HUGHES OUTLINES POLICY FOR PARTY

Bepublican Nominee Clearly States Issues Before People and Takes His Stand.

NO DOUBT AS TO POSITION

(Continued From Page One.)

nation, worthy of the American name Mexico.

"The dealings of the administratio with Mexico constitute a confused chapter of blunders. We have not helped Mexico. She lies prostrate, impoverished, famine-stricken, overwhelmed with the woes and outrages of internecine strife, the helpless vic-tim of a condition of anarchy which the course of the administration only served to promote. For ourselves, we have witnessed the murder of our citi-zens and the destruction of their property. iends We have made enemies, no Instead of commanding respect and deserving good-will by sin-cerity, firmness and consistency, we provoked misapprehension and deep In the light of the con duct of the administration no one could understand its professions. De-could understand its professions. De-crying interference, we interfered most exasperatingly. We have not even kept out of actual conflict, and the soil of Mexico is stained with the blood of our soldiers. We have re-sorted to physical invasion, only to retire without gaining the professed object. It is a record which cannot be examined without a profound sense of humilation. miliation

Mistake at the Very Start.

"When the administration came into power Huerta was exercising au-thority as provisional president of Mexico. He was certainly in fact the head of the government of Mexico. Whether or not he should be recog-nized was a question to be determined in the exercise of a sound discretion, but according to correct principles. but according to correct principles. The president was entitled to be assured that there was at least a de facto government; that international obligations would be performed; that the lives and property of American citizens would have proper protec-tion. To attempt, however, to con-trol the domestic concerns of Mexico simply intervention, not less so ause disclaimed. The height of because disclaimed. The height of folly was to have a vascillating and ineffective intervention which could only evoke bitterness and contempt, which would fail to exactly contempt, which would fail to pacify the oun try and to assure peace and prosper ity under a stable government.

ity under a stable government. If crimes were committed, we do not palliate them. We make no defense of Huerta. But the administration had nothing to do with the moral character of Huerta, if, in fact, he represented the government of Mex-co. We shall never worthily prose-cute our unselfish aims or serve humanity by wrong-heridedness. So ente our unselfish aims or serve humanity by wrong-headedneas. So far as the character of Huerta is con-cerned, the hollowness of the preten-sions on this score is revealed by the administration's subsequent patronage of Villa (whose qualifications as an assassin are indisputable); whom ap-parently the administration was ready to recognize he had achieved his end and fulfilled what then seemed to be his hone.

John Lind's Record.

"The question is not as to the non-recognition of Huerta. The adminia-tration did not content itself with re-fusing to recognize Huerta, who was recognized by Great Britain, Ger-many, France, Russia, Spain and Japan. The administration undertook many, France, Russa, Spain and Japan. The administration undertook to destruy Huerta, to control the Mexican politics, even to deny Huerta the right to be a candidate for the of-fice of president at the election the administration demanded. With what bewilderment must the Mexicans have regarded our assertion of their right to manage their own affairs. In the summer of 1913 John Lind was dis-patched to the City of Mexico as the president's 'personal spokesman and representative' to the unrecognized Huerta, in order to demand that the latter eliminate himself. It was an unjustifiable mission, most offensive to a sensitive people. John Lind lin-gered irritatingly. The administra-tion continued to direct its efforts at the destruction of the only govern-ment Mexico had property.' The bitter hatred aroused by the course of the administration multiplied outrages, while our failure to afford protection to our citizens evoked the scorn and contempt of Mexicans. Consider the ignominions incident at Tampico in connection with the capture of Vera Cruz. In the midst of the greatest danger to the hundreds of Americans congregated at Tampico, our ships which were in the harbor were withdrawn and our citizens were saved only by the intervention of German officers the intervention of German officers and were taken away by British and German ships. The official excuse of the secretary of the navy is an extra-ordinary commentary. Our ships, it seems, had been ordered to Vera Cruz; but, as it appeared that they were not needed, the order was re-scinded. Then, we are told, our ad-miral was faced with this remarkable dilemma. If he attempted to go up the river at Tampico and take our citi-zeus aboard, the word of 'aggressive zeus aboard, the word of 'aggressive action,' as the secretary called it 'would have spread to the surround ing country, and it was 'almost cer-tain that reprisals on American citi-zens would have followed, and lives would have been lost. We had so in-censed the Mexicans that we could that there shall be no paltering with American rights. The greater the danger of divisive influences, the greater is the necessity for the unifying force of a just, strong and patrio-tic position. We countenance no co-vert policies, no intrigues, no secret schemes. We are unreservedly, de-votedly, whole-heartedly, for the schemes. We are unreservedly, de-votedly, whole-heartedly, for the United States. That is the rallying point for all Americans. That is my position. I stand for the unflinch-ing maintenance of all American rights on land and sea. "We have had a clear and definite mission as a great neutral nation. It was for us to maintain the integrity was for us to maintain the integrity was for us to maintain the integrity of international law; to vindicate our rights as neutrals; to protect the lives of our citizens, their property and trade from wrongful acts. Putting aside any question as to the highest possibilities of moral leadership in the maintenance and vindication of the law of nations in connection with law of nations in connection with the European war, at least entitled to the safeguarding of American rights. But this has not been secured. We have had brave words in a series censed the Mexicans that we could not rescue our own citizens at Tam pico, save at the risk of the murder of others. We must take Vera Cruz to get Huerta out of office and trust to other nations to get our own citizens out of peril. What a travesty of in-ternational policy! of notes, but despite our protests the lives of Americans have been de-stroyed. What does it avail to use stroyed. What does it avail to use some of the strongest words known to diplomacy if ambassadors can re-ceive the impression that the words are not to be taken seriously? It is not words, but the strength and reso-tion beind the useds that count

