omaha during Ak-Sar-Ben week, will be postponed until a later date. The convention, however, will be held before the first of the year.

Vote on Time and Place.
J. S. Light, an Omaha barber, who has had in charge negotiations for the coming convention, is unable to say just when the meeting will be held. A vote will have to be taken on the time and the place of the gathering. While Omaha is bidding strongly for the convention, Lincoln may be able to secure it, so the matter is not yet in formidable shape for any definite announcement.

The purpose of the convention is for the discussion of proposed legislation which will better the working conditions of the barbers of the state. Among the topics of discussion will be the Sunday closing law.

QUESTS NOT QUESTIONED AT HENRY KEMP'S HOTEL

Henry E. Kemp, proprietor of the Lyons Hotel, 113 North Thirteenth street, never noted whether the couples who were his guests carried baggage, according to testimony he gave before Judge Howard Kennedy yesterday in the Albert law suit against him. Kemp as proprietor of the hotel and the Peters Trust company as owner are the defendants.

After city detectives had testified that the hotel was frequented by disorderly persons and that some of the guests were arrested Kemp took the witness stand. He said his guests so far as he knew were not disorderly. He did not assign couples to rooms unless they registered as husband and wife. He did not know how long they occupied the rooms. They generally were gone the following day. Judge Kennedy then asked if the couples carried baggage. Kemp said he never noticed whether or not they did; if they "signed up" as husband and wife that was enough.

H. C. Freeman of the Peters Trust company testified the company did not know the place was being improperly conducted until the suit was started. It then brought action to oust Kemp.

Judge Kennedy found for the state and issued a writ of abatement and a permanent injunction restraining the defendants from conducting the place as

Northwestern Plans to Teach Lesson to James Hill's Force

The discontinuing of work by the Burlington on the extension of its Wyoming line from Thermopole to Powder River, is pointed to as a plan of the Northwestern to force the Hill system into keeping an agreement, which was made several years ago. This agreement applies to the use of a pass through the mountains on the Thermopole line and north of Powder River.

Several years ago when the Northwestern built to Lander it contemplated building on to the coast within a short time. Panics came and all roads stopped extensions. The Northwestern has completed its survey and the location of a line through the pass, but failed to take the necessary steps to sail the lid down so that it could hold title. In the meantime the Burlington came along, surveyed its line through the same pass and made the first filing with the Wyoming state and the government authorities.

The Northwestern, without acknowledging that it had been outgeneraled, laid low and waited its opportunity, which it is said has now presented itself. The Burlington has built an expensive piece of road from Thermopole, down through the much coveted pass and almost to Powder River. This was with the understanding that it was to have trackage rights over the Northwestern from Powder River to Orin Junction.

Just about the time the Burlington got ready to connect its tracks with those of the Northwestern at Powder River, the last named road called a halt, and it is said, informed the Hill people that there would be nothing doing in the way of a connection or a contract until they entered into a long time contract for equal trackage and operating rights through the pass.

Rosso Divorce Filed; Quickly Withdrawn

Mrs. Mary Rosso, wife of Charles Rosso, head of the Rosso Fruit company, started suit for divorce, alleging cruelty, in district court. The petition immediately was withdrawn from the court files by W. P. Lynch, Mrs. Rosso's attorney, and its specific allegations carefully are being withheld from the public.

Mr. Rosso when informed that his wife had brought the action said:
"My wife is in poor health. Ever since our last child was born she has been extremely nervous and at times is hardly responsible. I have not mistreated her, even since she has started this suit. She is not well and I only feel sorry for her."

Friends of the Rossos say it is a case of incompatibility of temperament.

DISEASE APPEARS IN CUMING

Forage Malady is Causing Deaths Among Valuable Horses.

DISEASE IS NOT LOCALIZED

Reports of Disease Are Scattering in Cuming County and Deaths Are Caused Across the Elk-horn River.

Cuming county, which up to ten days ago had escaped the dreaded new horse disease, is now suffering losses among the horses. Elmer Peterson of West Point, who is in Omaha, said that valuable horses in many parts of the county had died with the disease within the last week.

Paul Steufer, a prominent farmer living a mile north of West Point, lost three horses with the disease within the last few days, and has others suffering from it at present.

Herman Sasa, living a few miles east of West Point, lost one of his horses from the same cause, according to Mr. Peterson.

Mr. Peterson points out that the disease is by no means localized in any section of the county, as Herman Toelle, living six miles northwest of West Point, and William Smith, living two miles north of West Point, have each also lost a horse from the disease.

Besides these, Mr. Peterson says many reports are coming in of losses among the farmers west of the city across the Elk-horn river, in the direction of Montevideo, Dodge, Aloys and Snyder. The veterinarians are busy day and night in the county.

TOM GOES OUT OF HIS LINE TO BREAK INTO BASTILE

Tom Fitzgerald, a regular visitor at the police station, was haled before Police Magistrate Foster charged with the most serious offense he has committed during his eventful career.

