Iron Ring for Gold Prized Possession

Wearing an iron ring, given her in exchange for a valuable opal-set gold one, which she contributed to the war relief fund of the Austrian Silver Cross society in Vienna, where she nursed wounded soldiers, Miss Eleanor Rents arrived in Omaha yesterday from a two-year stay abroad. She was formerly a teacher of piano at Brownell hall and plans to open a studio of her own here. For a few days she is staying with Mrs. Alfred Schalek, 1801 Georgia avenue. "I gave gold for iron," is the inscription on Miss Rents's iron ring, which she prizes highly. She says over $50,000 was raised within two weeks in Vienna alone from the gold-for-iron contributions.

Positively Masters Croup. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound cuts the thick choking mucus, and clears away the phlegm. The gasping, strangling fight for breath gives way to quiet breathing and peaceful sleep. Harold Berg, Mass. Mich., writes: "We give Foley's Honey and Tar to our children for croup and it always acts quickly." We wonder a man in Texas walked 15 miles to the store to get a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Every user is a friend. All dealers everywhere.—Advertisement.

Rosebud Sioux Are Left Stranded

Chief Strange Horse and thirteen of his contemporaries from the Rosebud Sioux reservation at Winner, S. D., were deserted yesterday at Van Wert, Ia., by the agent of Wyoming Bill's show they had been traveling with all summer, and as their tickets were only good to Omaha, spent the night sleeping in their gaily colored blankets on the tiled floors of the Burlington depot waiting room. An agent named Whitten was instructed to pay off the Indians on the train and see that they were properly returned to their reservation. The man, the chief says, gave him a bag marked "100" at Van Wert and told him to pay the troupe. That was the last seen of Whitten. In the bag was $1.38 in nickels and a bunch of paper that made a noise like money.

Big Eaters Get Kidney Trouble

Take a glass of Salts before breakfast if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken, overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health. When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizziness, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Advertisement.

AIRMEN DIE AFTER DUEL ABOVE EARTH

Russian Aviator Brings Down Austrians and All Drop from Clouds to Death.

EPISODE OF A FIERCE BATTLE

Austrian Officer, Pretending Injury, Telephones from Rear of Russian Line to Direct Artillery Fire.

(Copyright, 1914, by Press Publishing Co.) PETROGRAD, Oct. 7.—(Special Cablegram to the New York World and Omaha Bee.)—A rough wooden cross marks the spot in Galicia, where Nesteroff, the celebrated Russian aviator, fell from his aeroplane after winning a duel with an Austrian flying machine. The day before Nesteroff sacrificed his life, three Austrian aircraft had flown over the Russian forces and dropped bombs. When they appeared again, Nesteroff flew to a height of about 2,000 meters. As one of the Austrian machines approached, Nesteroff descended in a spiral line striking the Austrian aeroplane a glancing blow, so that it dropped to earth like a stone. Nesteroff Falls to Death. For a minute or two, Nesteroff's machine appeared to be uninjured, for it continued to move along smoothly. Then it seemed to have received a violent shock. It lurched unnaturally, fell headlong. Nesteroff was spilled from his seat, and struck the earth before his machine did. His body was picked up in a swamp a short distance from where the bodies of two dead aviators of the Austrian aircraft were found. Ruse of Austrians. How an Austrian army officer, by lying on the battlefield and pretending to be badly wounded, operated a telephone and furnished details of the Russian army's approach, is told of by the commander of a Russian company brought here for hospital treatment. The incident occurred during the battle near Djukovitch on the Russian-Austrian frontier. The Russians, in the face of persistent machine gun fire, had pushed the Austrians back for a great distance and finally came within 150 paces of them. The subsequent sharpshooting of the czar's men was so effective that the Austrians fled helter skelter. In the distance could be seen the rear lines of the Austrians retreating. The Russians gave chase. Found a "Wounded" Man. "In passing over a field," said the wounded Russian officer, in describing the telephone incident, "we noticed a wounded Austrian officer of artillery. His leg was bandaged, and he was groaning as though in great pain. Without paying any attention to him, we pressed on at a running speed. Suddenly a cannon shot exploded near us, then a second and a third. The company ran down a ravine and lay low. A minute later the shots began to fall around us. Just before us was a deep swamp. We turned to the right and hastily occupied a small hillock. In less than half a minute the artillery shots followed again. Discovers the Wire. "Your honor," cried the section leader, "a wire." "We perceived a telephone wire on the ground which we immediately cut. At the same time our battery opened fire and soon silenced the enemy. We were soon relieved by the reserve company and retreated to the hollow where we were to rest." "On the way back I took two men with me and resolved to find out where the wire led to. We followed it and it brought us to the artillery officer with the bandaged leg. We lifted him up and found that he had a small telephone apparatus under him. We took off his bandages. There was no wound." In the fighting which followed, the Russian officer was shot through the hand and shoulder. He was taken to Xenia hospital, Rovno, where a Sister of Mercy dressed his wounds. The next day, when leaving the hospital for Kieff, the officer learned that the Sister was Grand Duchess Olga Alexandrovna. His comment was: "I could only pray to God to bless her, sweet Sister of Mercy!" Many Russian warriors will remember her name with gratitude and tell their children what a great task she took upon her, "the sister of the emperor, Sister of Mercy."