Debauch of Anarchy Follows.

Debauch of Anarchy Follows. "Destroying the government of Huerta, we left Mexico to the rav-ages of revolution. I shall not at-tempt to narrate the sickening story of the barbarities committed, of the car-nival of murder and lust. We were then told that Mexico was entitled to spill as much blood as she pleased to settle her affairs. The administra-tion vacillated with respect to the embargo on the export of arms and munitions to Mexico. Under the res-olution of 1912, President Taft had laid such an embargo. In August, 1913, President Wilson stated that he deemed it his duty to see that neither side to the struggle in Mexico should receive any assistance from this side of the border, and that the export of all arms and munitions to Mexico, would be forbidden. But in February, 1914, the embargo was restored. In May, 1914, it was explained that the embargo did not apply to Ameri-can shipments through Mexican ports, and ammunition for Carranza was subsequently landed at Tampico. In September, 1914, the embargo was lifted on exports across the border; 1915, an embargo was declared on all exports of arms except to the adherlution behind the words, that count. The chief function of diplomacy is prevention; but in this our diplomacy we needed the straight, direct and de-cisive representations which every diplomat and foreign office would un-derstand. I believe that in this way we should have been spared the re-peated assaults on American lives. Moreover, a firm American policy would have been strongly supported by our people and the opportunities for the development of bitter feeling would have been vastly reduced. 1915, an embargo was declared on all exports of arms except to the adher-ents of Carranza. There was an utter absence of consistent policy. Courage An Assurance of Peace.

Between Villa and Carranza.

"For a time we bestowed friendship on Villa. Ultimately we recognized Carranza, not on the ground that he had a constitutional government, but in that course lay the best assurance of peace. Weakness and indecision in that it was a de facto government. The complete failure to secure pro-tection to American citizens is shown wrongs, which in turn create an un-controllable popular resentment. That is not the path of national security. Not only have we a host of resources short of war by which to enforce our just demands, but we shall never proconclusively in the note of the secre-tary of state of June 20, 1916, in which he thus described the conditions that have obtained during the last three years: "For three years the Mexican remote our peace by being stronger in words than in deeds. We should not have found it difficult to maintain

