

MOONEY WITNESS UP FOR PERJURY

Oxman Accused of Attempting to Induce Rigall to Testify Falsely Against the Defendant.

San Francisco, Sept. 12.—Frank C. Oxman was brought to trial in the superior court here today on charges of attempted subornation of perjury growing out of the conviction of Thomas J. Mooney for one of the bomb murders in the course of a preparedness day parade July 22, 1916. Ten persons were killed.

Oxman was a material witness against Mooney, whose appeal from sentence of death is pending in the state supreme court. He is accused of attempting to induce F. E. Rigall of Grayville, Ill., to give false testimony against Mooney.

Oxman's prosecution was to be conducted by deputies of State Attorney General U. S. Webb because attaches of District Attorney Charles M. Fickert's office were to be called as witnesses. Fickert ordinarily would prosecute the case.

It was expected that events which led to charges of "frameup" preferred by Mooney's counsel against the district attorney's office and subsequent public controversy relative to Oxman's credibility would be laid bare.

The expose of Oxman's alleged attempts to subornate perjury led to consent for a new trial by Attorney General Webb. The state supreme court yesterday refused to grant a new trial on this consent. Mooney's appeal on the record in the case will be acted on by the state supreme court in October.

OMAHA WOMEN ARE PLEDGED TO DO WORLD WAR WORK

Park avenue a committee, under direction of Mrs. R. C. Hoyt, had fitted up a pretty and homelike place from the bare store room they found there the day before. To a casual observer it resembled a bridge party, with its little tables decorated with flowers, its rugs and easy chairs. But the many American flags on the walls and tables, the piles of registration cards, the pens and ink bottles on the tables, forbade any thought of such levity on the part of the curious masculine guests who appeared early.

Mere Man Envious. "We have to vote in barber shops and pool halls, but you have such swell places," they murmured enviously. The busy committee ladies only smiled and said they thought a woman could lend a homelike touch even to a polling place.

The first to register at this place was Mrs. Draper Smith. She enrolled for settlement work and as a factory inspector, with the latter underlined as her preference. The first half-hour's work at this station showed twelve cards filled out. One woman registering early was Mrs. Van Orman, 75 years old, but she said she could do something to help.

At 2701 Leavenworth Mrs. Thor Jorgensen and her assistants reported sixteen cards by 9:30 a. m. An unusual feature of the registration here was the number of young women who enrolled to help. Several high school girls of 16 years old came early, offering to do "typewriting and bookkeeping out of school hours."

Registration Notes. The first school girl to sign up was Miss Ethyl Webster of 1001 Park avenue, who said she would like to help "after school hours."

"We have found out women can do one thing—they can climb high ladders and put up flags without any disaster," said the committee at 721 Park avenue, pointing to the many decorations. Those women also brought their knitting bags along, but had no time to use them.

Every woman who came to a polling place was registered, even though she was in the wrong district. She was in the "right church" argued the registrars, even though in the "wrong pew." Her cards were then sent to the chairman of the work in her own district to be filed there.

One of the first to call Miss Tobitt this morning was a colored woman who wanted to know if registration was compulsory. Miss Tobitt said no, but it would be greatly appreciated if she would. After a short talk she promised not only to enroll, but to get some of her neighbors to do so also.

A few halted when it came to telling the age, but not many. The thirty-year deadline, which so many women fear to cross, did not phase them and many boldly wrote 31 opposite their names. One proudly wrote 75. Instructions to the registrars said not to insist on the age—women might simply write "over 21" if she wished.

An interesting feature of the registration at 2701 Leavenworth, for the First district of the Seventh ward, was the appearance of several young women offering to do wireless telegraphy. They have been reading in the papers that the army and navy is searching far and wide for radio operators, who are as scarce as her's teeth, and it occurred to them that this would be the best way to help the government.

Mooney Denied New Trial By State Supreme Court

CUTS OFF HIS WIFE FOR HOUSEKEEPER

Children Will Look After Mother's Interests in Settling Estate of Father, Who Was Wealthy.

The will of the late Charles Junge, well-to-do East Omaha truck gardener, who died August 26, filed for probate in county court, cuts his wife off without a penny and leaves a third of the estate to Miss Helen Anderson, his housekeeper. The estate totals several thousand dollars. Mrs. Annie Junge, 45 years old, his wife, is an inmate of the State "hospital for the insane at Lincoln. Under the law she will receive a third of the estate, notwithstanding the provisions of the will. Her relatives announced they would defend her rights in court.

Children Get Two-Thirds

Hearing on the probate of the will and the appointment of an administrator will be held before Judge Crawford September 29. By the terms of the will Ella Junge, a daughter, gets a 100-acre farm in Texas and one-third of the cash after all debts are paid. Herman Junge and Otto Junge, sons, are left a big truck farm in East Omaha. Herman also gets other real estate and one-third of the cash after debts are paid.

Miss Anderson, the late truck gardener's housekeeper, is bequeathed one-third of the cash and considerable other real estate. Mrs. Clara Junge, a sister-in-law, is left the household goods.

A petition was filed asking that John Dahmke, 602 South Fifty-second street, a brother-in-law, be appointed administrator.

DRAFT EVADERS ARE CAUGHT OFF COAST

Anvil Arrives in San Diego Harbor With Over Thirty Alleged Fugitives From Military Service.

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 12.—Escorted by the United States warship that captured it off the Lower California coast last Sunday, the gasoline schooner Anvil, with more than thirty alleged draft evaders and enemy aliens on board, arrived in San Diego harbor this morning.

The Anvil was immediately boarded by Department of Justice agents and other federal officials. All approaches to the pier were closely guarded by troops and no person other than federal officers was allowed near the vessel.

The examination of the suspected men, it was said, would be started immediately, and until the completion of the inquiry, it was said, no information would be given out.

expected with the capture of the gasoline schooner Anvil by an American warship off the Lower California coast to secure some of the men implicated in the recent destruction of the black powder magazine at the Mare Island (Cal.) navy yard, in which six persons were killed and many wounded, it became known shortly before noon today. Four hours after the Anvil had docked, only six of the thirty-five men aboard the vessel had been examined. What evidence the federal officials possess to warrant their belief that some of the Anvil's passengers were implicated in the navy yard explosion, they refused to state. Under escort of the warship which captured it last Sunday afternoon off the lower California coast, the Anvil arrived in port early today.

Two well known Industrial Workers of the World members, it was said by one of the federal officers, had been found on the Anvil. One of these, Charles Milroy, recently crossed the border at Tijuana. Milroy and the second alleged Industrial Worker of the World, John Grit, are said to have played a prominent part in the recent labor troubles in Montana. Although it was reported that a New York man sought on a charge of murder was on the vessel, the officers reported that he had not been located. None of the names of the passengers on board, other than those of the two alleged members of the Industrial Workers of the World, has as yet been permitted to become known and it was said no further information would be given out until the examination of all the men on board is completed. Many of the persons on board are alleged to be draft evaders or alien enemies.

Fixed Quality Given a fixed quantity you can solve almost any problem in mathematics. But to solve a practical problem of truck transportation you need something more. You need fixed quality. Pierce-Arrow quality always has been, is now and always will be a fixed quality. It is as reliable as the fact that two and two make four. Pierce-Arrow performance is dependable because Pierce-Arrow quality is fixed. Pierce-Arrow Motor Trucks for example: The B. T. Babbitt Company has owned trucks of other makes, but reports the Pierce-Arrow the most dependable and economical in operation. Such great commercial successes are built upon sound economies like those effected by Pierce-Arrow trucks. A smaller business should not deny itself the advantages on which big business thrives. J.
