BIG SHEEP RUN EXPECTED

Range Stock is in Prime Condition and Will Be Moving to the South Omaha Market Soon.

LOOK FOR MORE THAN EVER

The beginning of the run of western sheep for killing is expected to set in this week, and at the same time, according to the railroad men connected with the lines operating into the sheep raising zone of Nebraska, Colorado, Idaho and Wyoming, the movement will be the heaviest in years. All through the sheep raising and feeding territory of the west the winter has been mild, and as sheep have taken on flesh rapidly, the movement to market starts ten days to two weeks earlier than usual. Sheep are asserted to be in prime condition for market. Indications assert the local railroad men, are that Omaha will receive more sheep during the run that is setting in than ever before during any like period, due to the fact that in a way Chicago is still quarantined against sheep. The Illinois state board still holds the quarantine against some fifteen counties, and it so happens that in these counties are located practically all the feeding pens of the western lines. The running schedule on live stock trains between Missouri river points and Chicago is twenty-eight to thirty hours. The federal laws require that live stock shall not be kept in cars to exceed thirty-six hours without feed and water. With a leeway of only six to eight hours shippers are afraid to send their sheep to Chicago. The Illinois board has no quarantines against sheep west of the Mississippi river, but the trouble is this: If sheep should start from the Missouri river terminals and not be delivered in Chicago within the thirty-six hours required by law, they would have to be uncarried and fed at some of the Illinois yards. As the quarantine is against these yards the result would be that the sheep would come under the Illinois regulation and when unloaded would be regarded as animals coming from the quarantined zone and would not be permitted to be sold on the Chicago market. As the price between the Omaha and Chicago markets is so close, it is asserted that shippers are not going to take any chances on the last named place, and consequently practically all the western sheep will be shipped to and sold on the Omaha market.

SAD TALE, MATES, BUT TRUE

Lincoln Youth Would Be Sailor, but Encounters Difficulties When He Tries to Enlist.

HOWARD BURKE LUCKLESS LAD

Howard Augustus Burke learned Monday the truth of the proverb "Truth is mighty and shall prevail." He learned also that it is a mistake to jump at conclusions and that often we misjudge those who are nearest to us. Also, that while "clothes don't make the man" they often indicate what he is, as the late Sherlock Holmes so ably demonstrated. Howard came into the United States naval recruiting office in the federal building this morning and announced his desire to enlist. He stated that his age was 19 years, that his father and mother had died when he was still quite small, that he had then been sent to live with an uncle in South Dakota, that this uncle hadn't treated him well, that he had run away, had worked at odd jobs and lately had been driving a coal wagon. "Poor, homeless, orphan lad," sighed the tender hearted boys in blue. Poor, poor lad. Uncle Sam's navy shall be a haven of refuge from the cold and cruel world and from the cruel uncle in South Dakota; that cruel, heartless uncle.

enlistment in the navy. He gave a description of him. On winged feet Mr. High ran across the hall to the room where the poor orphan was, surrounded by sympathetic jackies opening their generous hearts to him in his loneliness. On the same winged feet Mr. High ran back and reported that the lost was found. Then Howard was called in and a long conversation ensued over the phone, in which Howard merely said "yes, sir," or "no, sir," at appropriate intervals. Here was where Howard found he had misjudged his father in presuming that he would not sign a permit for his son to join the navy. A Few Points Difference. To Howard's mate Dixon, Mr. Burke told his story, which showed that the story Howard had told was the whole truth with the trifling exceptions that he is only 17 years old, that his parents are living, that he didn't live with any uncle in South Dakota, or elsewhere. Howard's father is A. P. Burke, who lives at 1720 M street, Lincoln, and conducts a coal business at Twentieth and M streets. He said he would sign a paper giving his son permission to become a sailor bold and sail the raging main and see the sights of the world, as charmingly depicted in the posters. So Howard's mate Dixon made out new application papers for Howard, changing his age to 17 years, reuniting his parents and killing off forever that unappealingly cruel uncle in South Dakota, and Howard proceeded to take his physical examination. Is Thwarted Again. But alas the course of true patriotism never did run smooth. Just when it seemed that all was going fortuitously, when truth had been established on its pedestal and when the consent of parents had been secured, an obscure obstacle arose, an unsuspected kill-joy that will at least delay Howard's trip to view the wonders of foreign lands. The doctor found that he had enlarged tonsils. However, there is hope. Howard will return to Lincoln, have his tonsils removed, get the written consent of his father, and then "a sailor he will be, will be, a sailor he will be."

