

BRIEF CITY NEWS

Have Meet Packed In—Now Season Frost Electric fans, $7.95. Burgess-Grandam. "Today's Complete Movie Program" classified section today, and appears in The Bee EXCLUSIVELY. Find out what the various moving picture theaters offer. For Safety First in Life Insurance see W. H. Indoe, general agent State Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Worcester, Mass., one of the oldest (71 years) and best companies on earth.

Cigars Stolen—H. Kronstadt, who has a store at 106 Park avenue, reports that someone broke the glass in a window and annexed a big lot of tobacco. At the police station the loot is identified, and many a policeman is interested in trying to determine who got the cigars.

Motorcyclist Fined—Alonso Ruesman, who struck a man at Thirty-fourth and Farnam streets while riding his motorcycle around a street car was fined $5 and costs in police court and was lectured by Judge Kubat for careless riding. The man who was struck was not seriously hurt.

Looter Seizes Some Cash—Morris Weinstein, 222 North Twenty-sixth street, heard someone in the house about 4 a. m. and failed to chase them out. He found when he got up that the early visitor had entered through a side window which was left open and had secured cash amounting to $30. Nothing else was missing.

McVann to Spend His Vacation at Work on Briefs

"For men may fish and men may swim, but McVann writes briefs forever." J. J. McVann, manager of the traffic bureau of the Commercial club, rolled down the top of his desk at noon and remarked: "You now have the imitation of a man closing his desk for a vacation."

"Where to?" he was asked. "Glenwood Springs, Colo., until some time in September. Going to take the family with me, and we will be on our way this afternoon." "Good. You will do lots of fishing, I suppose?" "No, I'm not a fisherman," replied the man whose head is a beehive of rate schedules. "Do you swim or play golf out there?" "No."

"Then what is your particular vacation stunt?" "The rate man carried a big cube out of the atmosphere with his hands. "There, I'm taking a stack of papers with me that high," he said, and he patted down the imaginary atmosphere cube. "I'm going to write my brief in the Nebraska rate case. Won't that be nice out there in the cool mountains with no one to bother me?"

Thrashing Machines Humming All Over State of Nebraska

According to the morning reports to the railroads, while there were a few scattered showers over the state Thursday night, the weather is clear and warm. From all points come reports that farm work is progressing rapidly and that since the cessation of the heavy rains, farmers have made good headway with their work.

All of the Nebraska small grain has been cut and thrashing is well under way. Throughout the northern part of the state in territory tributary to the Northwestern lines, thrashing commenced the middle of the present week and, according to reports to the company headquarters here, the yield is much better than was anticipated. Reports tell of thirty-five bushels per acre, while twenty-five bushels is the rule, rather than the exception.

Tom Allen Spends the Day in Omaha

Thomas S. Allen, new incumbent of the United States district attorneyship, spent the day in the city, attending to business of the office.

"I can't give any definite information yet as to who will be my assistant," he said. "Of course, whoever it is, he will have to live here in Omaha." A visitor in the office expressed astonishment when Mr. Allen said he liked to live in Lincoln. The visitor said he couldn't believe his ears. The visitor brought out the old joke and remarked that he had spent a week in Lincoln one Sunday.

"Well, I've lived in Lincoln all my life and I don't feel like moving to Omaha for four years," said Mr. Allen.

SOUTH SIDE WANTS A SUB-TREASURY

Matter is Threshed Out at a Meeting of the Board of County Commissioners. TO MAKE REPORT MONDAY

The issue, whether a subtreasury shall be maintained in South Omaha, as contemplated by the annexation law, was threshed out before the Board of County Commissioners. A delegation from South Omaha and members of the city council and School Board Treasurer Ure were present.

After a discussion the board decided that the questions involved were of a technical legal nature and referred the issue to the legal advisers of the county, city and school board, who are expected to make a report Monday. The members of the board agreed that a sub-treasury should be maintained on the south side in accordance with expressed intent of the law.

Treasurer Ure presented several objections to the sub-treasury and explained that he had removed the duplicate county tax records from the South Side, because he desired to proceed cautiously in the matter. He declared that originals of all tax records should be in his office in Omaha and that duplicates should be kept at South Omaha. He estimated the cost of preparing the needed duplicates at from $10,000 to $12,000. Other speakers objected to this estimate and declared the cost would not exceed from $1,000 to $2,000.

Mayor Dahlman and other city officials declared South Omaha had been promised a sub-treasury and that the promise should be kept. County commissioners expressed the same opinion.

Mayor Waits for Offer from Movies

Mayor Dahlman is being showered with encomiums by fulminating friends, who regard him as the greatest Transmulean jockey who ever drove a mule. The mayor's feat at the speedway is bringing him fame and fortune. He expects an offer to become a movie actor.

"It's all understanding the nature of the mule. The mule has been a much-maligned animal, unjustly so," declared the mayor to a group of friends.

"No animal is more susceptible to kind treatment and no animal will be quicker to resent an affront," he added.

The mayor declares the mule has been misunderstood.

"Stubborn as a mule," is wrong, according to the mayor, who explains the mule is not stubborn, but merely has the courage of his convictions.

He avers the mule knows its own gait and does not attempt to exceed the speed limit. It does not believe in working until its nature has been exhausted, nor will it supinely submit to scurrilous attacks.

"Man's most faithful friend in the animal kingdom," says the mayor.

The Season's Greatest Sale of MEN'S SHIRTS

at 29c

Involving Values of $1.00 to $1.50

GREATEST—Yes, greatest by far of any shirt sale held in Omaha this season.

A big factory's surplus bought at a ridiculous price. The shirts are made coat style, some have soft low collars attached, while some have military collars attached, all have cuffs attached.

The materials are the most favored, clean cut stripes with white grounds. Every shirt positively first quality and high grade—that's what makes this sale so important.

Value-Giving Such as This Is Unusual Even Here

No man can come here and leave without supplying himself with plenty of shirts for the entire summer.

Special attention of young men is directed to the military collar shirts so desirable for school and college wear.

On Sale Main Floor and Basement.

The quantity is so great that we decided to devote space in our main floor and basement men's section to the sale. So as to give quick and smooth service we have extra salespeople, extra wrappers and extra cashiers, and arranged the styles and sizes so as to enable you to make quick selection.

Mothers, Wives, Daughters and Sisters, now is the time to get shirts for Father, Husband, Son and Brother. We especially invite you, for you know materials and workmanship, and we know you will appreciate the wonderful values we are offering.
