HOKUFF MEETS JOE STECHER AT YORK

Omaha Grappler Will Lock Horns with Dodge Lad as Feature of Fall Festival.

LOOK FOR A GREAT CROWD

The city of York is looking forward to some big doings Wednesday afternoon. For at 3 o'clock on that afternoon Joe Stecher, the famous farmer boy wrestler from Dodge, Neb., will clash with Big Bill Hokuff of Omaha in a finish wrestling match.

The wrestling bout will be the big feature attraction of the annual fall festival which is being held this week at York. It will be staged in an open air pavillion capable of seating comfortably several thousand people, and the York business men who are behind the match anticipate a capacity attendance.

The York men looked far and wide for an opponent for Stecher and finally selected on Hokuff. Big Bill, it will be remembered, trained Stecher for his bout with Strangler Lewis in Omaha July 4. Bill learned a lot of Stecher's tricks while working with the Dodge boy and believes he has developed a defense which will puzzle Joe. At least Bill promises to make it a battle.

Hokuff has been training faithfully for the event in Gus Tyle's gymnasium and goes to York in perfect physical condition. He has undergone a rigid course of training and has worked out every day with the best wrestlers he could find. As there are quite a number in Omaha, Bill got plenty of workouts.

That Stecher realizes Hokuff is likely to make trouble is evident by his close application to training at his Dodge home. Word from there is that Joe has been working out as hard as he has for any match in his career.

York is going to make Wednesday a gala day. Business will be suspended for the afternoon and a crowd that will be almost as big as the crowds which have seen Stecher matches in Omaha is expected to find its way into the pavillion where the bout will be held.

GIVE BANQUET FOR PA ROURKE AT THE ROME NEXT MONDAY

A banquet in honor of W. A. Rourke, owner of Omaha's pennant winning base ball club, will be held at the Rome hotel at 7 o'clock the evening of October 9.

Business men of the city are responsible for the banquet, which is to be given for Rourke as a mark of Omaha's appreciation for his championship ball club.

The committee on arrangements consists of Joe Kelly, chairman; Ben Gallagher, Lester Drishaus, T. P. Redman, Tom Quinlan, Jack Byrne, Roy Moore and Don Lee. B. W. Jewell, Otis Smith, Morris Griffen and Dick Grotte are on the committee on tickets, and Joe Kelly and Rome Miller make up the banquet committee.

Tickets, which will sell at $3 a plate, can be procured from members of the committee or at the Rome hotel. The public is invited.

Aln't It Awful! The prohibitionists are so conscientious that they deplore the necessity of nominating a full ticket.—Boston Transcript.

Large advertisement for S.S.S. (The Old Reliable) featuring a baseball player and a man in a suit. Text: 'STAR PLAYERS Of the National Game!! Are beginning to have visions of success, and Baseball Fans, everywhere, are anxious for the final contest. Many are in good shape for the pleasure of watching their favorites play—others lack that vigor and spirit that enables them to get the pleasure to be had out of the Great National Game. Their vitality is gone to smash and their enjoyment is seen only in visions. Get out of that class! In nearly all cases where vim and vigor are lacking the fault can be traced to an impure condition of the blood—this can be corrected by setting the blood corpuscles to work throwing off the impurities. There is one remedy that can be depended upon for results at such a time. That remedy is S.S.S., the Great National Blood Tonic, purely vegetable. It has stood the test for fifty years, and has been the means of setting thousands on the road to health. Every person should take S.S.S. occasionally as a tonic. Buy a bottle of S.S.S. from your druggist today and get in shape to join the happy and vigorous crowd at the games. Remember only the genuine S.S.S. will do the work. So beware of substitutes. If your blood trouble has become stubborn, medical advice will be given you without charge.' Includes an image of a baseball field and a man in a suit.
