

GIVE THEIR SKIN TO SAVE TINY TOT

Many Young Doctors to Have Skin Cut from Bodies to Give Lad Chance for His Life.

OPERATION TO BE MONDAY

With the recent preliminary skin-grafting operation, performed on Wilfred Riley, aged 4 years, bearing distinctive promise of success, the more important operation, of covering the boy's torso with cuticle, will take place at St. Joseph's hospital Monday, Sept. 27, between the hours of 9 and 10 o'clock.

Fight for Existence.

Since that time Wilfred has been putting up a hard fight for existence and last Monday morning Dr. C. C. Allison took skin from his own arm, and from the boys' limbs, and fixed it to the little fellow's chest, to start the growth, which, if successful, would enable the physicians to complete the operation. It was thought at first that the boy's mother would be called on for a portion of the necessary cuticle, but so many of the younger physicians have taken such an interest in "the kid" that volunteers aplenty are ready and waiting to surrender a portion of their own skin to make the work a complete success.

J. L. McCague to Entertain Former Club Presidents

A luncheon for ex-presidents of the Commercial club will be given Monday noon at the club rooms by John L. McCague, this year's president. Since 1893, twenty-two different business men have served as head of the organization. Of these, four have died, Herman Kountze, W. A. L. Gibson, J. Frank Carpenter and Edgar Allen. Three other past presidents of the club have left Omaha, Euclid Martin, J. E. Baum and W. L. Yetter. The other fifteen, counting President McCague, are all expected to attend the luncheon Monday, the purpose of which is to touch upon past experiences in club work and discuss suggestions for the future.

Heavy Rain Visits Most of the State

While the weather is now clear, calm and warm over all Nebraska, according to the reports to the railroads, the eastern, central and southern portions of the state were swept by an unusually heavy downpour of rain last night. Though the railroads sustained no damage by reason of washouts, all trains from out in the state were late on account of soft track. Along the North-western practically all the way from Omaha to Long Pine the precipitation was from one-half to an inch, and out around Lincoln from one to two inches. On the lines from Fremont to Hastings and Superior there was from two to six inches, the greatest precipitation being at Bee and Linwood.

Drawing Bill for Lower Light Rate

Corporation Counsel Lambert is drawing an ordinance to provide for a 6-cent primary rate for electric light and power current. The initial quantity upon which this rate shall apply has not been determined, but it is believed it will be considerably more than the existing initial quantity of twenty-five kilowatt hours.

POWELL ASKS TRAFFIC OFFICER FOR SCHOOLS

C. G. Powell, secretary of the Omaha Automobile club, has written the city commissioner suggesting that a traffic officer be stationed at each of the schools to apprehend motorists who disregard the "slow-down" signs at school buildings. He also suggests placing signs in streets near schools as warning. The contention is that the present signs are not easily visible.

Russell Burton Has Exciting Time With Bad Man and a Dog

Russell Burton, 2021 Harney street, is just a regular 14-year-old kid, with an ordinary youngster's experiences, but within the last twenty-four hours has led the life colorfully depicted by juvenile writers. Friday afternoon Russell and a boy companion, Vernon French, 2015 Howard street, were coming down town by way of an alley when a man suddenly sprang from behind the corner of a building and dragged Burton inside. Burton put up a valiant fight, and finally managed to kick himself loose. Instead of running away crying he joined his "buddy" and the pair, keeping a good distance behind their assailant trailed him to a North Sixteenth street saloon. While Russell watched the man, Vernon found Sergeant Pete Dillon, who arrested the fellow. At police headquarters he gave the name Bernard Whalen, and in court pleaded guilty to the offense and was sentenced to ninety days in the county jail.

Judge English Says Wesley Gard Must Stand for Trial

Judge English has denied the motion which has been pending for a long time for the dismissal of the indictments for perjury brought by the last grand jury against Wesley Gard for answering falsely as a juror in the Taylor libel suit. The judge overruled the demurrer and held Gard to trial. Gard's attorneys, Brome & Brome, had asked that their client be released on the ground that one of the grand jurors was less than 21 years of age.

