

A MESSAGE FROM SOUTH BRINGS JOY

Mechanic Rejoices Because He Can Now Obtain His Tanlac in Omaha.

HE PROFITS BY ADVICE.

"I certainly am glad to know that I can buy Tanlac now in Omaha," remarked E. B. Mallory, expert mechanic, who resides at 2019 Sixth street, Council Bluffs, Ia., during a visit to the Tanlac Man yesterday at the Sherman & McConnell drug store.

"My wife's folks live in Atlanta, Ga., and when we heard of how Tanlac had relieved so many people in the south we decided to send for a bottle. Previous to my taking the wonderful tonic I was forced to lay off from work, but since finding Tanlac I haven't lost a day. My troubles were the result of weak kidneys and sluggish liver.

"I felt tired and listless most of the time. I went about my work feeling as if I was being dragged down by some unseen burden. My back pained me fearfully. In the morning I would rise from a restless bed feeling tired and worn out. My tongue was always coated in the morning. I had no appetite and the food that I did force in my stomach didn't seem to give me any strength.

"When we received our Tanlac from the south I began taking it. Three days after it came I was eating like a 'pig.' In fact I used to feel ashamed of myself because it seemed as if I couldn't get enough. I sleep like a top now and in the morning I feel bright and ready to confront a hard day's work. Work no longer bores me because Tanlac has restored my 'pep.' I have recommended Tanlac to a number of the boys at the works and they have promised to try it, seeing that they can now get it in Omaha.

"I sincerely believe that Tanlac is the greatest system-builder on the market today—at least I have found it to be such. If anyone has their doubts concerning Tanlac's merits let them call on me."

Tanlac is purely a vegetable preparation. Tanlac is useful in the treatment of catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, including the stomach, kidneys and liver. It allays and heals inflammation. Its tonic effects traverse the whole system. Tanlac is an invigorant, appetizer, tonic and restorer of torn-down tissues.

Tanlac is being specially introduced and explained in Omaha at the Sherman & McConnell Drug Store, 15th and Dodge, where the Tanlac Man is in attendance.

Tanlac may be obtained in the following cities: Ashland, Cone's Pharmacy; Blue Springs, B. N. Dondor; Benson, Schiller-Beattie Pharmacy; Central City, Schiller Drug Store; Grand Island, Clayton's Pharmacy; Weeping Water, Meyer Drug Store.—Advertisement.

A JOKE ON E. J. DAVIS, SAFE MOVER

When H. L. Williams, District Representative for the Jeffrey Quad Truck, and A. F. Hibbe, local dealer, located in Fontenelle Garage, called on E. J. Davis, the safe mover, and began to tell him about the pulling powers of the Quad, he gave them the laugh and told them he had one job which it would take at least five horses to move, and then it was doubtful, owing to the heavy grade, etc. He offered to bet $100.00 to $50.00 the Quad could not move it. They would not bet, but agreed to give it a try out and made an appointment to be on the job next morning.

Mr. Davis went to the job with his men and team, and found the sturdy Quad awaiting. After the eight-ton engine had been loaded on a special wagon, the Quad was coupled up in front with one ton cement on to aid traction, and when Mr. Davis gave the word the mass of iron and steel began to roll across the foot ball grounds at Creighton College and up the big slippery hills and on down town. One big rope was pulled into through the wagon tongue, but the Quad never failed to show power at every wheel. The load was pulled into Mr. Davis' yard, and the boys all gave him the laugh. The Quad is only sold for a two-ton truck. It drives, steers and brakes on all four wheels, and Davis is still wondering where the power comes from.—Advertisement.

MRS. ROBERT LAING, PIONEER, IS DEAD

Widow of Early Nebraska Methodist Evangelist Passes Away of Old Age.

SIXTY-TWO YEARS IN THE STATE

Mrs. Ella Laing, widow of Robert Laing, one of the earliest pioneer women of Nebraska, and possibly the oldest settler of the state, died last night at the home of her son-in-law, A. D. Stiles, 2719 South Twentieth street. She had lived in Nebraska sixty-two years, after spending her girlhood in Kanesville, Ia., now Council Bluffs. She was 78 years of age. Death came from old age, after an illness of a year.

Mrs. Laing was one of the honored members of the Douglas county Pioneers' association, and was frequently honored by them. She was often spoken of as among the very first white women who lived in Nebraska.