"For three years the Mexican re-public has been torn with civil strife; the lives of Americans and other aliens have been sacrificed; vast prop-erties developed by American capital and enterprise, have been destroyed or rendered non-productive; bandits have been permitted to roam at will through the territory contiguous to the United States, and to seize with-out punishment or without effective attempt at punshment, the property of Americans, while the lives of cit-zens of the United States who ven-tured to remain in Mexican territory or to return there to protect their in-terest have been taken in some cases, barbarously taken, and the murderers have neither been appre-hended nor brought to justice It would be tedious to recount in-stance after instance, outrage after outrage, atrocity after atrocity, to il-lustrate the true nature and extent of the widespread conditions of lawless-ness and violence, which have nex peace, but we should have maintained peace with honor. During this criti-cal period, the only danger of war has lain in the weak course of the administration. ministration. "I do not put life and property on the same footing, but the administra-tion has not only been remiss with respect to the protection of American lives; it has been remiss with respect to the protection of American prop-erty and American commerce. It has here no much discound to be comerty and American commerce. It has been too much disposed to be con-tent with leisurely discussion. I can-not now understake to review the course of events, but it is entirely clear that we failed to use the re-sources at our command to prevent injurious action, and that we suffered in consequence. We have no ulterior in consequence. We have no ulterior purposes and the administration should have known how to secure the entire protection of every legitimate American must unreservedly condemn the widespread conditions of lawless ness and violence which have pre recognition of our just demands as a neutral nation. "The Santa Ysabel massacre, the aid at Columbus, the bloodshed at for controversy on this point since the object lesson on the Mexican bor-to be plain that our regular army is der. All our available regular troops (less, I believe, than 40,000), are there try to require of our citizens who are in Must Be Ready for War. "And behind this international orfriendly dealing will accomplish mor-than many years of vacillation. Maintenance of American Rights "In this land of composite popula tion, drawing its strength from ever race, the national security demand r in Mexico, and as these have been deemed insufficient the entire National Guard has been ordered out; that is, deemed insuficient the entire National Guard has been ordered out; that is, we are summoning practically all our movable military forces in order to prevent bandit incursions. In view of the warnings of the last three years, it is inexcusable that we should find ourseless in this plight. For our years, it is inexcusable that we should find ourselves in this plight. For our faithful guardsmen, who with a fine patriotism responded to this call and are bearing this burden. I have noth-ing but praise. But I think it little short of absurd that ve should be compelled to call men from their shops, their factories, their offices and their professions for such a pur-pose. This, however, is not all. The units of the National Guard were at peace strength, which was only about one-half the required strength. It was peace strength, which was only about one-half the required strength. It was necessary to bring in recruits, for the most part raw and untrained. Only a small percentage of the regiments recruited up to war strength will have had even a year's training in the Na-tional Guard, which at the maximum means 100 hours of military drill, and, on the average means much less.

Massacres Fresh in Mind.

on the average, means much less. Actual Strength of Army.

"Take the eastern department as an illustration. The states in this depart-ment contain about 72 per cent of the inent contain about 72 per cent of the entire organized militia of the coun-try. I am informed, by competent authority, that the quota of militia from this department, recently sum-moned with the units raised to war moned with the units raised to war strength, as required would amount to about 131,000 men; that in response to this call there are now en route to or on the border, about 54,000 men, and in camp in their respective states, about 28,000; and thus, after what has failed, doubtless because of its im-paired credit and the manifest lack of disposition to back words with ac-tion. Had this government by the use of both informal and formal dipabout 28,000; and thus, after what has already been accomplished, there still remain to be supplied in recruits about 48,000 men. Men fresh from their peaceful employments and physically unprepared have been hurried to the border for actual service. They were without proper equipment; without necessary supplies; suitable condi-tions of transporation were not pro-vided. Men with dependent families were sent; and conditions which should have been well known were discovered after the event. And yet use of both informal and formal dip-lomatic opportunities left no doubt that, when we said 'strict accountability' we meant precisely what we said, and that we should unhesitatingly vindi-cate that position. I am confident that there would have been on destruction of American lives by the sinking of the Lusitania. There, we had ample notice; in' fact, published notice. Furthermore, we knew the situation and we did not require specific notice. discovered after the event. And yet the exigency, comparatively speaking, was not a very grave one. It involved and we did not require specific notice. Instead of whittling away our formal statements by equivocal conversations, we needed the straight, direct and dewas not a very grave one. It involved nothing that could not readily have been foreseen during the last three years of disturbance, and required only a modest talent for organization. That this administration while pursu-ing its course in Mexico should have permitted such conditions to exist is almost incredible.

Wilson a Follower.

