ALLIES ADVANCE NEARER OSTEND

Terrific Battle is Raging Among the Sand Dunes Near Coast of Belgium and France.

DRAINING BELGIUM TOWNS

It is Now Believed that Their Garrisons Have Been Sent to Front in Final Attempt to Win a Decisive Victory.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Daily Mail's Flushing correspondent sends the following under date of Friday evening: "As the result of severe fighting among the sand dunes the allies have advanced further upon Ostend. Last night the enemy was still occupying Thleit. Ghent and Bruges are quiet."

PARIS, Oct. 24.—(3:54 p. m.)—The official communication given out at the War office this afternoon says the Germans have made progress to the north of Dixmude and in the vicinity of La Bassée, but that the French have made material advances to the west of Nieuport. In the region of Langemarck, and between Armentieres and Lille.

"The battle continues on our left wing. The enemy has made progress to the north of Dixmude and in the vicinity of La Bassée. We have made very perceptible advances to the east of Nieuport, in the region of Langemarck, and in the region between Armentieres and Lille. It is a question of inevitable fluctuations in the line of combat, which, however, maintains itself as a whole."

"On the rest of the front several German attacks by day and by night have been repulsed. At various places we have made slight progress. In the Woivre district our advance has continued in the direction of the forest of Mortmare, to the south of Thiaucourt, and in the forest of LePetre of Pont-A-Mousson."

LONDON, Oct. 24.—What a German military expert has called a life and death struggle for Germany is still raging along the coast end of the western battle front, and every indication shows that the invaders are hurrying their full strength against the allies in a determined effort to capture Dunkirk and Calais.

Paris reports that the action on the allies' left continues with great violence, especially around Arras, La Bassée and Armentieres, where some of the most desperate fighting of the war has taken place. Here the usual see-saw occurs, first the allies giving some ground and the Germans doing the same at some other point, but without either gaining what might be called a technical advantage over the other.

A special dispatch states that the allies have advanced further on Ostend, their lines now extending from the coast to a point between Elype and Stepiere Capelle. Other dispatches state that the Germans, after a success on the Yser, are leaving the coast and working around by Dixmude to Lille, thereby clearing the way to Ostend and leaving their position open to a flanking movement by the allies.

One thing emerges clear from all the reports and that is incessant fighting prevails over the West Flanders front from Roubaix to Thourout and between Nieuport and Ostend.

Petrograd reports a continuation of the pursuit of the Germans retreating from Warsaw and admits an unexpectedly stubborn resistance to the Russian offensive from the Austrians on the San, while the official Vienna report, after detailing successes before Przemysl and a dash movement toward the Vistula, admits that the Russians were permitted to cross the San in several places.

England is hoping today that the career of the famous German commerce destroyer Emden is ended. This hope is based on two more or less cryptic cables from Bombay, one issued by the Bombay government declaring that all sea routes may be considered reasonable safe from 5 o'clock in the evening of October 21 and the other an unconfirmed report from Bombay to the Morning Post dated the 23d, that the Emden has been accounted for.

GERMANS TIGHTEN RING AT VERDUN

French Attacks to Relieve the Besieged Fortress Are Without Success.

DEFENDERS PRAY FOR SNOW Winter Weather Would Hamper the Teutons in Matter of Supply Trains and Give Gains Considerable Advantage.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The German ring around Verdun, according to the Cologne Gazette, is becoming closer daily, says a Central News dispatch from Copenhagen. All French attacks have been in vain. Colonel Gray, a brother of the British foreign secretary, who was captured near Peronne, France, when a British aeroplane was brought down by the Germans, has been sent to the prisoners' camp at Darmstadt.

The Times today prints a long dispatch, in which its correspondent at Nancy, France, under date of October 15, gives a vivid picture of the fighting on the right wing of the French army.

"Though the French official communications continually state the situation on the right wing is unchanged," he says, "they do not mean that the opposing armies are marking time. The Germans have made fierce efforts to get Verdun. These efforts were as fiercely repelled and the French field army still stands between the army of Metz and the coveted fortress of Toul and Verdun."

Paris are Unlucky. The whole history of this war, however, goes to prove the utter uselessness of forts under present conditions. The best type of fortifications seems to consist of batteries from which the guns can be easily moved to a new point as soon as they are located by the enemy. The day of the fixed fort is gone. After the Germans had entrenched themselves at St. Mihiel their big guns made short work of the French forts at Tronoy and Carly. De Romains. The guns of the forts had a range of only five miles against the German step's range of seven miles. The Germans have placed a battery of Austrian 6-centimeter guns on the site of Camp des Romains, which commands St. Mihiel and a large part of the Woivre. It is most important that the French re-

Misuse of Mails Charged in Case Against Hackney

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 24.—(Special Telegram.)—A scheme by which sufferers from chronic diseases were made to pay hundreds of dollars was terminated yesterday afternoon when a deputy United States marshal from Topeka arrested W. E. Hackney at Washington, Kan., on a charge of misuse of the United States mail.

Hackney is alleged to have operated in the vicinity of Chadron, Neb. According to the indictment, Hackney sold a remedy to invalids for which he charged amounts varying from $5 to whatever he could get. From those unable to pay cash he took notes which he discounted at the banks or left with collection agencies. He then delivered enough medicine to last the purchaser until he left the country.

