Are You One of Them?

There are a great many people who would be very much benefited by taking Chamberlain's Tablets for a weak or disordered stomach. Are you one of them? Mrs. M. R. Searl, Baldwinville, N. Y., relates her experience in the use of these tablets: "I had a bad spell with my stomach about six months ago, and was troubled for two or three weeks with gas and severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Our druggist advised me to take Chamberlain's Tablets. I took a bottle home and an ugly gash cut in his face while operating a threshing machine on the George Fisher farm near Diller. The accident was caused by his sleeve getting caught in a belt of the machine while he was engaged in oiling it. He was taken to Fairbury for treatment. Case to Break Will That Favors City of Tecumseh

Tecumseh, Neb., July 29.—(Special.)—The late Mrs. Sarah M. Brandon, widow of Judge H. W. Brandon, deceased, willed the city of Tecumseh four lots in the Graf & Ellsworth addition, which is in the northeast part of town, for park purposes. She also left the city $500 in money to improve the park. It was her request that the park bear her name. The probate of Mrs. Brandon's will was completed in April, 1909, and up to this time the city has not done anything in the way of improvements to the park. The location does not suit some and the matter of selling the bequeathed grounds and investing the proceeds of the sale elsewhere has been considered.

Helen C. Marble, Elmer E. Bliss and Lora Marble Watkins, sister, half-brother and step-sister of Mrs. Brandon, respectively, and non-residents, and beneficiaries of her will, have filed a case in the Johnson county district court in which they propose to make the park grounds and cash revert back to the Brandon estate. They claim, the city has not accepted the grounds, has not done anything toward converting them into a park, and that the corporation has spent the $500 for other than park purposes.

The city will fight the case and will endeavor to make a showing that by not having this park land and cash go to the city the intent of the will of Mrs. Brandon is disturbed.

When arrested he was with a number of Industrial Workers of the World, and appeared to have a great deal of influence over them, being something of a leader. He admitted that he had been with the Industrial Workers of the World organization for some time.

New Automobile Highway Along Burlington Route

Holdrege, Neb., July 29.—(Special.)—The finishing touches to another Nebraska automobile highway are now being applied in the marking of the road to be known as the Highland Highway, which follows the Holdrege-Sterling division of the Burlington, known as the "Highline," and passes through each of the towns of that branch. An association was formed early last spring with one or more members from each town between Holdrege and Sterling, Colo. The time since has been devoted to choosing the route, seeing to the improvement of sections where needed, and the marking of the road. The latter is about half completed at this time.

This new route has remarkably few structural defects as an automobile road, practically its entire length being on the high plateau which forms the divide between the Republican and Platte rivers.

REALTORS CENTER INTEREST ON MEET

Omaha Sends Large Delegation to National Convention at Milwaukee and Are Royally Entertained.

The interest of the local realtors, as well as of realtors throughout the country, has centered the last week in the meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at Milwaukee.

The city that has been made famous had prepared a most hearty reception and the press dispatches report an attendance of 2,500 from the larger cities of the country, representing the most prominent real estate men in the United States.

St. Louis delegates came with the express intention of securing the convention for next year with a fund of $25,000 raised for the convention entertainment. Kansas City was ambitious for next year's meeting, but had to give way, as did St. Paul and some other cities aspiring in the same direction. St. Louis won the prize. The Omaha delegation supported St. Louis.

There were a number of men on the program who have become expert in their different localities along different lines of real estate activities. This program was one of the most practical and interesting ever presented to a convention of real estate men.

Visitors Are Welcomed. The convention was welcomed by addresses from Governor Philip of Wisconsin and Mayor Hoan of Milwaukee, and the popular president of the Milwaukee board, R. Bruce Douglas. Mr. Douglas brought the realtors to their feet when he insisted that the convention should adopt a declaration of loyalty to the national administration.

In his introductory address President Haas of the national association, among other things, spoke as follows: "It is not of any particular significance to say that the National Association of Real Estate Boards is representative of property whose value reaches to the billion mark. It is, however, of particular significance to say that our association is 100 per cent representative of the business and civic progressiveness of the nation. For just as we have grown in numbers, so have we grown in worth. Spirit of Service.

"What I may call the spirit of service has become the dominating power and pull of the national association. We no longer confine ourselves as a nation wide organization only to the question as to how to buy or sell real estate. We are now asking, what can we do for the nation, the state, the city, the town, the farm and the individual?"

Colonel Nathan W. McChesney, judge advocate of Illinois and attorney for the national association, aroused the convention to tremendous enthusiasm with a sweepingly eloquent address.

