FAIR ATTENDANCE EXCEEDS RECORDS

Best Year Ever Experienced is More Than Equalled at Nebraska Exposition.

PRESIDENT ROBERTS GRATIFIED

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—Nebraska's state fair, in its 41st year, has passed into history today as the greatest ever held.

The total attendance for the week was 189,767, as compared to 166,964 in 1912, the best year previous to this.

The events concluded with the auto-racing program this afternoon. After that the work of tearing down the big exposition was on.

Roberts' Statement. In discussing the breaking of all records at the 1915 Nebraska State fair President Joseph Roberts said:

"My friends on every hand say: 'Joe, you have caused to be proud of this fair,' and my answer is: 'I certainly am.'"

"Words cannot express my appreciation of the efforts of our worthy secretary, W. R. Meyer, the board of managers, the superintendents, the assistants and the helpers, who have done their part in making this the greatest in the history of Nebraska fairs. I want to especially thank the press. The editors of Nebraska have stood by us as never before and they are in a position to make or destroy the prospects for a big fair, regardless of the efforts of the management. This fair has proven to me and I think it should convince the few critics that the Nebraska citizens are interested in and are reasonably satisfied with its management.

Hagerow and his Nebraska band of Lincoln and Green's band of Omaha have demonstrated the fact that those seeking good music need not go out of Nebraska to find it.

"With 1915 horns on the ground in 1915, I believe that the next legislature will realize that we asked no more than was needed last winter to build the new swine barn."

"I believe that a few of the big machinery dealers will see their mistake in missing the opportunity of exhibiting their lines before the people and will also admit that a record-breaking fair can be held without them. We hope to see them with us another year.

"With Nebraska's agricultural and horticultural products leading all rivals, with new factories springing up, new industries being founded, and with the press loyal to the farming classes, I can see in the future Nebraska's brilliant opportunity of leading all the state fairs in the United States."

State Health Exhibit.

Those in charge of the State Medical Association's health exhibit said that more than 10,000 visitors took in that part of the fair and evinced more than a passing interest in it. The decided impetus given to sanitation movements more than justified the instance of the physicians that such an exhibit would be worth while.

Lectures were given three times a day. Monday the crowd was given a long dissertation on "Tuberculosis," Tuesday on "Special Medical Advice to Men," Wednesday on "Cancer," Thursday on "Better Children" and Friday on "Special Advice to Women."

Consuming Public Concerned.

Definite impetus to the movement for consumption of Nebraska-grown apples by Nebraska folks was given when members of the Southeastern Nebraska Fruit Growers' association decided to emphasize this in most of their business affairs. Val Keyser, C. H. Marshall and E. M. Pollard, backed by such such men as Art Weaver of Fair City, declare that when Nebraska people consume Nebraska products millions more each year will be retained in the state and a prosperity even greater than that upon the state at the present time.

That is some strong assertion, but these sterling business men are ready to stand for it. "Nebraska apples have everything in their favor. They are better than foreign-grown apples and they keep longer, and, finally, they are cheaper. Why buy others?" said Val Keyser.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 11.—(Special Telegram.)—Emil Muzik, whose execution for the murder of his wife in Omaha was set for the date of September 15, has secured a lease of life through the filing of an appeal in the supreme court. His attorneys have asked for a reversal of the conviction, which acts as an automatic stay of sentence until the case has been heard and decided by the high bench.

The killing of Mrs. Muzik was the result of a quarrel with her husband. He had not been working steadily to support the family, and when she wanted him to get up one morning and go to work, he then threatened to cut her throat if she did not let him alone. She met this with the threat to leave him unless he got up. He thereupon jumped out of bed and slashed her throat from ear to ear with a table knife.

NEW MAN BUILT FROM WRECK

Surgeons Patch Pieces of Soldier Together and Turn Out Better Looking and More Finished Product.

WELL SATISFIED WITH HIMSELF

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) LONDON, Aug. 31.—Some remarkable instances of surgical science have been brought to light during the present war, but the following story telling how a horribly mutilated soldier was reconstructed from his own ruins, adds one more miracle to the list. A French newspaper correspondent was admitted to the Rothschild hospital to see for himself the miracle in question after the surgeons had completed their work. The correspondent was shown a photograph of a man wounded in the French trenches. It was a terrible picture. The face lacked the lower portion of the left cheek, the chin had gone and also the lips and nose.

While the correspondent was looking at this appalling picture, one of the hospital assistants made a sign to one of the patients who was just going out to spend an afternoon at a picture show. "Here is our man," said the assistant.

Face is Re-built.

The correspondent stared uncomprehendingly, but the assistant added with a smile:

"Yes, I assure you, this is the patient whose photograph you have in your hand; the man who was brought into the hospital without his cheeks, jaw, lips, chin and nose."

The correspondent at first thought the assistant was losing him as the patient who was just going out bore few signs of the dreadful wounds depicted in the photograph. His right cheek was the twin brother of his left cheek; he had an excellent chin; lips that opened in a genial smile, and a nose of perfect contour. His face only bore the rapidly vanishing traces of some cuts and a few white marks occasioned by surgical sewing.

The patient himself proceeded to confirm the assistant's assertions, talking in the slang of the French infantryman:

Better Looking Man.

"Yes, it's myself; wasn't any good for the Germans to spoil my portrait. The doctors tricked them after all. As you see, he has manufactured for me a very decent face. For myself, I think he has improved it, and I believe they'll find me more of a knut when I get back into the country." Then he lit a cigarette and went off to see the show.

The surgeon had taken a portion of the

AVOID SLAUGHTERS OF PEACE. SAYS REDFIELD

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Speaking tonight at the evening meeting of the United States sanitary officers, held in connection with the annual convention of the American Public Health association in the Central Presbyterian church, William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce, urged American citizens to view with sober minds the slaughter abroad and to look a little under the surface of things in their own country and consider ways of preventing what he called the slaughters of peace; those of industry and preventable disease. Incidentally he gave it as his opinion that the recovery of Europe's forces from the effects of the war would be slow and he urged as an example to bear out his view the slow recovery of Virginia from the effects of the civil war.