M'ADOO SAYS YET HOARDING

In Some Quarters Evidence Individual and Corporations Guilty.

NO REASON FOR NOT DEPOSITING

Further Lists of Banks Carrying Excessive Reserves Will Not Be Made Public for the Present.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—There is evidence in some quarters that individuals and corporations are hoarding money. It is just as reprehensible for them to do so as it is for the banks, declared Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury department in a statement issued tonight. "There is no reason," he continued, "why people should not deposit money in the banks in the usual way and with absolute confidence and there is no reason why business should not be conducted in a normal way." Rates Charged by Banks. The statement says the following rates have been charged by banks except in exceptional cases: In New York nearly all the loans to correspondents were made at the uniform rate of 6 per cent. In Chicago the prevailing rate charged to bank correspondents was 7 per cent although on money loans a lower rate was charged. In St. Louis while the maximum rate to bank correspondents was 5 per cent, the prevailing rates were 6 and 7 per cent. In a few cases loans were being made at lower rates. In Boston, 7 3-10 per cent was charged.

Column of Germans Bound for France

LONDON, Oct. 7.—A dispatch to the Times from Ostend dated Monday, says: "A very important movement of German troops in southern Belgium was reported this afternoon. A column, 2,000 strong, of horse and foot artillery with a commissariat convoy and wireless apparatus, marched through Tempeuve, five miles north of Tournai, in the direction of the French frontier to the west. All the troopers were young men."

DR. C. W. SANBORN DIES WHILE ON VISIT EAST

Dr. C. W. Sanborn, 117 South Twenty-fifth avenue, and for many years a resident of Omaha, died yesterday while in Buffalo visiting his daughter, Mrs. James Barclay. A telegram was received last night by John W. Gamble, who has long been associated in business with Dr. Sanborn, telling of his death and stating that the body would be taken for burial to Old Town, Me. Dr. Sanborn, who was a veterinarian, for a number of years was associated with the Standard Chemical company, of which his son, the late S. E. Sanborn, was president. Dr. Sanborn was 77 years of age. Surviving him are his widow and the one daughter.

Girls! Clean and Beautify Hair No Dandruff—25 Cent Danderine

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil — in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance. Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful. You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

The Klavicle Overcoat (By the House of Kuppenheimer) WHEN you are ready to treat yourself to a bang-up overcoat—when you are tired of mediocrity, the commonplace, the fair-to-middling in overcoats—try America's master overcoat makers—the great Overcoat House—the House of Kuppenheimer. Here, for example, is the last word in the loose, button-through overcoat, cut in the new manner. An adaptation of the Cavalryman's Cape—full back and full sleeves from one piece of cloth without a seam. Wide velvet collar, full soft-roll lapel, patch pockets with flaps, sleeves finished with a cuff. Front closes with half-ball buttons of buffalo horn. You should get into the KLAVICLE to appreciate its effect at shoulders and collar; its clean drape and generous lines. In loose overcoats this is the coat of the hour. With a swing and style becoming to most men, it is warm, easy, comfortable, suitable for the street, for all-round wear and for driving your car. Free play for the arms; no seam to bind or make the shoulder ache. The KLAVICLE is authoritative—a definite overcoat achievement—and should not be confused with the welter of indiscriminate slip-over coats that flood the market this season. We want you to know us better and we want to know you. We are going to talk to you right along in this newspaper. Kuppenheimer Overcoats are sold by a representative dealer in nearly every Metropolitan center of the United States and Canada. If you will give us your name on a post-card we will be glad to send you our Book of Fashions. Insurance Company Says Fire Caused by Interested Persons

For the first time in years in district court an insurance company is defending itself against a suit on a fire policy on the alleged ground that damage by fire was caused by persons interested financially. In Mrs. Emma V. McNeill's suit for $750 against the State Farmers' Mutual Insurance company of South Omaha, the defendant association asserts that a house in South Omaha named in a policy was intentionally burned. Charges that material facts were concealed when the policy was secured are also made.

VALENTINE MAN DISAPPEARS WHILE ON QUEST FOR LAND

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 7.—(Special Telegram)—Relatives of C. A. Woche, a wealthy rancher, aged 67 of Valentine, Neb., believe he was murdered in the wild Ozark region near Rogers, Ark. He left home to buy land. Word has not been heard from him since August 19. In Omaha he cashed a check for $3,900. When he reached Kansas City, July 29, he cashed another check for $3,200. It is believed he took the money with him. He left his hotel in Rogers, August 19, with a supposed land man to look at land. H. G. Fray of O'Neill, Neb., son-in-law of Woche, was in Kansas City yesterday on his way to Rogers to attempt to solve the mystery of Woche's disappearance. Woche wrote his wife three times during the week. The last letter she got from him was mailed in Rogers, August 19. He told her not to leave for Rogers until she heard from him again. The clerk in the Commercial hotel at Rogers said Woche left word when he left with the land man that he would be gone several days.