"In the demand for reasonable pre-paredness the administration has fol-lowed not led. Those who demanded more adequate forces were first de-scribed as 'nervous and excited.' Only about a year and a half ago we were "It is a great mistake to say that esoluteness in protecting American ights would have led to war. Rather, about a year and a half ago we were told that the question of preparedness was not a pressing one; that the coun-try had been misinformed. Later, un-der the pressure of other leadership, this attitude was changed. The ad-ministration, it was said, had 'learned something,' and it made a belated de-mand for an increased army. Even he maintenance of known rights are always sources of grave danger; they forfeit respect and invite serious wrongs, which in turn create an unsuch treaties as an adequate means of preventing war. There should be an international tribunal to decide controversies susceptible of judicial mand for an increased army. Ever then the demand was not prosecuted consistently, and the pressure exerted on congress with respect to other adon congress with respect to other ad-ministrative measures was notably absent. The president addressed con-gress but little over six months ago, presenting the plans of the War de-continent and constructions. presenting the plans of the War de-partment, and congress was formally urged to sanction these plans as 'es-sential first steps.' They contemplated an increase of the standing force of the standing force of the standing force of the regular army from its they strength of 5,023 officers and 102.985 strength of 5,023 officers and 102.985 enlisted men, to a strength of 7,136 officers and 134,707 enlisted men, or 141,834 all told. It was said that these conditions were 'necessary to render the army adequate for its pres-ent duties.' Further it was proposed that the army challength is proposed render the army adequate for its pres-ent duties.' Further it was proposed that the army should be supplemented by a force of 400,000 disciplined citi-zens raised in increments of 133,000 a year, through a period of three years. At least so much 'by way of preparation for defense' seemed to the president to be 'absolutely im-perative now.' He said 'We cannot do less.' But within two months this program was abandoned and the able secretary of war, who had devoted himself persistently to this important himself persistently to this importan cognition of our just demands as a utral nation. "We denounce all plots and conspir-ies in the interest of any foreign provides for an army on paper of 178.

increase in the regular army, but that the first citizen reserve subject to call

What Is Really Called For.

conserves our peace.

peace of the world.

Organization of Peace

"And behind this international or mization, if it is to be effective engaged in peaceful vocations the sort of military service to which they are now called. As well insist that our ctitizens in this metropolis ganization, if it is to be effect must be the co-operation of the tions to prevent resort to hostilities before the appropriate agencies of peaceful settlement have been util-ized. If the peace of the world is to be maintained, it must be through be summoned to put out fires and po-lice the streets. We do not count it inconsistent with our liberties, or with our democratic ideals, to have to be maintained, it must be through the preventive power of a common purpose. Without this, it will still re-main not only possible, but practica-ble to disregard international obliga-tions, to override the rights of states, particularly of small states, to ignore principles, to violate rules. And it with our democratic ideals, to have an adequate police force. With a pop-ulation of nearly 100,000,000 we need to be surer of ourselves than to be-come alarmed at the prospect of hav-ing a regular armly which can reason-ably protect our border, and perform such other military service as may be required, in the absence of a grave emergency. I believe, further, that there should be not only a reasonable principles, to violate rules. And it is only through international co-operation giving a reasonable assurance of peace that we may hope for the limitation of armaments. It is to be emergency. I believe, further, that there should be not only a reasonable expected that nations will continue to arm in defense of their respective interests, as they are conceived, and nothing will avail to diminish this burden save some practical guarantee of international order. We, in this country, can, and should, maitain our fortunate freedom from second should be enlisted as a federal army, and trained under federal authority. "The country demands that our military and naval programs shall be carried out in a business-like manner under the most competent adminis-trative heads; that we shall have an country, can, and should, maitain our fortunate freedom from entangle-ments with interests and policies which do not concern us. But there is no national isolation in the world of the twentieth century. If at the close of the present war the nations are ready to undertake practicable measures in the common interest in order to secure international instice up-to-date preparation; that the moneys appropriated shall be prop-erly expended. We should also have careful plans for mobilizing our in-dustrial resources; for promoting re-search and utilizing the investigations of science. And a policy of adequate order to secure international justice, we cannot fail to recognize our in-ternational duty. The peace of the world is our interest, as well as the preparedness must constantly have in view the necessity of conserving our fundamental human interests; of promoting the physical well-being of interest of others, and in developing the necessary agents for the preven-tion of war we shall be glad to have promoting the physical well-being of our population, as well as education and training; of developing to the utmost our economic strength and in-dependence. It must be based upon a profound sense of our unity, and democratic obligation. It must not mean the abandonment of other es-sential government work, but that we shall have, in both, efficiency, and in neither waste or extravagence. an appropriate share. And our pre-paredness will have proper relation to this end as well as to our own imme-

