ART EXHIBIT WILL OPEN WEDNESDAY

Charistic Paintings Showing the Creative Genius of the Artists of the Northwest.

OMAHA WOMEN PATRONESSES

By MELLIFICIA—March 28.

The exhibition to be opened to the public tomorrow morning at the public library are pictures from the artists of Montana, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa and Wisconsin, showing into what fields the creative genius of the painters of the great northwest have been impelled by the spirit of their surroundings.

The exhibit is typical—it breathes of the history and geography of the land of its authors—great stretches of fields of corn, the thrasher and reaper at their work, village and town scenes, glimpses of the social life of the country.

There was a question just before the Montana exhibit was opened—what would it give? Would it be the commercialism of the state, the great belching smelters, perhaps titanic smoke studies of Butte's sky and the awful fumes of the Anaconda blast furnaces by night.

Not a commercial scene from Montana—it was the Indians, the mountain ranges, the wildness and glory of the state that appealed to its painters.

They Paint Water, Too.

One witty member of the exhibit committee has called it the "Dry Exhibit," the outcome of a little incident in the unpacking room. Mrs. Halleck Rose had taken canvas after canvas from its box, all inland scenes—at last came a marine painting; and Mrs. Rose, who is of Maine blood, exclaimed, "Oh, how glad I am to see water—I was so thirsty."

"But, remember this is the exhibit of the northwestern artists," Mrs. Ward Burgess reminded her.

During the exhibit the hostesses for each day will be:

The first day, Mrs. Halleck Rose; the second day, Mrs. Ward Burgess; the third day or Friday, March 31, Mrs. Charles W. Russell; Saturday, April 1, Mrs. W. H. Garratt; Sunday, April 2, Miss Edith Tobitt; Monday, April 3, Mrs. George H. Prins; Tuesday, April 4, Mrs. Ward Burgess; Wednesday, April 5, Mrs. C. W. Russell; Thursday, April 6, Mrs. Z. T. Lindsey; Friday, April 7, Mrs. Halleck Rose; Saturday, April 8, Mrs. Warren Rogers; Sunday, April 9, Mr. E. L. Burke; Monday, April 10, Mrs. W. H. Garratt; Tuesday, April 11, Mrs. George H. Prins; Wednesday, April 12, Mrs. Z. T. Lindsey; Thursday, April 13, Mrs. Warren Rogers; Friday, April 14, Mrs. C. W. Russell; Saturday, April 15, Miss Edith Tobitt; Sunday, April 16, Mrs. Halleck Rose; Monday,

Afternoon Gown

By LA RACONTEUSE.

An afternoon gown developed in navy blue and white striped taffeta. The arrangement of these materials is particularly interesting, in that the bands that run crosswise accentuate the fullness of the skirt, while the inserted pleatings with vertical stripes over the hips counteract, as it were, the width of the other effect. The striped taffeta introduced in the cape collar and cuffs affords contrast on the plain navy taffeta bodice.

AK TO HAVE TWO DAYLIGHT PARADES

Board of Governors Also Working with Lobeck for Naval and Military Display.

ELECTRICAL PARADE AS USUAL

Congressman Lobeck is busy around the army and navy headquarters in Washington trying to get a naval exhibit for Ak-Sar-Ben this fall, and trying to get the loan of some federal troops for one or more of the big daylight parades to be held during the fall festivities. The governors wrote him about the matter, and he said he would do all in his power to get these attractions for Ak-Sar-Ben.

The governors at their meeting Monday night decided definitely there shall be two daylight parades. One is the big historical parade to harmonize with the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of Nebraska's admission to statehood, and the second is not yet definitely decided upon. The governors want to make the second a manufacturers home production, but the committee of the advisement has not yet decided upon the question. They will probably meet next week to discuss the matter to talk the matter over. The third parade, of course, is to be the big electrical parade. None of the dates of the parades have as yet been decided upon.

A committee was appointed to make a decision on the photoplay or scenario contest. Scarcely over a half dozen scenarios were submitted in the contest. The names of the committee of judges are not given out, as it is not desired that the contestants know who their judges are until after the decision is made.

Miss Kate Ball is Scoring Triumphs in Her School Work

Miss Katherine M. Ball, who will be remembered as the first supervisor of drawing in the local schools, and who is now director of art in the San Francisco public schools, is winning a great deal of attention there through her efforts to develop artistic ability in juveniles.

The San Francisco Examiner gives much prominence to Miss Ball's system of art education, one of which Bruce Porter, eminent authority on art, declares a marvelous one in developing the child's innate originality and keeping it in vital contact with a real sense of beauty.

Miss Ball gave a lecture before the San Francisco Art association last week, in connection with which a demonstration of drawings by first grade children under her care, was given. Ten little boys and girls executed illustrations to a folk-lore story told by the lecturer and produced ten drawings of wonderfully varied interest, betokening genuine artistic ability of no mean order. The children drew the pictures from their imagination after hearing the folk-lore story told. Miss Ball claims this develops great originality.

"Art as it is generally scheduled in courses of study in our schools is not vocational but educational. It does not claim to produce artists, but to give a training designed to develop the faculties of observation, imagination and graphic expression," says Miss Ball. Working on this principle, she has carried out her own system of art education.
