

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET Rise in Shares Attributed to Berlin's Acceptance of U. S. Proposals.

NEW YORK, March 3.—For want of some more specific reason Wall street was disposed to attribute the rise in stocks to Berlin's acceptance of Washington's proposals regarding the regulation of this country's exports to Europe.

At any rate the market, which opened with some irregularity, soon became strong with an unusually large number of material net gains.

Trade was more diversified than in recent days, but speculative favorites led the movement throughout. United States Steel, Reading and the seasoned dividend payers contributing over 40 per cent of the gains.

Specialties moved in contrary fashion, some showing substantial advances, while others fell. The market for gold was exemplified in a twenty-point rise in General Chemical and an eighteen-point decline in Harvester Corporation preferred.

The strength of Steel and allied shares was accounted for by the February record of the trade which it seemed a debatable question whether the current month was keeping pace with its predecessor.

Foreign exchange markets were irregular with a tendency to fall under last month's figures and higher prices for finished products are being made by exporters to Europe.

Long-time money was easier, half-year loans being made at 2 1/2 per cent and call loans were made at the surprising low rate of 1 1/2 per cent.

Among the numerous railway returns for January, New York reported a net increase of $307,000; Boston & Maine, $24,000; and Northern Pacific a very slight increase leading total $35,000 and Louisville $15,000.

Bonds as a whole advanced in the face of increased offerings for European account. Missouri Pacific showed special strength. Total sales par value, were $3,500,000.

SUPPLIES OF DRUGS IN SECRET PLACES

Investigation of the Rendevous of Dope Fiends Reveals Plentiful Stores on Hand.

ILLICIT SALE HAS BEEN STOPPED

That the effects of the new federal law will not be felt for some time to come by the many dope users was proven by an investigation carried on by a Bee reporter, who, in the company of Detective Charles Van Dusen, visited the various hovels and the bottoms, where the "snow birds" and "hopheads" congregate. Practically all have provided in some measure for just such an occasion.

The home of George and Maude Gum, 146 California street, was the first place visited. Two years ago they returned to Omaha from Texas, where they had gone on a visit. At that time they were both plentifully supplied with money and possessed jewelry valued at more than $5,000.

Less than a year since George cut his wife's hair and sold the switch to obtain money to buy dope.

The pair now live in the most miserable squatter, confirmed users of any narcotic they can procure. Maude within the decade ending with 1914 asserts that she has used more than $10,000 worth of gum opium for her own consumption.

Her husband has smoked more than that amount.

The pair still had a small supply of morphine left, which they were guarding like a chemist would an equal amount of radium.

"I guess we'll croak when this is gone," declared Maude when asked what they would do in the future.

Still Had Plenty. At Twelfth and Chicago streets, in a hovel that is devoid of windows, were found "Kitten" and "Goldy" Green, Lewy Patterson and Victor Cronin huddled in a pile of filthy rags on the floor. The first three are colored cocaine fiends, while Cronin, who is white, could not be made to tell what drug he used.

None seemed to be suffering from lack of the product, and would vouchsafe no plans for the future than "We'll get along somehow."

The shack of Beanie Payne and Grace Kane at Ninth and Capitol Avenue, together with visits to a half dozen more equally dilapidated hovels disclosed the same sort of drug fiends but none who seemed to be suffering from want of their particular poison.

Dufrene Estate of Half Million Given to Mrs. Hill by Will

The estate of Mrs. Elizabeth Dufrene, estimated to be worth $500,000, will go to her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth R. D. Hill, by the terms of Mrs. Dufrene's will, which has been filed for probate.

The will was written in July, 1910, provided that the late Fred Dufrene, proprietor of the Farman hotel, a son of the dead woman, should inherit equally with his sister, Mrs. Dufrene, however met death only a few weeks ago by jumping from the second floor of his hotel during delirium caused by illness.

No person of Roman Catholic faith shall inherit any interest in the estate, Mrs. Dufrene's will provides. No explanation for this provision is made in the will. Relatives say they know of no reason for it.

The instrument provides that grandchildren shall not inherit any part of the estate until they become 25 years of age and then only in the event they shall not be spendthrifts nor incapable of caring for property.

Provision is made that Fred James Hill, Mrs. Hill's husband, shall not acquire any interest in the estate. Mrs. Hill is named as executrix in the will.

DOPE VICTIM HIT HARD BY NEW LAW

Weak from Abstinence Drug Fiend Asks Police to Place Him in Jail.

COULD BUY NONE AT THE STORES

Weak from the terrible cramps occasioned by the abstinence from dope, Clarence Ferry, aged 26 years, Denver, Colo., telephoned police headquarters from the Merritt drug store, Twentieth and Farnam streets,

Tuesday night, and asked that he be arrested. A fruitless search to procure morphine or cocaine, made possible by the recent enforcement of the federal dope law, convinced Ferry that his "habit" had been brought to an end, and wishing to receive medical treatment through that period of pain and misery which follows the breaking away from dope, he sought confinement in jail.

Ferry was arraigned in police court before Acting Police Magistrate Britt and told his story to a decidedly interested group.

"Ferry, you are charged with being a vagrant and dope fiend," read City Prosecutor Fred Anheuser.

"Well, I plead guilty to being a dope fiend, that's why I'm here now," began the prisoner, "but I'm not a vagrant. I have been working steadily up till last night, when I had to quit because I couldn't stand the pain any longer."

"I hadn't had a bit of dope since Sunday, and the cramps nearly killed me. I tried drug stores after drug stores and the usual places where we get what we want, but it was of no use. I couldn't get a grain."

"You can't buy any more, Judge. The government has surely stopped us poor fellows from getting it. But you mark what I tell you, the dope fiend with money will have dope just the same. God

R. B. Howell Becomes Wrathful at Officers of Commercial Club

R. B. Howell, general manager of the Metropolitan Water district, declares he is going to the mat with the officials of the Commercial club, or at least, such officials as he contends were responsible for an alleged refusal to allow him to peruse the records of the board of directors.

Mr. Howell states for publication that Commissioner R. H. Manley of the Commercial club told him he was directed by officials of the club to decline to let Mr. Howell see the records.

Now Mr. Howell demands to know who those certain officials may be. He directed a letter to Commissioner Manley demanding the information be given him by 1 o'clock.

Mr. Howell has been granted permission to investigate the records at his leisure by President John L. McCague, who declared any member of the club had free right to look over the minutes any time he pleased.