The charge usually preferred against Tom is plain drunk. Yesterday he was fined $5 and costs for insulting women.

According to eye witnesses Tom was using very loud and profane language in the vicinity of Twenty-ninth and Farnam streets. Tom said he only swore once, and he was sure there was not a woman within three blocks of him at the time. However, the judge slipped him a fine.

They will provide a big clam bake, will have cash and everything, including canned water and good cigars.

Saratoga Chips.
Slice thin into a bowl of cold water medium sized potatoes. Let stand one and one-half hours; changing water twice. Drain and plunge into boiling water. Drain and plunge into cold water between towels. Fry in hot fat until browned, keeping in motion with a skimmer. Remove to dripping pan lined with brown paper; sprinkle with salt.

Sunshine Cake.
Beat well the yolks of five eggs, add one cupful of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of orange juice and beat five minutes longer. Mix and sift three-quarters cupful of flour and one-half teaspoonful of cream of tartar four times and fold it into the first mixture alternately with the stiffly beaten whites of six eggs. Turn into a pan having a tube in the center and bake one hour in a moderate oven.

Corn Salad.
Cut the corn from the left over, place on lettuce hearts and pour over the following sauce: Heat five tablespoonfuls of bacon fat, cook in it two tablespoonfuls of flour and a dash of paprika; add five tablespoonfuls of vinegar and half a cup of water; stir until boiling, then beat in the beaten yolks of two eggs and a little salt if necessary. Do not allow the sauce to boil after the eggs are added. Add to salad after becoming thoroughly cold.

Mutton With Turnips.
It is best to beat the leg part of the mutton with a wooden potato masher or mallet and insure good, tender eating. Season well. Slice an onion and a carrot very fine, mince a stalk of celery fine and put these in the bottom of a casserole or deep cooking kettle. Lay the shoulder of mutton on top. Let the mutton juices permeate the vegetables and brown them. Then add a bayleaf, minced, and four whole cloves. Cover and let them brown, and after ten minutes add a quart of boiling water. Season well again and place over a steady fire and allow fifteen minutes to every pound. An hour before serving add six or eight whole, fresh, new turnips, peeled and parboiled, and let them remain smothered with the mutton. Serve with the turnips as a garnish. Instead of the turnips you can serve cauliflower, breaking the flowers apart and parboiling before adding to the mutton.

Fricassee of Veal.
Cut three pounds of lean veal from the top of the leg. Trim and rub well with salt, pepper and flour. Cut two small onions into dice and fry them until brown in salt pork fat. Take out the onions and brown the meat all over in the fat adding more fat if needed. Put the meat into a pan on skewers to keep it from sticking. Add one quart of boiling water and one tablespoonful of mixed herbs tied in a bag. Cover closely and cook in a moderate oven three hours basting every thirty minutes. Turn over in an hour and a half; add more water so as to have one pint left for gravy. When done take up the meat and remove the herbs from the gravy. Thicken the gravy with two tablespoonfuls of flour wet in a little cold water; add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and one-half teaspoonful of pepper. Cook five minutes and pour the gravy over the meat.

Melon and Plum Jam.
Peel and seed melons to a weight of twelve pounds, and cut into cube shapes. Stone an equal weight of red plums, adding half the kernels from the stones to the fruit. Put melons, plums and twelve pounds of sugar into earthen jars and stand in a pan of boiling water. Cook gently for six hours, skimming if necessary. Take out the jars, set in dry place to cool and then cover in the regular way.

Breakfast Coffee.
Break an egg into a glass jar. A bacon jar is best, as it is fitted with a cover. Add as much cold water as there is egg, and beat together. Use a tablespoonful of this, mixing it with dry coffee and cold water. It will last several days if kept in a cold place.

Green Corn and Griddle Cakes.
Mix and sift one cupful of pastry flour, one and one-quarter teaspoonfuls baking powder, one-quarter teaspoonful salt, half tablespoonful sugar, mix three-quarters of a cup of milk, with one egg well beaten, add gradually to the dry ingredients with one cupful of cooked corn chopped fine, fry as any griddle cake.

Peach Cream.
This is a delicious and dainty dessert for the time of year when fresh fruits are plentiful and cheap. Cook, sweeten and mash a cupful of peaches of rich flavor and put them through a sieve. Allow as much rich sweet cream as peach pulp. Sweeten to taste, mix and whip until you have a light foamy mixture.

Nebraska is Soaked by Drenching Rain

Reports that the whole of Nebraska got a thorough soaking Thursday afternoon and night, the precipitation ranging from one-half to nearly two inches, putting the ground in splendid condition for fall plowing and seeding.

The rain was heaviest through Phelps Adams and Red Willow counties, where it was rather dry during the late summer. The weather is clearing and in most locations, warmer than yesterday, so that no frost is anticipated.
