For the four days the total is $.258 head, being with one exception the largest for any similar period for a number of the control of th reason that the increased demand for reason that the increased demand for dera has resulted in keener competing for the short fed steers. It could be short fed at the following the following the first to higher than last eks, which means that they are at the fless point of the year to date. HOGS—Another very liberal run was on hand today, receipts of 27 cars, or 23,500 hand today, receipts of 27 cars, or 23,500 hand being about the same size as yesterday. The supply for the week to date foots up 29,266 head, being 2,000 harger than tast week and 9,000 ceaview than for the same days last year, but smuller than two weeks ago by 7,000 head.

When strings finally began to go scaleward, it was on a compromise sasis. Packers were umble to force their the reduction, but, on the other hand, se lers failed to get steady prices, and while some of the good hogs were, as nace above, about steady, bulk of the day's offerings was cashed at prices thought even more than that in spots.

As was the case yesterday, the supply was only partially cleared at midday, there being a few good hogs, and a good many of the mixed and common lights still in the pens. As a general thing, the hogs sold up to this time looked mostly 5c lower, a spread of $5.565.00, catching most of the sales, while there was a good showing of the better hogs on up to $1.50, and a sprinkling as high as $5.55.

If must be remembered, in comparing markets for the last two days, that the ight hogs, which naturally bring the owest prices, do not sell until the close, and on such late marsets are not weighed in time to be quoted in the representative sale column. Thus, while yesterday's market was fully infect lower and bulk lioted at $1.00% lb, the average was only a nickel lower, and bulk of the rales (noted brought $1.00%; lb. This sa ne hing will be true today, and, in fact, on nost any occasion when receipts are $3 neavy and the market late.