MONEY FOR PLAYGROUNDS

Considerable Fund Already Secured to Carry Out Work as Suggested by Dr. C. F. Stimson.

PLANS ARE WELL UNDER WAY

In view of the present interest and discussion in plans to enlarge the provisions for the public recreation in Omaha, and especially for binding the park and school departments together in co-operative plans to enlarge the facilities and supervision for wholesome play-life for the children and youth of Omaha, a statement has been prepared showing the possibilities contributing to the campaign to establish a year-round system of public recreation, in conjunction with the city commissioner, superintendent of parks and the school board. In behalf of the children who need opportunities for self-development through wholesome supervised play and recreation the following organizations and individuals have contributed, as below recorded, to the cost of organizing and carrying through the campaign to secure an adequate public system of supervised recreation. B. A. Wilcox, of the Omaha National bank serves as treasurer of the funds contributed. Dr. Cyrus F. Stimson, field secretary of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, 1 Madison avenue, New York City, has been secured to organize the work and assist the officials and citizens interested in following through the campaign until it is efficiently established. He has already worked several weeks in Omaha at different times, and will continue his efforts at such times and ways as seem best calculated to secure definite forward steps to the final system desired, in close co-operation with the city commissioner, the school board and especially with the superintendent of parks and the superintendent of schools. Dr. Stimson and the national association he serves propose to stand by the citizens of Omaha for such time as is required to direct public sentiment and perfect the necessary legislation in constructive plans for an adequate and appropriate publicity supported system of recreation conforming to standards established for cities of its class. Burlington Sends Traffic West Over New Ashland Bridge

Since early Sunday morning the Burlington has been handling its west of the river passenger trains over the new concrete bridge at Ashland. This bridge was under course of construction nearly three years and was built at a cost of close to $1,000,000. It is entirely of concrete and steel. The piers and abutments, a distance of eighty feet below the bed of the river. The Burlington's new bridge over the Platte at Ashland is across the river exactly where the old one was located. Prior to the construction of the new bridge a temporary structure was built just below the old bridge. This was used, the old one torn out and the new one erected on the site.

Best Laxative For Children

When your baby is cross and fretful instead of the happy, laughing little dear you are accustomed to, in all probability the digestion has become deranged and the bowels need attention. Give it a mild laxative, dispel the irritability and bring back the happy content of boyhood. The very best laxative for children is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Because it contains no opiate or narcotic drug, is pleasant tasting and acts gently, but surely, without griping or other distress. Druggists sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 422 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.—Advertisement.

SEVEN WEDDING RINGS ARE SENT FOR RELIEF FUND

Seven wedding rings have been sent to the gold-for-iron "melting pot" fund for German war relief by German-Americans living out in the state, says Mrs. Paul Getzenmann, chairman. She says that five men and women at Yutan alone sent in their rings, some of them a score or more years old, to be melted down and sold to raise money for the relief of widows and orphans in the fatherland. Each donor will receive in return an iron ring, inscribed, "I gave gold for iron." The shipment of iron rings is expected daily, as it was sent from Newark, N. J., last week.

Dixon Discovers Mystery

So Howard's mate Dixon took down Howard's age, color, previous condition of servitude, etc. Now, the boy's mate isn't a Sherlock Holmes, but the appearance of Howard Augustus Burke didn't bear out his story. His hands were white and soft and didn't look as though they were accustomed to handling a coal scoop. He wore a natty blue Norfolk suit that had lately visited the press establishment. His clothes were all of good quality and he had the appearance of being quite the opposite of the penniless, wandering orphan boy, fleeing for refuge from that cruel uncle in South Dakota. While Howard was waiting for his medical examination a long-distance call came in. Chief Yeoman High answered. It proved to be a distraught father in Lincoln, and he wanted to know whether his son had, by any chance, applied for
