LEGISLATORS FALL FOR THE CABARET

Members of Nebraska Lawmaking Bodies See "Animal" for First Time Here.

MUCH PLEASSED WITH OMAHA

From a Staff Correspondent. LINCOLN, April 4.—(Special.)—Members of the legislature returning from Omaha today are full of enthusiasm over the reception given them by the Commercial club of the metropolitan city and the people there.

They have at other times enjoyed the hospitality of Omaha, but they are unanimous in pronouncing that this has put all other efforts in the shade.

Like Fontenelle. Especially are they enthusiastic over Omaha's new hotel, the Fontenelle, where the reception to the visitors was given and where the greatest banquet most of them have ever attended was served. They had heard much of the Fontenelle and were prepared to see something magnificent, but most of them expected to see nothing quite like it. Omaha has many fine hotels, but in the Fontenelle, they say, they saw the world. "Come and see us; we will show you the best here."

Manager Burbank of the hotel was everywhere. He learned more about Nebraska legislators that he probably ever guessed. They in return came back to Lincoln feeling that the new hotel was in good hands. Many of the members had heard much about "cabarets."

Would Like to Take It Back. This was the first time they had really seen the animal at close range and it is said that some of them, especially those whose hair had refused to grow upward and others whose hair had persisted in growing downward, would like to have taken some of the animals back to Lincoln.

It is the unanimous opinion expressed very often, that the reception tendered

COCONUT OIL FINE FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the least you use the better. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain milk and coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than soap of any kind. Use you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply molten. Your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

LINCOLN FIGHTS FIRE BILL

Capital City Struggles to Defeat Howell Anti-Discrimination Insurance Measure.

"INSIDIOUS LOBBY" CHARGED

LINCOLN, April 4.—(Special.)—The frantic efforts of certain interests and Lincoln newspapers to defeat senate file No. 46, the Howell anti-discrimination fire insurance bill, indicates that the capital city is determined to give up its employment of a cheaper rate on insurance than other cities and towns of the state. Of course, nobody is blaming the Lincoln people, or some of them, for fighting a measure that will force them to pay the same rate as Omaha, Fremont, Grand Island and other cities.

AFFAIR PROVES A BURLESQUE

HAVANA, April 3.—Jack Johnson and Jess Willard completed their training yesterday afternoon for their forty-five round fight for the world's heavyweight championship on Monday. It was the last public appearance of the pugilists before they enter the ring at the Maricao race course.

Their final work was watched by the biggest crowd since the arrival of the exhibition. The same uncertainty and doubt as to the probable winner pervaded the minds of close followers of the pugilists before they enter the ring at the Maricao race course.

Neither fighter showed anything like a flash that would reveal hidden power or ability to clinch the premier honor of the boxing world.

Watch Willard Box. At Misranas a big gathering of men and women watched Willard box two rounds with each of his three sparring partners.

Referee Jack Welch announced tonight that he had seen and talked to the fighters and had told them he would not decide the fight on a technicality.

The afternoon was cold and cloudy, and the stadium was wind-swept, and Johnson said he was taking no chances.

Referee Jack Welch announced tonight that he had seen and talked to the fighters and had told them he would not decide the fight on a technicality.

There is ten years difference in the age of the two men: Willard not only is younger, but has the better of the height and reach. However, Johnson is exceedingly muscular, and will weigh more than he did in any previous fight.

Willard wishes to enter the ring at 20; he is about five pounds over that now. Each will carry into the ring from five to seven pounds of superfat flesh. In order to have something aside from muscular energy to burn up during the struggle.

The apparent endurance of each is unlimited, neither having shown signs of exhaustion at any time during the last week in their work. There is a wide difference of opinion among fight experts regarding the possible length of the fight; the style of the principals and the advantage each possesses. It is generally admitted, however, that the champion is Willard's master in the science of offensive and defensive fighting and that he is faster on his feet and with the eye.

Willard, however, has learned to snap a fine left to the face and body, which is extremely effective, owing to his enormous reach. The negro can look for trouble in this direction. The white man's wings and straight drives have more power behind them than Johnson's.