not Industry and Trade-A Fool's Para-

that we are living in a fool's paradise. The temporary prosperity to which our opponents point has been created by the abnormal conditions incident to the war. With the end of the war there will be the new conditions de-termined by a new Europe. Millions de-dof men in the trenches will then re-turn to work. The energies of each of the now belligerent nations, highly trained, will then be turned to produc-tion. These are days of terrible dis-cipline for the nations at swar, but it must not be forgotten that each is developing a national solidarity, a knowledge of method, a realization of capacity hitherto unapproached. In neither, waste or extravagance. We should also be solicitous, by wise pre-vision and conference, to remove so vision and conference, to remove so far as possible the causes of irritation which may in any degree threaten friendly relations. In our proposals there is, I repeat, no militarism. There is simple insistence upon com-mon sense in providing reasonable measures of security and avoiding the perils of neglect. We must have the tremoth of self-expect. a tremoth perils of neglect. We must have the strength of self-respect; a strength which contains no threat, but assures our defense, safeguards our rights and hitherto unapproached "We are deeply interested in what capacity hitherto unapproached. In each, the lessons of co-operation now being learned will never be forgotten. Friction and waste have been reduced may term the organization of peace. We cherish no illusions. We know that the recurrence of war is not to to a minimum; labor and capital have be prevented by pious wishes. If the conflict of national interests is not to be brought to the final test of force, there must be the development a better understanding, business or-ganization is more highly developed and more intelligently directed than ever before. We see in each of these of international organization in order to provide international justice and to safeguard so far as practicable the nations a marvellous national effi-ciency. Let it not be supposed that this efficiency will not count when Europe once more at peace pushes its productive powers to the utmost "Arbitration treaties are useful within their proper sphere, but it is worse than folly to ignore the limlimit

"On the other hand, in this country. with the stoppage of the manufacture of munitions, a host of men will be turned out of employment. We must meet the most severe competition in industry. We are undisciplined, deindustry. We are undisciplined, de-fective in organization, loosely knit, industrially unprepared. determination, thus affording the ad-vantage of judicial standards in the settlement of particular disputes and of the gradual growth of a body of What the Democrats Really Did. judicial precedents. In emphasizing the desirability of such a tribunal for the disposition of controversies of a justiciable sort, it must not be over-

"Our opponents promised to reduce the cost of living. This they have failed to do; but they did reduce the opportunities of making a living. Let us not forget the conditions that ex-isted in this country under the new tariff prior to the outbreak of the war. Production had decreased, busi-our streets were filled with the unour streets were filled with the un-empolyed. It was estimated that in the city of New York over 300,000 were out of work. Throughout the country the jobless demanded relief The labor commissioners of many states and our municipal adminis-trations devoted themselves to the problem of unemployment, while the problem of unemployment, while the resources of our voluntary charitable organizations were most severely taxed. What ground is there for expecting better conditions when the unhealthy stimulus of the war ha-spent its force and our industries and workingmen are exposed to the com petition of an energized Europe

Must Have Protective Policies.

"It is plain that we must have pro-ctive, upbuilding policies. It is idle tective, upbuilding policies, to look for relief to the tective, urbuilding policies. It is idle to look for relief to the democratic party which as late as 1912 declared in its platform that it was a funda-mental principle of the democratic party that the federal government, under the constitution, had no right or power to impose or collect tarifi duties except for the purpose of rev-enue? We are told in its present enue. We are told in its present platform that there have been 'mo menous changes' in the last two years, and hence, repudiating its former attitude, the democratic party now de-clares for a 'non-partisian tariff com-mission.' But have the momentous changes' incident to the European united States? Is it proposed to use united States? Is it proposed to use a tariff commission to frame a tariff for revenue only? Is the opposing party ready to confess that for gen-erations it has misread the constitu-tion? Is the party now preserved to tion? Is that party now prepared to accept the protective principle? Rath-er, so far as the tariff is concerned. paredness will have proper relation to this end as well as to our own imme-diate security. Industry and Trade—A Fool's Para-dise. "When we contemplate industrial and commercial conditions, we see that we are living in a fool's paradise. The temporary prosperity to which is in effective character!

Not a Party of Sections.

