other performance in Omaha. and will play at the Boyd this evening, presenting "33 Washington Square," the farce comedy that made such a hit with Omaha folks, as well as with all others who have seen it. The engagement has been a decided success, and many who wanted to see the play were not able to secure seats for one of the prior performances. It was this fact that decided Miss Irwin to remain for the extra date. "- Washington Square" gives the popular comedienne the best chance she has had in a long time for the display of her unusual ability as a genial funmaker. As Matilda, the patient housekeeper, who is in love with the coachman and has to keep track of the whims of her ambitious mistress, her equally ambitious son, and a few others. Miss Irwin is the busy little person during the entire progress of the play. The performance this evening will positively end the stay of the company at the Boyd.

"Daddy Long-Legs" returns to the Brandels theater tomorrow night, February 14, for a farewell engagement. Notwithstanding the fact that this appealing remantic comedy was offered here for a half week last season, the performances given were not sufficient to satisfy the demands of playgoers for seats. This fact, coupled with the announcement that the play is coming back for the last time next week, has resulted in a heavy demand by mail for reservations, and all indications warrant the prediction that the return engagement of Jean Webster's play will surpass the hinted at things great and exciting. Turn records of the first presentation. Since the original engagement. Henry Miller has given first honors in the fine acting stage. The other roles are still played by the members of the original company that Omaha audiences saw last season.

> That rare combination of humor, pathos and characterisation grouped under the name of "Potash & Perlmutter," will reach here Sunday night, February 20, for a return engagement of four nights and a Wednesday matinee, at the Brandeis theater.

"Watch Your Step," with its original cast intact, will come to Omaha for two days. It will be seen at the Brandels theater, beginning February 27. Seats will be on sale Monday, February 21.

Mary J. Holmes' "Tempest and Sunshine" is announced for the week starting with matinee today at the Krug theater, where the North Bres.' Stock company will put forth an extra effort to present this ante-bellum story in a manner satisfactory to all. Sport North and Genevieve Russell will be seen in roles peculiarly suited to their abilities. "Tempest and Sunshine" has an embellishment of humor, and affords opportunities for bringing out the full strength of the North players. The story is so well known that any detailed reference is unnecessary. Attention is ago called to the family matinees on Timeday and Saturday, the policy of politeness and preparedness and movie prices. It is a family theater in the very best sense. One visit means continued attendance. Arrangements have been made for the presentation of a repertoire of splendid dramas and comedies during the weeks
