Other colleges have so called tests, but they are more or less farcical. Pennsylvania's test is only Chicken Pie Dinner-A chicken pie thirty-three yards and Columbia's twentyfive. The universities of Chicago, Wis consin and Illinois all have tests, but "When the distance for the Princeton test was first discussed the following facts were taken into consideration: A man can swim twenty-five yards by mere brute strength, without having any rec ognized stroke. A man who has a stroke which will carry him for 100 yards, could swim 260 yards in an emergency, and when a man can swim 200 yards he will be able to cover two miles when there is a need for it.

Dr. Hanson of Des Moines addressed teh entire student body of Boyles college at the regular assembly February 5. The students filled the big assembly room full to overflowing and entousiastically applauded the dector's remarks. His theme was "The Responsibility of the Community for the Social Welfare of Its Members." He laid particular stream on the need of leadership in every community and pointed out that that leadership came from the business men and women. He showed that the business world wanted and would have only the man or woman with a sound mind in a sound body, those that were mentally and physically fit to do what was demanded of them. He urged the students to keep this in mind while preparing for a business career and, in addition, to remember their relation to their fellows. He dwelt on the importance of these things in relation to the leadership which their present business training was preparing them to assume.

an outgrowth of the "Buy a Bale of Cotton" plan originated by Miss Genevieve Champ Clark, and so warmly endorsed by President Wilson, has found favor with tens of thousands of persons who realized that by purchasing manufactured cotton goods instead of raw coton they were not only helping the southern states dispose of their surplus raw cotton, but were also by the same purchase, assisting the laboring classes in the other states and thus conserving the highest interests in all sections of the

The leading features of this enterprise is as follows: Garments in large number and in great variety have been made up of several cotton materials. These include evening gowns, house dresses, street dresses, matinee lounging robes, dressing sacques, kimonos, waists, tea aprons protectors, caps, night gowns, children's play suits, etc. These various garments numbering in all about 100 are made up from advance spring and summer styles and will be illustrated by living models. A little southern dark 'midst bales of cotton will greet the visitors to the exhibition and present them with a fortyeight page booklet illustrating and describing the garments on display.

Some Bakeries Pay July Flour Prices

That some big Omaha bakeries were ucky enough to contract for a year's supply of flour before the war sent prices souring, and that they are now reaping a harvest by selling their bread on the basis of the present flour price, is an assertion-not for publication-made re-

While now selling bread at the war price of 5 cents for a tiny twelve-sunce loaf, some of the big bakeries are said to be paying the same old price for flour that prevailed last July, before war was declared. Only the lard and other minor ingredients of their bread are costing them more than usual.

When asked about the matter, the aforementioned prominent baker said.
'Why shouldn't we raise the price of bread? Grain men who bought wheat at 85 or 80 cents last summer are now selling that wheat for $1.50. Furthermore. when our present flour contracts run out and we have to draw our supplies from the present $7 per barrel market, or the there won't be a cept of profit in the baking business. We are simply taking the legitimate profit of the business while it is available."

INDUCEMENT TO SAVE MONEY!

Postmaster Wharton Tells What the, Postal Saving Banks of the Country Are Doing.

MANY CHILDREN DEPOSITORS

Postal savings in Omaha have inreased at an extraordinary rate in the hast six months," said Postmaster Whar-"They have increased even faster than the country-wide postal savings. "Total deposits in postal banks on the first day of this year were $53,000,000 That sum was $10,000,000 more than total deposits August 1, 1914, which was about the time the European was started. In August postal savings increased $4,000,000. Undoubtedly millions of dollars would today be reposing unused in the homes of our foreign population if it wape not for the existence of the postal benks," the postmaster added.

"I have figures showing that 497,000 of the pestal depositors are foreign-born Americans. This is 69 per cent of the depositors. And this to per cent has on deposit more than half of the $53,000,000 Eleven per cent of the depositors are school children. Two-thirds of the depositors are skilled and unskilled laborers.

New Inducement to Save. "In other words, wage earners and children are the principal patrons of these leposits. These people are getting a new inducement to save and once they have opened accounts they strive to increase them. In some instances these accounts form the foundation of great fortunes. "An advantage of the postal savings bank is its facilities for tracing the belre of deceased depositors. The government will put forth every effort to find the rightful heirs, no matter how small the balance left by the deceased. During the last year such heirs were found in Canads, England, Germany, Italy, Montenegro, Turkey, Scotland, Russia and Nor-WAY.

"In nearly every instance the State department has aided in the search for the heirs.

"Recently a Russian was drowned in the Susquehanna river near Wilkesbarre Pa. He had $90 to his credit in the postal savings bank at Wilkesbarre, but no record of any relatives. A Russian society paid his funeral expenses and then the department went to work to search the world over for any possible heirs.
"Within two months his aged parents were found in Buds, Omins. Temasbuds, government of Suwalki, Russia, and the 200, with interest, was paid to them."

Grape-Nuts is meat-the meat of wheat and barley-a rich, sweet, appetizing food, ready to eat direct from the package with cream or milk.

All the bone-making, blood-making, muscle-making values of choicest wheat combined with malted barley are offered in this famous pure food.

Grape-Nuts being partially pre-digested by long baking, gives quickly a wonderful power to "do," in return for the small energy required to digest it. Better and more complete nourishment than Grape-Nuts and cream is difficult to find; and with the price of meat way up there's true economy, too.

This sturdy food is sold by Grocers everywhere, in wax-sealed packages. Thousands make it a part of their daily breakfasts.