"The republican party is not a sec-tional party. It thinks and plans na-tionally. Its policies are for the pro-motion of the prosperity of every part of the country, south, cast, north and west. It is not simply a question of a wise adjustment of the tariff in aca wise adjustment of the carll in ac-cordance with sound principle, but there is also the need in other re-spects for stable conditions for com-mercial and industrial progress. If we are to meet effectively the condi-tion which will arise after the war

tion which will arise after the war is over, we must put our house in order. Let it be understood that the public right is to be maintained with-out fear or favor. But let us show that we can do this without impairing the assential amongs of provide that we can do this without impairing the essential agencies of progress. There is no forward movement, no endeavor to promote social justice, which in the last analysis does not rest upon the condition that there shall be a stable basis for honest en-terprise. This subject has several im-portant phases to which at this time I can allude only briefly.

Treatment of Transporation.

"We should place our transporation system on a sure footing. We should be able wisely to adjust our regulative powers so that the fundamental ob-(Continued on Page Three, Column One.)

needs. We need conferences of nations to formulate international rules, to establish principles, to modify and extend international law so as to adapt it to new conditions, to remove prises were not undertaken, instead of causes of international differences. THOMPSON-BELDEN & CO. - The Fashion Center of the Nickla Mest -

<text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text>

<text><text><text><text>

INCREASES SELF-RESPECT. No one ever received a life insur-ance policy from an agent or his company without being conscious that the load of responsibility on his shoulders had been lightened. He also experienced at the time an in-creased feeling of self-respect be-cause he had done what it was his duty to do, in that he had-provided for the future welfare of those who were dependent on him. It is a curious fact, but one which is undoubtedly true, that a person who has once carried life insurance seldom drops it permanently. He may sometimes change to another company, which is generally a mis-take; he may become hard up and cash it in, but sooner of later he take another policy. THE MIDWEST LIFE

THE MIDWEST LIFE

ef. Lincoln, Nebraska. N. Z. SNELL, President. Guaranteed Cost Life Insurance. GEORGE CROCKER, General Agent. City National Bank Building, Omaha.

into convenient compartments one extra dress tray, all nicely cloth lined.

A Thoroughly Reliable Trunk. Price $14

Freling & Steinle

1803 Farnam St.

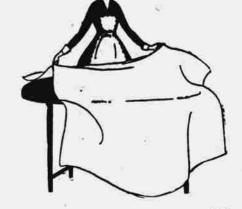

t Baggage Build

During August 6 p. m. will be the closing hour

Saturdays-

ooked that there are also legislative

This is a step which we believe will be appreciated by our friends both within and without the store. The extra hours thus gained will be a benefit to all. T., B. & CO.

0

Our Annual August Linen Sale Which Commences Tuesday

Will Be Better Than Ever Before

$10.00 Table $12.00 Table

These reductions are made on first quality Linens of our own importation. The opportunity presented is rare and will be appreciated by hundreds of Omaha women.

Turkish Towels 25c Turkish Towels, 17¢. 35c Turkish Towels, 29¢. 50c Turkish Towels, 39¢. 75c Turkish Towels, 50¢. $1.00 Turkish Towels, 75¢. LINEN SECTION

Table Cloths	Napkins
(Bleached)	(Bleached)
$3.75 Table Cloths, $2.89.	$4.50 Napkins, $3.75 s dox.
$5.00 Table Cloths, $3.89.	$6.00 Napkins, $4.89 s dox.
$6.75 Table Cloths, $5.00.	$7.50 Napkins, $6.00 s dox.
$8.75 Table Cloths, $6.00.	$8.75 Napkins, $6.89 s dox.
$10.00 Table Cloths, $7.89.	$10.00 Napkins, $7.50 s dox.
$12.00 Table Cloths, $8.89.	$12.00 Napkins, $7.50 s dox.
Guest Towels	Cluny Lace Doilies
Huck.	On Sale
40c Quest Towels, 29¢.	19e Dollies, 12 ¹ / ₂ ¢.
50c Quest Towels, 39¢.	25e Dollies, 19¢.
75c Quest Towels, 59¢.	75e Dollies, 50¢.
Extra 500 Dosen Turkish Wash Oloths2¢ each	Huck Towels 35c H. S. Huck Towels, Tuesday 29¢ each 75c H. S. Huck Towels, Tuesday
EN SECTION-MAIN FLOO	