Johnson has the advantage of quickness and sureness of foot; although he shuffles about, he has the movements of a cat and is a fine judge of distance. Willard is slow, it appears, at times uncertain of the next step. Frequently he finds himself in an awkward, unbalancing position and if this happens in the ring the negro will be sure to turn it to his advantage.

Expert opinion supports the belief that it will either be a very short fight or a very long one. In the past it has been the next step. Frequently he finds himself in an awkward, unbalancing position and if this happens in the ring the negro will be sure to turn it to his advantage.

Storz Lads to Open Season with Combat With Chicago Team

Owing to the unfavorable weather, Manager Bradford, of the Storz, will not book any regular games for at least two weeks.

William's best chance to win lies in a terrific smash landed in a mixup in the early rounds, or the slow smothering of the older man, although in the latter case, much depends on the virtually unknown ability of both to stand punishment, such as only these giants can deal.

Willard is a better fighter now than ever before in his life, but the question is whether he is good enough to whip Johnson. On the other hand, it is generally agreed that Johnson is stouter than he was five years ago, when he fought Jeffries, but many observers surmise that he has not gone back much.

A thousand spectators here today would like the answer to that question, but no answer is possible until Monday tells the tale. All realize that there is a psychological as well as a physical side to the fighting game, and many believe that in that respect Johnson has the advantage.

Unless the weather should interfere as only Cuban weather can, when rain comes down in torrents, there will be an assembling of immense crowds. Although Willard attracts little attention in the streets, as compared with Johnson, who travels about a good deal in an automobile with his wife and is always attired in a fashion to catch the eye, yet the whooping and cheering of the Cuban fans are extremely popular and victory by him would be widely acclaimed.

While the Cuban authorities readily granted permission for this fight, they will not, it is announced, sanction fights between local white and black men in the future. They say they are not concerned with foreign problems, but have their own to deal with.

There is less actual betting on this contest than on any similar match in years. There are so many uncertain angles to consider that the big betters are doubtful where to put their money.

Johnson notified the promoters that he was not satisfied with the plan of a nineteen-foot ring, which he considers too small for big men. Consequently, the pugilists will battle in a twenty-foot ring, with a three-foot extension outside the ropes.

A large crowd passed in a steady stream before the ticket windows of the downtown headquarters all day long. Most of the tickets were sold in blocks of two, four and six, and in all sections of the arena. The total taken in for the day exceeded $10,000.

AKOZ AS THE RIVAL OF RADIUM GAINS PHENOMENAL SUCCESS

New Mineral Upsets Many of the Accepted Medical Theories. Another California product has made good. It is Akoz, a radio-active medicinal mineral discovered by former State Harbor Commissioner and State Labor Commissioner John D. MacKenzie of San Francisco.

Although discovered less than five years ago, Akoz has won phenomenal success, due chiefly to its merits in the treatment of rheumatism, stomach trouble, eczema, catarrh, ulcers, piles and other ailments. It has brought relief in case after case where doctors have failed. The results tend to prove Mr. MacKenzie's contention that Akoz has upset many of the established medical theories.

"Akos is quite different from any other remedy yet discovered," said Mr. MacKenzie, in speaking of the success accrued by his remedy. "It is a pure, natural mineral, free from harmful constituents. It is similar in its action to radium, and does all that is claimed for that mineral, yet it is used without the pain, danger or prohibitive cost.

"Because the Akos treatment is so different from others, a few words of explanation regarding the several preparations should be of interest. The internal powder is a wonderful tonic that has proven very effective in correcting stomach, liver, kidney and bladder trouble. By correcting the stomach and the blood, it has also given relief in an exceptionally large number of cases of rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia and eczema. Where there is acute inflammation or swelling in rheumatism, the Akos compound is also used until the condition is relieved. In connection with the eczema treatment, Akos ointment and dusting powder are used to remove the effect, while the internal powder is correcting the cause. The internal powder is very effective for
