Display of Homes for the Feathered Creatures to Be Labeled-Built by Government Specifications.

SOME ARE APARTMENT HOUSES

Considerable interest is being shown in the bird house exhibit which will be held in the city council chamber on Thursday, Friday and which are very fastidious in their do-Saturday. A prominent citizen has meatic life. The nicer their house is asked for detailed information regarding the features of the various types of houses. He wants to know how high from the ground certain houses should be placed and information regarding sun and shade; also entrance holes and perches. He and others interested may receive all information at the exhibit. Committees will be on hand to explain why certain birds require houses of a definite type. The houses on exproper locations for the houses and other information.

Many of the houses have been collected from the schools and are now being cared for in the office of City Commissioner Hummel, where they may be seen in advance of the exhibit by persons wishing ideas on bird house construction. Miss Helen Thompson, supervisor of the manual training work in the public schools, has copies of government plans and specifications for these houses and she will furnish any information on this subject to interested persons.

The exhibit will be ready at 9 o'clock Thursday for public inspection. Boys at Park school became so inter-

Many Social Affairs Listed in Connection with Big Concert This Evening.

SAENGERFEST TO HAVE A BOX

By MELLIFICIA-March 21.

It certainly goes without saying that Thomas J. Kelly can always start something, keep something-and finish something in Omaha. Nothing exemplifies this better than the success of the Mendelssohn choir.

The choir tonight at the Boyd theater seems bringing out all Omaha with many visiting music lovers from all over the state and western Iowa. Despite the Lenten season the choir concert will be the occasion for many social affairs, informal, of course, and the box parties of the evening are limited only by the capacity of the theater.
