Protestant Churches of City Unite in a General Observance of Annual Week of Prayer.

MUCH INTEREST IS DISPLAYED

Every evening during the week, with the exception of Wednesday, congregations of the Protestant churches of the elty have gathered at central churches. where they have observed the annual week of prayer. Wednesday evening, the congregations gathered in their own church, where the usual weekly prayer meeting was held.

At the week of prayer services this year, the meetings were much better attended than during any corresponding period in the past. As heretofore, some central church was selected and there the members from all other neighborhood churches met. At each service there was a short prayer service, followed by short talks from members, a song service, the meeting concluding with a short sermon by a pastor of some of the churches represented.

At the week of prayer meetings this year many new faces were noted. Large numbers of the men and women who united with churches following the "Billy" Sunday meetings were in the congregations and upon many occasions they gave their testimony. Pastors are greatly pleased with the auccess of the week of prayer services that close tonight and assert that there has never been a year when the attendance was so large and so much interest was displayed.

Preparedness

The Big Factor

Preparedness is today acknowledged to be the big problem in our national government.

It is likewise the big problem in the life of the individual-preparedness against emergencies of the future. There is one emergency which every man knows will come into his home-his own death. No man ever escaped. The wise man, the foresighted man, prepares for this hour by carrying safe, sound life insurance which guarantees that his widow will have at least enough money to pay the funeral bills.

Safe, sane preparedness in Nebraska may be had for every man in a certificate of membership in
