Tells a Story. "I have in mind a clockmaker who lived in Flanders many years ago. His name was Anton," was the introduction of the superintendent's story, which was the vehicle for his message to the teachers. "This old clockmaker worked day in and day out, week in and week out, and it seemed to him that his labors did not yield the results which his ambition craved. He had a restless soul, so he went about the town and talked to the people. He learned of some menks, whom he visited and was assigned to weeding in a garden. His dexterity with tools so impressed the monks that they asked him to fashion an altar for their chapel. An open space was left in the altar. The abbot asked Anton to carve a legend in the open space and this was the legend: 'Without a vis-

the substitute teachers, there were 1,100 pedagogues at the meeting. Dwight E. Porter artived on Sunday from Shawnee, Okl., to take the principalship of the High School of Commerce. He sat on the stage with the superintendent.

Special meetings were held for

Following the meeting of teachers at the Central High school yester-day, Superintendent Beveridge presided at a meeting of the supervisors, pincipals, and special teachers of the public schools. Dr. E. T. Manning, supervisor of health, instructed the principals concerning the new health

"Our aim," said Dr. Manning, "is to add to the efficiency of the schools. Work is under two heads; contagion and correction, Send a child home if he is sick.
