Members of Women For Hughes Train "Heckled" at Chicago

Chicago, Oct. 5.—As members of the Hughes women's campaign party, which is touring the country on a special train, stepped off their train lere today they were unexpectedly confronted by representatives of the Working Women's Independent Wilson league, who, having pushed themselves in front of the receiving line, unfurled large banners directly across the path of the Hughes campaigners.

The banners, lifted high above the beads of the crowd, bore inscriptions autagonistic to the visitors' candidate. One banner said:

"No working women need apply on the Hughes millionaire apecial."

Another read: "We want Wilson and the eight-hour day."

The campaigners were greeted with cheers as they were driven through the streets to a hotel where luncheon was served. The women will remain in Chicago until early tomorrow morning.

Republican women waiting to welcome the travelers hurried them into automobiles and to a hotel, where they were welcomed by Mayor Thompson and other republican officials. After an afternoon meeting, attended by several thousand women, the campaign party separated into eight units to visit some of the big factories, addressing the employes.

Tonight they held a republican rally at which former Senator A. J. Beveridge opened his western speaking campaign.

They will leave here at 3 a. m. for Rock Island, Ill.. Cedar Rapids. Ia. and Waterloo, Ia., where tomorrow will be spent.

Fruits of Fall Are Found On the Omaha Market

Mail Carrier Killed by Train.

Marion Junction, S. D., Oct. 6.—A mail carrier by the name of Colby, aged about 70, of this place, was run over and decapitated by a Milwaukee passenger train here this morning.

Apples, those fruits of which "one a day will keep the doctor away," are on the Omaha market in force in spite of early gloomy predictions that there would be hardly any.

Jonathans are fine and bring about 31.50 a bushel, or 45 cents a peck. Then there are Northern Spys and fall Pippins and Red Premiums, the latter an Oregon product, hard in texture and reputed fine for baking.

Kieler pears are here. They are fine for preserving and sell around 40 or 50 cents a basket holding about a peck.

Peaches from Colorado and the Ell-preserving and the market.

Mew melons are still on hand in considerable quantities.

Hubbard squash is ripe, if that interests you. In fact, it's ripe whether it interests you or not.

Jersey sweet potatoes are new arrivals for the delectation of Omahans. They bring about 10 cents a pound. Ordinary sweet potatoes are plentiful, but their numbers are growing small.

Oranges and grape fruit are plentiful, though they will be more so a little later in the year.

Japanese persimmons are on the market.

Peaches from Colorado and the Elmarket. The Curious feather trimming in varying somber shades cover the low crown of this smart hat. The colors blend beautifully with the navy taffeta ribbon, of which the hat is made. Particularly attractive is the manner in which the ribbon is used to add to the height of the hat.

Crowded Into Auditorium

Eight thousand persons were in the Auditorium last night to hear President Wilson, according to Manager Charles Franke, who made a careful computation after the doors were closed. He says that these figures will not be off 100 either way.

Orchestra and Band.

Reese's orchestra and Green's hand alternated in furnishing the dance music. Forty regular, and six extra dances were furnished. The one-step and fox trot were the most popular, although a waltz figured here and there in the program.

Refreshments were served on the second floor throughout the evening.

Enters the Queen.

Again the buglers blew their summons and the queen entered, preceded by the crown bearer, little Janet Powell. With graceful dignity she walked the length of the hall, ascended the steps and took her place beside the king. The king lifted the delicate crown of silver, crusted over with rhinestones, and placed it upon her head with his own hands. Her majesty was then seated in the west chair beside the king.

Immediately the governors and mids marched up the steps and to the throne, where they greeted the new king and queen.

Greet New Monarchs.

Hundreds upon hundreds of knights and ladies now stepped upon the hrone to greet the new king and lucen, while the dancing had already arted. The king and queen remained on the throne for over an hour, during the first part of the ball, receiving the greetings of their subjects.

The dance made the usual rich appearance, as the gowns worn by the ladies were those to which they had given unstinted attention for the last tend.

After the coronation ball of Friday night, which is strictly for members and their ladies, the decorations, the delicate orchid trimmings and handsome color scheme throughout, will be left intact. The artistically arranged chandeliers will be left just as they were enjoyed by those at the coronation ball, and at 8 o'clock Saturday night, when the orchestra atrikes up dance music, the masque ball will begin.