EYE-WITNESS SAYS ALLIES ADVANCING

(Continued from Page One.) exhaustive, and the significant circular of the Prussian minister of war, enjoining a careful search of battlefields for equipment and even the collection of empty cartridge cases has been noted in a previous letter.

This circular seems to have been prompted more by necessity than by economy, for in the recent fighting both the gun and rifle ammunition of old pattern has been found in trenches evacuated by the enemy, on their dead and on prisoners. Among the latter are Mauser cartridges similar to those used by the Boers in South Africa.

Have Special Military Paper. The narrative then quotes from pamphlets dropped by German airmen summoning the French to surrender on the ground that they are only using obstinate out of the fire for the English. "News of a sort is disseminated among the German soldiers by means of a special military newspaper called the Patriot, which is published in Berlin. Its historical value may be gauged by the statement made in its issue of September 6, as follows: 'It may be confidently asserted that the resistance of the active army of the French has been overcome. The reserve troops and new formations will no doubt give our heroic forces plenty to do as they advance further.' "These weeks more of fighting, however, must have convinced the German troops that the assertion was not justified."

GREATEST BATTLE OF ALL IS RAGING

Using Aircraft More. Being denied the use of warships, which have been rendering good service for the allies, Germany is said to be throwing its air craft, and particularly Zeppelins, more and more into the fray, and news dispatches relate that the operations of Zeppelins, have been a marked feature of the fighting in the southwest of Ostend, toward which seaport the troops of France, England and Belgium are said to be working their way.

This, in brief, is a broad view of the situation in France and Belgium from the English standpoint. Which side had the advantage is not known except to the general staffs of the opposing armies. All the public will know, barring something unforeseen in the nature of a catastrophe to one army or the other, will be that the terrific artillery duel near the Belgian coast has continued, and that one side was pushed back here only to advance there, as was explained in the official communication issued at Paris last night.

Deadlock Continues.

Over the remainder of the long battle front the deadlock continued. Slight progress is claimed by the French at various points in the Woivre district, but the general positions of the opposing forces is changed in no important particular. Regarding the situation in the east, there is, as heretofore, a conflict of claims. The French war office asserts that the Germans are falling back to the south of Warsaw, as well as to the west of Ivanograd. Advice from Russian and Austrian sources agree that one of the bitterest battles of the war is in progress along the River San. An official Austrian statement reports the repulse of Russians. Dispatches from Petrograd, however, state the Austrian assault was repulsed by vigorous counter attacks of the Russians.

Into the monotonous routine of official statements and to technical details of the fighting was injected a picturesque touch by the report at Tokio of Vice Admiral Kato, verifying the German claim to another audacious feat on the seas. The vice admiral admitted that it apparently was a German torpedo boat destroyer and not a mine which sank the Japanese cruiser Takachino on October 17. As the cruiser sank the men went to their death with the chorus of the Japanese anthem on their lips.

Ship Loaded with Wounded is Stranded

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The French ship Marie Henriette, with wounded soldiers on board, is ashore near Cape Barleur, sixteen miles east of Cherbourg, according to a telegram received here from Lloyd's signal station at Cowes, Isle of Wight. "R. O. E." signals from it have been received at Niton, Isle of Wight. A French ship is standing by.

CURTAIN FINALLY DOWN ON CONGRESS

(Continued from Page One.) gress would be called in extraordinary session on or about November 20 to take up cotton legislation. If Mr. Henry speaks by the card it could not be verified today by reason of the president's absence in Pittsburgh. There are those, however, who do not hesitate to say that the president is only too glad to have congress off his hands, even for a few weeks, and he is not likely to call them back for the purpose of considering the most unheard of paternal legislation.

News to Make Speeches. Senator Norris will leave for a speaking tour of Iowa and Nebraska tomorrow, his dates in Iowa being subject to arrangement of the state republican committee and which will be telegraphed him at Chicago. He has, however, insisted that the Iowa dates be so arranged that he can get into the eastern part of Nebraska preferably Fremont on Friday of next week. On Saturday before election he will speak at Hastings and will close the campaign on Monday night before election at Holdrege.

Says Session Ineffective. "The present session of congress has been the most wearisome and the most ineffectual in the way of wise legislation enacted since the foundation of the government," said the Nebraska senator. "The legislation has all been in the interest of the south, as witness the tariff bill, the federal reserve act, the war revenue measure. It has been the least intelligent congress I have ever known. What the people will say about it on election day of course is problematical, but I know the utter and complete failure of the democratic party to legislate for the whole country."

Representative Barton and Maguire got away shortly after congress adjourned without delay. They recognize that a hard fight is in front of them and were anxious to get into their districts as quickly as possible.

Kitchener Asks Public to Aid Him Keep Army Sober

LONDON, Oct. 24.—In line with his now famous advice to the British expeditionary forces to be courteous, Lord Kitchener, secretary for war, issued an appeal to the public, in which he emphasizes the importance of keeping the army now in training in good condition. This result, he says, will be obtained only by strict sobriety. He urges the public—both men and women—to aid them in their sobriety by refraining from treating them and by appointing committees to impress them with the need of temperance and assist them in avoiding temptation. Lord Kitchener was today unanimously elected lord rector of Edinburgh university.