Principal Takes Numbers of Autos Which Speed By

Mrs. Agnes M. Harrison, principal of Farnam school, has submitted to Superintendent Kugel of the police department a list of numbers of twenty automobilists said to have speeded past the Farnam school on Friday during a period of fifteen minutes. Other principals will follow this plan. "A man arrested a few days ago for speeding by our school at thirty-five miles an hour while children were around, was not even arraigned in police court. His name was scratched off the book after his arrest. I have written the police judge a letter on this subject and believe something should be done to abate the evil," stated Mrs. Harrison.

YOUNG BOY VICTIM OF SEVERE TORTURE

Six-Year-Old Lad Frightfully Maltreated by Another Boy Who is Only Nine Years Old.

VICTIM ALL BUT SKINNED ALIVE

Juvenile court authorities at Council Bluffs are investigating a remarkable case of juvenile perversion and have developed an astonishing tale of youthful depravity. A little boy of 6 is the victim, and a boy of 9 the perpetrator of an outrage, the details of which are incredibly savage. Owing to the prominence of the parents of the victim and the fact that the mother of the other boy is dangerously ill, names for the present are withheld.

Beaten and Tortured. The older boy enticed the younger into a vacant house on Avenue E, took him into the cellar, stripped his clothing off and beat him with a barrel stave, inflicting a number of dangerous wounds on his head and body. Then the young fiend, apparently with a dull knife, tried to carry out a threat to skin his victim alive. Several serious injuries were inflicted during this operation. Finally the older boy threw his victim on the floor of the cellar and turned a heavy barrel over him and fled, apparently frightened away by the cries of the tortured lad.

Cries Were Unheard. No one heard the cries, however, and the torturer might have carried out his designs to the limit, so far as any interference was concerned. Leaving the suffering victim of his cruelty to suffocate under the barrel in which he was imprisoned, the young demon went to his home, where he was found by the authorities, when the case was finally reported. He did not show any indication of appreciation of what he had done, but rather appeared to take satisfaction in his achievement. He is under restraint at present, that he may not put in danger other children. What disposition will be made of his case has not been determined.

Victim is Recovering. The victim of the dreadful mistreatment managed some way to liberate himself and make his way home, where he is under care of a surgeon, slowly recovering from his terrible experience. A Cold is Dangerous, Break It Now. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is fine for coughs and colds. Soothes the lungs, loosens the mucus. Only 25c. All druggists.—Advertisement.

Gas Renze Maintains Creature of His Brain is a Real Work of Art

Nobody appreciates true art these days. Frinstance— A week or so ago inhabitants, passing down Farnam street, were surprised, startled, astonished and flabbergasted to see suspended from the city hall "Welcome arch" the figure of a horse. Several horses were frightened by it, autolists lost control of their machines, strong men became faint when they looked upon it. It was a horse. Yes, that was certain. The four legs could be seen in prancing attitudes. The tail streamed out behind and the arch of the neck showed that this was no common breed of horse. A prancing steed, indeed, of which Abou-ben-Hassan might have been proud ("might have been" is right). The steed was, no doubt, related to the far-famed Pegasus, for his prancing hoofs had no other support than the circumference of the arch. Remarkable! He was of a beautiful yellow color, about like the yolk of an egg. Never has horse been known like this horse. If Barnum could have secured him, his "sacred white elephant of Sam" would have had to take second place in the show. But let us turn from the wonders of nature to our original proposition, that

Cupid Wins Victory Over the God of War

Cupid won a victory over Mars, the god of war, when Henry Hammer, 29, secured a license to marry Miss Mathilda Amen, aged 19. Hammer was born in Russia and his bride was born in Germany. The fact that their native countries are at war makes no difference in the regard which they have for each other, they declared. They will live in Lincoln. See Want Ads Produce Results.
