PIONEERS SECURE QUARTERS

Given Two Big Rooms in the New County Court House. WATER BOARD WANTED ROOMS Howell Argues that $2,500 Rent Would Be Paid, but Joe Redman Qualifies as Attorney and Wins. Efforts of the Water board to prevent the Douglas County Pioneer association from securing quarters in the new county court house, which had been promised to it more than a year ago, fell flat at an executive meeting of the commissioners yesterday morning. The pioneers wanted the two rooms in the southeast corner of the building. They had their hearts set upon them and were determined not to be beaten. R. B. Howell of the Water board appeared at the executive meeting of the commissioners and made a long talk, pleading that the water board be given the quarters that had been promised to the pioneers. It was at this point that strong objections were made by Uncle Joe Redman and Mrs. Charles H. Fissette. Mr. Howell made a plea for the rooms on the argument that $2,500 annually would be paid in rental by the Water board and that this amount would ultimately go back into the pockets of the taxpayers of Douglas county, while the pioneers would not be required to pay anything. Uncle Joe Redman insisted that the pioneers are mostly taxpayers and that the building belonged more to them than to the Water board, which is purely a municipal institution. In the end Chairman Lynch made a motion that the board live up to its agreement made over a year ago to let the pioneers have the rooms in the southeast corner of the building on the first floor. There were only three members present, but it is evident from the sentiment expressed that the promise will be faithfully kept in open meeting of the county commissioners.

Kansas Man Scares the Central Girls

After terrorizing the central office of the Nebraska Bell Telephone company at Eighteenth and Douglas streets, Albert Dunford, from Topeka, Kan., came to police headquarters yesterday morning and attempted to get police assistance in getting his wife, who is a telephone operator, to return to him. Instead, Dunford was arrested by Captain Heitfield and lodged in jail for the night. J. R. Carter, traffic manager of the telephone company, says he will bring Mrs. Dunford down to police court and prosecute her husband. According to Mrs. Dunford, her husband made life a burden for her and she left him and, coming to Omaha, found employment. He followed her and after forcing his way into the telephone office, created a scene by trying to force her to leave her position and come with him. During the altercation which took place women superintendents attempted to order him from the place, and he struck one of them in the face.

E. G. PAGE SUES FOR DIVORCE

Says Wife Married Him Simply to Secure Means of Support. SEE MAKES FALSE ACCUSATIONS Page Sets Forth Numerous Reasons for Asking for a Divorce in His Petition Filed in the District Court. Did Carolyn Page marry Ernest C. Page, well known attorney and former member of the police board, not because she loved him, but merely to have a home? That is what he alleges in a petition for divorce he has just filed. Page declares that she has practiced extreme cruelty by constant petty annoyances, expressions of unreasonable discontent and repeated insinuations of want of proper consideration from him. He also says that she made repeated false accusations of infidelity, and complained because he did not know people of moment. He further says that she put him in a false light before his friends, and declared she married him merely to have a means of support, and that she would see to it that he was kept at work. The plaintiff represents that each has their own property and says that an accounting should be made as to the property and the amount of alimony. Mrs. Page was formerly Mrs. Carolyn Ward Ness of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Page were married in Omaha, May 28, 1909, something over two years ago. Mrs. Ward was a school teacher in Chicago. The witnesses to the marriage ceremony were Miss Lucy C. Frenzer and Miss Edith L. Kinsman, both of Omaha. Maggie Mellor wants a divorce from Grover Mellor because he left her and refused to give her support, this, too, after he had squandered $2,000 which had been left her by the will of her father. They were married on February 3, 1910. According to complaint Addie Bell Meggitt refused to cook and do the housework for her husband, John Meggitt, and he wants a divorce. Edith Hudspeth wants a divorce from Robert Hudspeth on the ground of neglect. Maggie Klucken deserted Teman C. Klucken, refused to cook his meals and otherwise made it uncomfortable for him, according to another divorce action brought in district court.

