CITY WORKERS TO BE ON CASH BASIS Welfare Board to Maintain Fund to Provide Prompt Payment for Laborers. MEN GENERALLY NEED CASH Mayor Dahlgren and Superintendent Schreiber of the Welfare board have worked out a plan for the payment of city laborers as soon as their work shall have ceased, instead of requiring these men to wait sometimes a week for a few days' pay. The Welfare board will maintain a fund for this purpose and this fund will be reimbursed when the regular payrolls are approved by the city council. Two cases in point were brought to the attention of the Welfare board on Thursday. The men in question worked four days for the city, their work having ceased on Wednesday and, according to the usual procedure, would have been compelled to wait a week before being paid. They were in need of money for their families. The wages due were paid by the Welfare board upon presentation of time checks approved by city officials. "The city must be an exemplar in this matter if we expect to require others to be convinced that the laborer is worthy of his hire as soon as the work shall have been completed," explained Superintendent Schreiber.

Fresh Vegetables Are Abundant on The Local Market

Fresh eggs have dropped nearly 10 cents on the dozen in the last week. The balmy spring weather, of course, is responsible. After the cold of the winter, the first warm weather makes biddy think of egg laying and she turns to the job with her well known energy and ambition and simply floods the markets. Supply goes up and price naturally goes down. Fresh vegetables of many kinds are shown quite plentiful on the Omaha markets now. But all of them come from the sunny southland, where the spring is already far enough advanced to allow them to grow out of doors. And that is the only place where they grow to their full luscious, flavored quality. Hothouse vegetables never have quite the quality of those that grow out in the real sunshine and under the genuine rain and in nature's own balmy breezes. Radishes, onions, peas, turnips and carrots are on the market from the south. Tomatoes, too, are becoming quite plentiful, though, of course, they come from the south, too. Cucumbers are plentiful. These come from no farther than Davenport, Ia., where there is a hothouse man who understands the art of coaxing this vegetable along through the winter months and thus reaps a harvest of dollars for himself. The "cukes" are of fine quality. Strawberries are beginning to be quite common. They are from Florida and are large, red and inviting. Navel oranges are very plentiful and of large size and splendid quality. Yet they are selling at very low prices owing to the large supply of them. Apples, while they are becoming scarcer as spring draws near, are still plentiful, most of them being the fruit in boxes shipped in from the north Pacific coast states.

Social Affairs Are Planned for Visit of Dr. S. Eliot Here

Dr. Samuel Eliot of Boston arrived in Omaha yesterday to remain until Sunday afternoon. Dr. Eliot, who is the son of Dr. Charles Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, gives pronounced refutation to the oft-repeated assertion that great men are not fathers of illustrious sons. Dr. Samuel Eliot, who is a clergyman of the Unitarian church and president of the National Unitarian association, is an eloquent speaker, and, while in Omaha, will give an address Sunday morning at Turpin's hall before the Unitarian society. Many of the affairs planned for Dr. Eliot have been recalled, owing to his leaving Sunday afternoon. Among the affairs which will be given are a luncheon Saturday at the Hotel Loyal and a dinner Sunday by the William Newtons at their home in Fair Acres. The unique feature of Saturday's luncheon is the fact that any one who is interested in the liberal church movement is a invited guest at the affair, because Dr. Eliot has expressed a strong wish to meet all those who have such interests and leanings.

LOSES GOLD WATCH COMING FROM BLUFFS

Mrs. H. Neff came down from St. Paul, Minn., on the Great Western train and at the Bluffs transferred to a street car. Some place between the Great Western depot in Council Bluffs and Douglas street, this city, she lost a gold watch, a wedding present.

Y. M. C. A. Campaign Meets with Favor

Reports from all over Nebraska indicate a deep interest and most cordial response to the appeal of the state committee of Young Men's Christian associations in the plan to finance its work for the year 1916 during one week, February 21 to 28. State Secretary Charles A. Musselman is enthusiastic over the plan which has been used, but once before when he put through a similar return in Kansas last year. Incomplete returns show $286.00 received at headquarters during the last twenty-four hours, making the total $4,386.00 for half a week's work. It is expected the daily amounts will very greatly increase, with the last day of the campaign, next Monday, showing by far the largest amount subscribed in a single day.

Article on Omaha in Swedish Paper

Emil Peterson of the city hall has in the current issue of the "Musiktidning," published at Minneapolis, an interesting article of the business, social and educational life of Omaha, this contribution being in connection with the forthcoming meeting of the Swedish singing societies of the northwest. The article is illustrated with twenty-six cuts of Omaha buildings and scenes. There will be 1,500 Swedish singers here in June. Mr. Peterson is an officer of the Omaha Singing Society Norden.

DAVID WARFIELD BOOKED TO APPEAR AT BRANDEIS

David Warfield will bring the newest Belasco drama, entitled, "Van Der Decken" to the Brandeis theater immediately upon the conclusion of the Chicago engagement and prior to appearing in it at the Belasco theater, New York. A version of the Flying Dutchman myth, "Van Der Decken" is concerned with the tragedy of the skipper who rode the seas for 200 years or more and wanted to "go home."

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

Mark Murray, postmaster at Fender and editor of the Fender Times, is visiting city hall friends. W. M. Potter and W. S. Welch, police officers of Fort Dodge, Ia., are in Omaha in the interests of a government case. H. H. Holcomb, general freight agent of the Burlington is back from Kansas City, where he went to attend a family meeting of the road's western freight men. James T. Clarke, St. Paul, Minn., vice president of the Omaha Fidelity, will be in the city Saturday, and will be in California where he will remain a month. Accus-
