OMAHA PRICES HOLD FIRM

Do Not Break Under Pressure of Numerous Reports that Come from World's Markets.

SOUTH IS BUYING THE CORN

With a break of 1 cent in the price of wheat Tuesday the market opened weak today, but on account of the report of heavy buying in New York for export the cereal grew firmer and not only reached the high of the previous day, but mounted considerably higher.

Grain men assert that the advance had nothing to do with a report that Argentina has placed an embargo on the exportation of wheat, and that it went up on account of the demand. They heard of the embargo and at once wired New York, the reply coming back that the report was without foundation, and that instead of Argentina holding back it was in the market trying to sell its surplus.

Corn was erratic and kept all the dealers guessing as to what it would do. It was from 1/4 cents to 3/4 higher, closing near the high price of the day. Sales were made all the way between 48 and 7 1/2 cents per bushel.

The south was a heavy buyer of corn, commission houses disposing of more than 200 cars that will be routed to Louisiana and Texas for plantation and milling purposes. From now on for the next month it is asserted that the south will take practically all the corn offered on the Omaha market.

Kansan in Search for Nebraska Hay

While the war in Europe has caused an abnormal demand for Nebraska horses and breadstuffs, it now promises to furnish an outlet for large quantities of hay, and that within the near future.

J. H. Turner, Wichita, Kan., has landed a large contract and is unable to fill it in Kansas. Now he has turned his attention to Nebraska, and his agents are scouring the hay producing areas of this state in a search for 80,000 tons.

It is said that owing to the light winter the sandhill country of Nebraska has the greatest supply of hay in its history, and it is asserted that 85 per cent is now being offered for baled hay at the stations. Ranchers and others who have been in the hay business contend that loaded on the cars this hay has not cost to exceed $3 per ton.

Men Pay Homage to Mother's Friend

“I am not surprised to observe the number of men who come into the store to purchase ‘Mother's Friend,’” remarked a leading druggist. The expectant mother if she hasn't heard of this splendid embrocation is probably not reading the papers to much extent. And if she does it is a happy thought to send hubby to the drug store. “Mother's Friend” is applied externally over the abdominal muscles.

BETTER BUSINESS SHOWN BY HOTELS

Traveling Men and Stockmen Fill Up Hostleries, Showing a Return to the Old Days.

REFLECT IMPROVED BUSINESS

Omaha hotels are enjoying patronage actually bigger than a year ago, according to statements of a number of hotel proprietors and managers. In spite of alleged business depression, they assert that their business, usually regarded as the pulse of general business conditions, is from 20 to 25 per cent greater than for the corresponding days of January one year ago.

Dan Gaines, proprietor of the Mechanics, declares that more guests are stopping there “right now” than at the same time in 1914. He says “it certainly looks good.” Rome Miller of Hotel Rome declares that so many traveling men and other guests are now registered there that all accommodations are taken, whereas last year at this time business was not so good.

Joe Heil Warbles Tipperary Melody a la the Kaiser

Police Officer Joe Heil, who is strong for the Teutonic allies and don't care who knows it, is also a great admirer of the British war ballad “Tipperary.” Joe sings and whistles the song from morning until night. At police headquarters he warbles the refrain in Anglo-Saxon, but when alone or with a crowd of congenial German-American friends, sings it in the following phraseology:

Es ist sehr weit zu Tipperary, Es ist sehr weit zu seh'n. Es ist sehr weit zu Tipperary, Und mein Herz ist so schwer (oder hehr). “Announcements” ads bring good results.

Need of larger quarters for the accommodation of the women was discussed, and the rest room will be enlarged and more conveniently equipped for their use.
