LIGHT IS THROWN ON BONDING DEAL

Soon After Judge England's Change of Front He Writes Bonds for Six State Officers.

HELPS KILL INSURANCE BILL

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Sept. 16 .- (Special.) -The inside story of the bond deal in which Judge W. H. England of Lincoln was able to pull down the bulk of the bonds of the state officers, may never be told, but enough information is available to give the impression that politics played a large part, although the judge stoutly denies his desertion of the republican candidate, Mr. Howell, after he had was because of any consideration of promised fat premiums for writing the bonds of the democratic officials.

The story runs something like this, and it may be continued in coming chapters. Some after R. B. Howell of Omahs had announced that he would not be a candidate for the republican nomination for governor in 1814, Judge England and a number of other former bull moosers, now calling themselves progressive publicans, got out a petition and filed it with the secretary of state, after coaxing the Omaha water board boss to reconsider his decision not to become a candidate, and he was thus made candidate. This has little to do with the story except to show that the judge was a "progressive."

England Changes Front. The second chapter opens with the judge playing the part of a booster for the democratic opponent of Mr. Howell, Governor John H. Morehead, notwithstanding Howell had been successful in landing the republican nomination. At the time it was considered worthy of comment that Judge England should go back on his "progressive" candidate for governor and get behind a democratic candidate, outside his own party, at that, branded far and wide as a reactionary.

However, Judge England now explains the matter by saying that in a trip east he discovered Howell was not sincere in his professions toward the water power projects, etc., and so he concluded to turn his efforts to the election of More

Writes Bonds of Six Officers. Chapter three opens soon after the be ginning of the year 1915, when it was dis covered that Governor Morehead and other state officers had turned the writing of their bonds over to Judge England In his first term Governor Morehead had filed a personal bond without cost to the state, but for his second term Judge England was given the privilege of writ ing a company bond for him

Other officers about the state hous who gave their bonds to Judge England as shown by the records, were:

This, counting the bond of the governor gives a total of $1,285,000, which th judge was able to write, besides th bonds of several examiners in the pur food department, which, if, as he says he was given the writing of the bond of the governor simply because the executive appreciated his support, indicates Delta Upsilon that other democrats must have be very appreciative of the judge's repu lican support likewise.

Helps Kill Insurance Bill. But there is still another chapter. it will be remembered that during last days of the legislature there was mighty fight over the passage of sens file 46, the anti-discrimination fire surance bill. The bill had passed the se ate and was before the house. Prospec looked good for its passage.

On the day before the bill was to cor up in committee of the whole in house, Judge England appeared on t scene. The judge was away on busine in some other state, but he appeared the supreme moment and unlimbered typewriter battery, flooded the desks the members with letters attacking bill and posing as the friend of hone insurance methods. The bill passed committee of the whole by a close vote and then a fight began to kill it when it came up for final passage. It was noted that most of the fellows who now have their bonds written by Judge England were either present in person or had representatives on hand using every argument to make members change their votes. Enemies of the bill pleaded with members to change their votes and kill the bill. Appointees of the governor were on the scene working hard to kill this bill and their efforts were successful. Was this also part of the deal, is now being asked.

LARGE EXHIBITS IN ALL

BROKEN BOW, Neb., Sept. 16.-(Spe cial.)-Although the weather has been threatening all the week, there was a good attendance at the Custer county fair today. There are plenty of attractions this year to please the crowd and it seems to be taking advantage of them all. The racing program is exceptionally good, there being five running events each day. There are no harness or motorcycle races. The live stock and agricultural exhibits are attracting a good deal of attention, as also is the better babies contest. Bables from all over the county have been entered and competition is keen. The school, art, woman's and culinary departments are all making fine displays. In the line of amusements there are Taylor's band, high grade vaudeville acts, special bills at the theaters, sideshows and dancing. The evening's bill is augmented by a fine display of fireworks.

GIRLS ARE BETTER STUDENTS

Scholarship Records of Scrorities of University Much Better Than Fraternities.

NON-FRATS HIGHER THAN FRATS

LINCOLN, Sept. 16 -(Special.)-On the eve of the rushing season, when Greek letter societies will issue invitations to over 200 freshmen boys and girls, Dean Engberg of the senate scholarship committee today made public the scholarship standings of the different organizations. The fraternities and sororities, after beating the non-fraternity men and boys in scholarship during the year 1913-14, fell down again last year, although the coeds compiled a wonderful scholarship

Two Sororitles Near Tie.

The members of Kappa Kappa Gamma achieved a remarkable record during the second semester-in fact, all of the co-ed organisations were superior to the fraternities. The Jowest scholarship standing of any scrovity during the second semester was higher than the highest standing of any fraternity. Kappa Kappa Gamma and Kappa Alpha Theta raced neck and neck during the last half of the year for first honors and beat all scholarship records at the university. Kappa Kappa Gamma had a percentage of excellence of 287.7, with only 1.5 per cent failure, while Kappa Alpha Theta had 287.6, with only 1.2 per cent fallure.

Dean Engberg gives the following explanation of the means of arriving at the scholastic standings: "To obtain the index number weight, the percentages of grades are as follows: E, 4; G, 8; M, 2 and C. -2; and F and D, -3.

PART PAYMENT OF RIDGELL'S FEES

Omission in Session Law Index Responsible for Part of Trouble at State House.

STATE FAIR $15,000 TO GOOD

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 16 .- (Special Telegram.)-Following the suit started yesterday by Fire Commissioner Ridgell against State Treasurer Hall to compel the latter to pay warrants drawn for the payment of the expenses of the commis sioner's department, it has been discovered by the treasurer that the legislature of 1911 appropriated the fees of the office for the payment of the expenses, but in making up the session laws the same was not indexed, and therefore the treasurer as well as the fire commissioner, did not discover the fact.

The treasurer this afternoon notified Commissioner Ridgell that he would pay the warrants up to September 1, 1915, but after that time no payments will be made unless under a court decree, which will probably mean a suit before the supreme court. The controversy so far has een for the payment of warrants drawn before the expiration of the bienniu

Osteopaths Close Session. The convention of Osteopaths of Nebrankh, which closed its session here to day, elected the following officers: President, W. L. Burnhard, York; sec retary, W. R. Archer, Lincoln, treasurer, Lulu L. Cramb, Fairbury.

The association raised $900 in cash for the Still institute in Chicago and pledged $1,000 more toward its support.

Fair Profit $15,000. According to an estimate made by Sec retary Mellor of the State Board of Agriculture, the society will probably be $15 -000 ahead of the game on the 1915 fair, and perhaps more.

He figures that the receipts will be in the neighborhood of $105,000. The expenses cannot be told at this time, but he estimates that they will run around $85,000. If so the surplus will be about $5,000 more than Secretary Mellor's lowest figures.

New Beatrice Building. The Board of Control is working on the bids for the erection of a new building at the Home for Feeble-minded at Beatrice. The building will colt in the neighborhood of $40,000 and bids are being made on that estimate. A large number of bidders are present.