Married in 1854. Mrs. Laing was married in 1854 to Robert Laing, who a short time before had come from Scotland to take up his life as a farmer on the western prairie. Her husband was a skilled musician as well as a churchman and before leaving Scotland, he had refused an offer from Jennie Lind to sing with her in opera.

Coming to the little Iowa settlement across the Missouri from Omaha, in the early fifties, Mr. Laing was married soon after to Mrs. Laing, who had taken her husband in Harry county near Springfield. Mr. Laing gave up the ministry to take up the life of a farmer. Forty-six years ago, in 1870, the family gave up life on the farm and moved to Omaha where Mr. Laing resumed his work in the ministry, which he continued until his death, sixteen years ago.

Mrs. Laing was prominent in Masonic affairs and during the illness of her widow the order has paid the aged woman a great many attentions.

Honored by Pioneers. Mrs. Laing was honored by her friends among the pioneers on the occasion of her seventy-fifth birthday in 1913, when she received a large company at her home and presented them each with a new photograph she had taken expressly for them. At this time President and Mrs. Wilson sent a letter of congratulation and good wishes accompanied by a Madeira hand-embroidered handkerchief.

Mrs. Laing will be buried in Fairview cemetery at Springfield by the side of her husband.

Letters of Robert Louis Stevenson Bring High Prices

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Admirers of Robert Louis Stevenson noted today with interest the prices paid for autograph letters of Stevenson in the sale here of the collection of letters owned by Mrs. Salisbury Field of Santa Barbara, Cal. Mrs. Field inherited the collection on the death of her mother, who was the author's wife.

The top price of yesterday's sale was $250, which was paid for an unpublished letter to Stevenson's mother in 1851, in which he mentions that he was paid only $100 for his "Virginian Puerisque." The letter brought $150 more than the price paid for the original work.

Hummel to Have Flowers in All of the City Parks

City Commissioner Hummel says he will introduce chrysanthemums and dahlias in the parks this spring. Roses are to be distributed more generously the coming season. A large order has been placed. Heretofore Hancock park has had more or less of a monopoly on the flowers of the park department.

Jardine Says Heels Cause Women to Fall

City Commissioner Jardine maintains that if women will wear common-sense heels on their shoes they will not be slipping on icy sidewalks and then filing claims with the city for damages. He told the city council that women are wearing French and Cuban heels, which are unsteady supports.

EXPORTS ABROAD ALMOST ENORMOUS

Lack of Transportation Facilities is Only Hindrance, Says C. J. Lane, Just Returned from East.

WAR BUSINESS VERY ACTIVE

"The east is swamped with business and if transportation facilities across the ocean were available, exports to Europe from the United States would immediately reach enormous proportions," asserted C. J. Lane, general freight agent of the Union Pacific, who just returned from an extended trip to Washington, Baltimore, Boston and New York. Continuing, Mr. Lane said: "All through the manufacturing districts of the east most of the factories are running full time and up to capacity. There seems to be a good domestic demand and most of the plants have large numbers of orders for future delivery. Plants that have been idle for a long time have been started up, and indications all point to a long run of good business.

"Every manufacturing establishment that could be converted into a plant for turning out war munitions has been so converted, and many of them are running night and day. In some way these munitions are exported and they have preference over everything else in ocean-going freight. "All the big manufacturing cities and about all the smaller towns of the east have their munition factories, and all of them are running right up to capacity, with plenty of orders ahead. It looks as if the allies are taking all the large and small arms ammunition that can be manufactured, and are still crying for more.

Big Demand for Clothing. Besides the munitions, there is an enormous demand for boots, shoes, clothing, harness, saddles, camp tools and everything else an army requires. "I don't know how this stuff gets out, but it does, and it is taken about as soon as it is manufactured. Some of course, goes through Canada, but great quantities leave through Atlantic ports. "In the matter of ocean-going freight munitions have preference over everything else. Next comes grain and provisions, and then ordinary freight. No one attempts to predict how long this abnormal European demand will continue, but there is nothing to indicate it will cease in the near future. Europe to continue its war must have American made munitions and the countries involved must have American flour and meal."

Youthful Traveler Goes Well Tagged

Albert Parupsky, aged 6 years, is something of a traveler. He arrived from Minneapolis over the Northwestern at the Union station, transferred over to the Burlington and went on to Havelock, where he will visit his grandmother. That he might not go wrong Albert had swaddled to his coat a leather tag giving his name, residence when at home and destination. He carried his ticket in a leather wallet and refused to show it to any person not wearing a railroad uniform.
