MAHA golfers are keeping up records and holding on to the honors abroad as well as at home.

Mrs. E. H. Sprague was at Excelsior Springs last week and spent most of the time on the golf links. She carried off the honor of the lowest score ever made by a woman on the links there, which was forty-seven for nine holes.

The next to follow up on such foxy playing is Mrs. Edwin Morrison of Kansas City, formerly Miss Louise Tukey of Omaha, who made the course guarantee funds or sunsidies. It's transin forty-nine. The course at the Springs is a nine-hole one, beautifully located and just a dandy hike from the hotels, that is, if one is a good hiker. Mrs. Sprague has always been an expert golfer and the one to hold Omaha in the athletic lime light. She is Nebraska's champion and attends songbirds who have not before visited any number of tournaments. Soon after Christmas Mrs. Sprague will leave for Florida to spend the winter on the greens there and add other stars to her record.

The Working Mothers' club, composed of 125 women, was given a big and inviting, if belated, Thanksgiving dinner by Miss Nellie Magee at the City mission yesterday. Turkey in abundance was served. After the dinner Miss Magee entertained the mothers with motion plctures and several songs were sung.

When the Thanksgiving donations by the public school children were distributed Miss Magee's share ran short and she was forced to disappoint some to whom she had arranged to give food. This dinner was largely for those who were not provided for Thanksgiving day. 'It's just a get-together dinner, as much to talk, get acquainted and plan as to
