'HIGHER' EDUCATION

Wants to Stay on Farm. Why, in my own family," said Mr. Taylor, as he left the speaker's desk and came down on the floor, "we are up against the problem of keeping our own young daughter on the farm. We want her to grow up on the farm, marry some culate." anonymous political dodger in campaign nice young farmer and come home and run the farm, but our neighbors' children are all imbued with the idea that they must go to the town school and then to the high school, with the result that my wife has had to move to town for the purpose of giving the girl an education, while I have to stay out on the farm and

Arraigns Higher Ed cation.

"All of this is the result of our so statute books with legislation designed called 'higher education,' which has been to cure an evil confined to Douglas inaugurated by the univerity regents in county alone. Further, he argued that it which they have made it possible for was unwise to hamper the business of any student after they have reached a certain grade in their studies to be ad-Dedge replied that the bill burdened no mitted to the university and so there is one but the man desirous of disseminat- a rivalry among the boys and girls of ing dirty, blackmailing lies. Beal again to the university and the system of Custer suggested that an unsigned cir- used in spending money. "We could cular had no effect. Several took issue get nothing from them." said he, "because they said it would take three months to get together figures to show against it. They were: Gates, Henry, just what they were doing. There are Kohl, Mattes, Piller, Wilson of Dodge eighty-five heads of departments at the university with smaller heads.

Post Graduate Work.

Taking the botany department as a ample, Mr. Taylor said there were five professors drawing salaries running from $3,500 down to $1,000 per year. Then he said that there were other teachers. He called attention to the system is vogue between state universities in which for instance a student from the Iowa university could come to the Nebraska university and take what is called a post graduate course. He is put in charge of a class and instead of paying for his course we pay him for the instruction which he is getting. All this system he said was demoralising and unbusinesslike. "We require the railway commission, for instance," said he, "to submit to us a list of the employes they have and the salary paid Why should not the same each one." requirement be made of the State uni-"We turn over to them millions burned early this merning. Pifteen of dollars in a lump sum and only say, Gentlemen, here is this money, take it and spend it any way you wish, we don't care!"

Speaking of the Carnegie method of ouliding universities, Mr. Taylor scored the system strongly, saying it was simply a movement to build great universities for the purpose of corrupting public sentiment.

Peterson Flares Back.

At the close of Taylor's talk, Representative Peterson of Lancaster, a member of the committee whom Taylor had referred to as being influenced by university people, took the floor and hammered the Custer county statesman unmercifully. He said the committee was not ready to report. If the house wanted a committee where six of the members whole thing, well and good, but as for himself, he did not propose to have any impugn his motive or tell him what he

Government Checks Up.

"The government sends men here every year to check up the use of the funds and so far there has been no complaints. I am deeply grieved that of all the departments at the university, Mr. Taylor should have selected the department presided over by Prof. Bessey, who is now awaiting the last call home at the end of long and useful career."

intention on the part of the committee to hamper the work of the chairman, but the work had hardly started and this was no time to come before the house just cause the committee could not agree. Nichols of Madison sent up a substitute to the Taylor motion, asking for instructions from the house whether it wanted the committee to bring in a report for an itemised appropriation. The Nichols substitute simply ordered the committee to get to work without instructions from the house and carry out the work they were appointed to do.

Much Time Wasted.

"We have spent half a day," said Mr. Nichols, "discussing a matter which is not before the house and we ought to quit and get to work."

H. R. 61. Scudder of Hall—Provides for parlier annual school meeting, making it first instead of last Monday in June.

Doctors Disagree And Bill is Sent Over the Transom

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Feb. 13.-(Special.)-Repre centatives sat back in their chairs today and enjoyed the fun while Dr. Hoffhard fall out of Dr. Meredith of Saunders. The tilt leated for about three minutes and resulted in killing Meredith's bill, H. R. 323, to require the burial of corpses infected with contagious diseases in air tight and water tight cement vaults or steel cases.

As soon as the bill had been read Dr. Hoffmeister moved to indefinitely postpone it. Looking over at Dr. Meredith he declared that anybody ought to know se, said that an investigation ought to that when a corpse is buried six feet under ground no germs can escape thereafter. "This bill is in the interest of the undertaker trust, the biggest trust in the Inited States, was Hoffmelster's emphatic declaration. Replying to this attack, Meredith saiff that many cemeteries have wells from which water is taken for drinking purposes and that decomposed matter from corpses is likely to find its way into these wells unless precautions are taken against it. He did not believe the exsense of providing vaults or steel cases would be great.

There was no further discussion. The rote to kill the bill was almost unanimous and chairman Nichols, in comnittee of the whole officially pronounced