He asserted that Americans are now with the United States and its allies or they are enemies of the country. Repeatedly the delegates sprang to their feet, cheering the eloquence of Colonel McChesney.

The report of the committee on taxation practically overshadowed every other matter presented to the convention. This report was long, interesting and technical.

R. B. Wallace Speaks. The speakers packed into the allotted time patriotic speeches and eulogies of their respective cities, with praise for the realtor as a profession. The speech of R. B. Wallace, Council Bluffs, was typical of all. He said: "Council Bluffs, with only 35,000 inhabitants, doubled its quota of subscriptions for Liberty bonds, more than doubled its Red Cross allotment, turned its Chamber of Commerce into a war council, and was the first city to send an official committee to Germans who were dissatisfied with all the United States had done for them, to tell them to go back home and stay there."

This is the fifth annual contest since E. S. Judd, Chicago, then president of the national association, originated the custom on the suggestion of Charles F. Harrison, Omaha, at the Practical Housing Law which resulted in the adoption of the following resolution: "1. What each real estate board appoint a housing committee consisting of representative men. "2. That said committees co-operate with other local civic bodies whenever a housing code, whether local ordinance or state law, is under consideration. "3. That a 'model housing law' by Lawrence Veiller, secretary of the

DEADLY GERMS IN COURT PLASTER

Federal Investigation Reveals Evident Plot of German Sympathizers to Distribute Poisonous Supplies.

Washington, July 29.—Court plaster said to have been distributed by German sympathizers has been found on chemical analysis by the Department of Justice to contain tetanus germs. Attorney General Gregory today warned the public to use only court plaster from reliable sources.

The Department of Justice today authorized the following statement relative to its investigation of sales of poisoned plaster in various sections of the United States: "The Department of Justice without sharing in any sensational view as to the manner in which sticking plasters or court plaster became infected states that some of the samples submitted and analyzed have been thereby shown to contain tetanus germs.

"The public is consequently cautioned against purchasing this remedy except from approved sources. The warning is particularly directed against purchases in small packages from street peddlers and vendors." Test Made at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., July 28.—Chemical tests of court plaster circulated in rural communities of Kansas by itinerant peddlers show that at least one brand of the plaster contained tetanus bacilli, according to announcement today by Fred D. Robertson, United States district attorney for Kansas.

Inheritance Tax on German Estates in Iowa Now One-Fifth

Des Moines, Ia., July 29.—A peculiar situation in the collection of the alien collateral inheritance tax has arisen in the office of E. H. Hoyt, state treasurer, due to the abrogation of treaties with the Teutonic powers because of the existence of a state of war.

All estates left to kinsmen in foreign countries by aliens residing in the state of Iowa, unless the kinspeople are brothers or sisters, are subject to a 20 per cent collateral inheritance tax. Exceptions are made only in the case of countries known as "favored nations" with whom the United States has entered into a treaty permitting the collateral inheritance tax for citizens of either country to be the same as citizens of the foreign state or nation in which they reside.

Germany, before the beginning of the war, was a "favored nation" and as such, German citizens leaving estates in Iowa were entitled to the same collateral inheritance tax—5 per cent—as paid by citizens of the state.

Since the war, the treaty of 1871 has been abrogated—at least that is the interpretation being placed upon the document by several states—and all German estates left in Iowa are now subject to the 20 per cent tax.

On the other hand, President Wilson has made the statement that "we are not at war with the German people, but with the German imperial government." Treasurer Hoyt has interpreted the treaty as one of the making of the German imperial government. A number of German alien estates have been settled in Iowa since the beginning of the war.

MERCHANTS WILL HAVE A BARBECUE

An Ox, a Sheep and Two Hogs Will Be Roasted; Watermelon Will Be Served in Huge Slices.

An ox, a sheep and two hogs are to be roasted to furnish meat for a big barbecue for the visitors in Omaha during the merchants' market week activities, August 20-23. A watermelon feed has been arranged besides.

The meat will be served steaming hot from the carcass, with specially baked buns, etc. The barbecue is to be held in one of the beautiful summer parks of the city and promises to be a most enjoyable affair.

A whole carload of this luscious fruit will be put in cold storage three or four days before the barbecue and will be served in "childhood days style" to the guests. In other words, visitors may "eat melon with their whole faces, just like when they were kids," says a member of the entertainment committee.

A large crowd is expected, as merchants need many goods, and Omaha is in position to supply all demands.