THE SOCIETY OF THE BEE-HIVE By MELLIFICIA. Thursday, Oct. 17, 1912. MRS. JESSE MacMILLAN HARDING, whose wedding was celebrated Wednesday evening, is the third bride from Omaha to wear real orange blossoms from Jualita, the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Gurdon W. Wattles at Hollywood, Cal. The first bride to wear the orange blossoms from Jualita was Miss Jean Cudahy, now Mrs. Frank Wilhelm, whose wedding was celebrated a year ago last June. The second was Miss Brownie Bess Baum, whose wedding to John Rouse of Baltimore was celebrated a year ago. Both Mrs. Wilhelm and Mrs. Rouse were entertained at a house party at this beautiful country home before they were married. Last winter Mrs. Harding, who was then Miss Burkley, accompanied her father, Mr. Frank Burkley, to California, and they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Wattles. So all three brides have enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Wattles at their winter home and have seen the orange trees from which the blossoms, worn at their weddings, have come.

Weds in Lincoln. An out-of-town wedding of interest to many Omaha people, was solemnized at Lincoln Wednesday, when Miss Ina Jeanette Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Williams of Lincoln, was united in marriage to Earl H. Jorgensen of Omaha. The service was read at high noon in the presence of a small company of near relatives. Dr. J. F. Boyce, pastor of Grace Methodist church, officiated. Previous to the ceremony Miss Berntha Williams, sister of the bride, presided at the piano and accompanied Miss Alice Compton, violinist, in two musical numbers. "The Venetian Love Song" by Nevin and "To a Wild Rose" by MacDowell, preceded the bridal music from Lohengrin, which was played as the bride and groom entered the room unattended. The bride was attired in her traveling gown, which was a brown tailored suit with hat to match. The bodice was brown marquisette over brocade silk, trimmed with cream lace. She wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses. Both bride and groom are graduates of the University of Nebraska, having been members of the class of 1910, and have a large circle of friends in university circles. For the past two years the bride has been teaching in the high school at Friend, Neb. The groom is special agent of the St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance company, with headquarters at Omaha. Mr. and Mrs. Jorgensen left this afternoon on the wedding journey, which will include visits in St. Paul and Chicago. They will be at home to friends in Omaha after December 1, at 3403 Lafayette avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Jorgensen of Omaha, and Miss Ruth Jorgensen, parents and sister of the groom, were among those present. After the wedding ceremony there was a daintily appointed wedding breakfast with pink and green for the prevailing color scheme, in which roses were the floral features.

Preacher Would Throw the Women Into Jail, He Says

In a pitched battle at the meeting of the Twelfth Ward Improvement club at Twenty-seventh and Camden Wednesday night, in which the Albert law was the chief bone of contention, Rev. Thomas M. Evans, pastor of the United Evangelical church, vehemently advocated the segregation of men if there is to be any segregation. City Commissioner Joe B. Hummel took up the budgeons of battle and argued that the Albert law is entirely inadequate to deal with the situation and its enforcement brings no good returns. "If you were police commissioner," he said, turning to Rev. Evans, "what would you do with these women? We send out the patrol and arrest them. Some are convicted, some are bailed out, and others are freed. Would you send them to Council Bluffs or arrest them again?" "I would throw them in jail again," Rev. Mr. Evans exclaimed. "No, you wouldn't," said Hummel. "Not if you're a Christian." John Smith, a member of the club, sided with the preacher, but the other members of the organization appeared to approve of Hummel's position. "The trouble with you and the churches," Hummel continued, "is that you don't realize these men and women are human. You would throw them in jail again? What permanent good would that do? "I have never seen any of you men who are advocating the Albert law willing to take a fallen woman by the hand and try to help her. You never offer her a position. But you would throw her in jail." Mr. Evans denounced the "double moral code" and asserted that men should be dealt with exactly the same as women. SURETY COMPANY WOULD WITHDRAW ITS BOND Fearing heavy loss should an accident occur during the destruction of the old county court house, the Globe Surety company of Kansas City, through Agent Tom M. Murphy of this city, has filed notice of withdrawal of its bond covering the contract of F. O. Johnson, who is now razing the structure. Some of the county commissioners contend that the Globe cannot withdraw the bond, but can be held closely to it and be made liable for any damage that might be done to the new building in the razing process. The matter will be taken up with the county attorney, and it is stated that it is his belief that the bond cannot be withdrawn.
