Nebraska Civil War Veteran Becomes Citizen

North Platte, Neb., June 28.—(Special.)—J. W. Cockran, civil war soldier and veteran railroad man, has just taken out final papers and proved up on a homestead twenty-two miles north of Sutherland, a small town near here. Cockran, when he was discharged from his company at the close of the civil war, came to Nebraska. He was employed by the Union Pacific, and for a time was one of the men who sawed logs into proper length for feeding the old woodburner engines that at that time drew the trains over the great pioneer road.

He was in the employ of the Union Pacific in 1867 when a band of hostile Indians wrecked the train at Plum Creek station and attacked the trainmen. He recalls the first stories of the disaster that came to North Platte, the death of Conductor Kinney and of how Dave Perry died under his engine. Also the story of Thompson, the Englishman who scalped by the Indians and left for dead on the field, regained consciousness and walked four miles for aid.

Cockran, having proved up on his homestead, plans to spend the remainder of his days on his farm.

Laundry Building And Bakery Burned At the Genoa School

Columbus, Neb., June 28.—(Special Telegram.)—Last evening at 5 o'clock the laundry and bakery buildings at the Genoa Indian school were entirely destroyed by fire, the contents of both buildings being a total loss, although covered by insurance.
The cause was a defective flue which was not noticed until the flames broke out, too late to save any of the buildings. Several of the inmates who were working in the buildings at the time lost all their belongings. It is estimated that the total loss will amount to about $10,000 to the government.

It did not matter much about the laundry burning, as a new building had been erected and new machinery had been installed. The burning of the bakery made it a little inconvenient for a few hours, but home bakeries today are furnishing all the bread that is used at the government school.

No Farming Done In Dodge County These Warm Days

There isn't much farming being done these days in Dodge county, Nebraska.

For he it known, Joe Stecher is conducting a training camp out in Dodge county, and for about fourteen hours a day every man, woman and child in the county is at the training camp.

The young bucks of the county who became inoculated with the "rasslin'" bug a couple of years ago when Stecher started his comet-like charge through the wrestling sky, have been working out with Stecher at the camp—or, rather, Stecher has been working out with them. Joe takes 'em all on, one right after the other, and one continual howl for help that can be heard clear to Fremont constantly emanates from the camp.

U. S. Supreme Court Reverses Itself

An unique court decision, one in which the United States supreme court has flatly reversed itself, is revealed in that tribunal's decision in the case of United States against Fred Nice, the syllabus of which has just been received here. This decision holds that an Indian is not a citizen even though he holds an allotment of land and that, therefore, sale of liquor to such an Indian is a violation of the law.

In the Hef case, decided April 10, 1905, the court held that sale of liquor to an Indian holding land was not a violation of the law, because the Indian became a citizen when he got the land.

Since the first decision congress passed the Bourke act, providing that in all allotments of land to Indians the government held the land in trust and was the guardian of the Indians.

Despondent Man Endeavors To Drown at Municipal Beach

Ralph Bennet, 2135 Avenue D, Council Bluffs, sought to drown himself in the municipal swimming pool at Carter Lake. He was saved by William Sheppard, Seventeenth and Clark streets, who dragged him from the water. A pulmoner was used to revive him. He had become despondent while in a spell of dissipation, it is said.

One regiment to El Paso or points west: Burlington to Kansas City, Rock Island to Santa Rosa, El Paso, Southwestern to El Paso, To San Antonio or points west: Burlington to Kansas City, Rock Island to Fort Worth, International & Great Northern to San Antonio.
One regiment to El Paso or points west: Missouri Pacific to Kansas City, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe to El Paso, To San Antonio or points west, Missouri Pacific to Wagoner, Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf to Denison, Houston & Texas Central and Galveston, Henderson and San Antonio to San Antonio.
Signal corps and field hospital to El Paso or points west: Union Pacific to Kansas City, Missouri, Kansas & Texas to Fort Worth, Texas & Pacific to El Paso, To San Antonio or points west, Union Pacific to Kansas City, Missouri, Kansas & Texas to San Antonio.

It is estimated that the guardsmen face a train ride of two days and a half at the very least, including delays at transfer points. It is 1,135 miles from Omaha to El Paso via Kansas City and 1,267 miles to San Antonio. Houston is 1,255 miles away, Deming, N. M., 1,558 miles, and Bay City, 1,143 miles. Figuring twenty-five miles an hour, train life of from forty-five to fifty-five hours is necessary to reach any of these points, not including time for stops.

Grain Conditions Never Better in the West

The North Platte Agricultural Experiment station reports that grain crops are in excellent condition. Prospects were never better for a heavy crop. The dry weather early in the season prevented an excessive growth of straw and the rains coming at this time are very favorable for the development of grain. The cool weather has kept corn from making much growth. Considerable first crop of alfalfa spoiled in the shock and windrow.
