The quota from Board 3, Omaha, will leave Omaha over the Burlington at 10:55 a. m., October 3, and will reach Camp Funston at 2 o'clock the next afternoon. There will be 101 men. Another detachment from Boards 1 and 2 will leave at 8:30 in the morning over the Missouri Pacific and reach Funston at 12:30 the next day. In this party there will be 166 men.

Other boards have made similar preparations. The Fourth district board examined 850 men before the first quota was sent to Funston. Of these 130 have gone, leaving 720 from which to select the third quota. "However, we will not know for a day or two, when the district board reports to us, whether or not we have enough for the next contingent without calling in more for examination," said Clyde Sundblad of the Fourth. It is expected the district board will finish its hearing of appeals by Friday and the lists of names of men called will then be given out.

Cornhuskers Plan to Set Price for Their Work

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 26.—(Special.)—Ten cents a bushel is the price corn huskers are getting ready to demand this fall, according to information received by the State Council of Defense. Mr. Coupland has returned from Elgin, where he went to look after his farming interests in Antelope county. He brought back with him several ears of corn from one of his fields and it is well out of the way of frost. He believes that by another week there can be little damage done by frost.

There is going to be a big crop of corn in northeast Nebraska, according to Mr. Coupland, and as a general thing it will be of a good quality.

JURY TO DECIDE IF DEAD MAN ENGAGED

Telegrapher Made "Affiliated Wife" His Beneficiary; Mother Contesting the Will.

A jury in law court, Judge Troup presiding, is trying to decide the puzzling question of what constitutes an engagement of marriage. The woman in the case will be able to testify, but her alleged husband-to-be is dead.

One of the strangest cases ever tried before a jury arose out of the suit of Mrs. Margaret Ryan, administratrix of the estate of the late Michael E. Ryan, her son, against the Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

Ryan, 38 years old, formerly a telegraph operator and railroad switchman, died December 26, leaving a $1,000 life insurance policy, in which Margaretta Frewen, five years his senior, was named as beneficiary. The policy set forth Miss Frewen as "my affianced wife." She alleges she and the telegrapher were engaged to be married, but the mother of Ryan says her son was "unduly influenced" and had no idea of taking the woman as his wife.

The jury will be called upon to decide whether a mother knows enough of her son's love affairs to be positive as to who he intended to wed.

Court Has the Money. The Order of Telegraphers, in order to avoid being dragged into the litigation, turned the $1,000 over to district court for a judge to decide who shall have the money.

Miss Frewen filed a petition of intervention, backing up her original claim that she was Ryan's fiancee and alleging at the time of the issuance of the certificate she was engaged to be married to him.

The opening testimony of Mrs. Ryan was marked by sharp clashes between attorneys.

Parental Interference is Alleged in Divorce Suit. Joseph Morgan, married to Esther Morgan in Belfast, Ireland, April 10, 1901, is suing her for divorce in district court. He alleges she deserted him in 1913. Allegations of cruelty also are made. He says she has a violent temper, and was influenced by her parents to annoy and misuse him. Their three children are now with his mother in Omaha. He asks the court to grant him custody of them.

Heavy Loss When New Cereal Mill Catches Fire. The warehouse of the Omaha Cereal company, Twenty-sixth and Shirley streets, was gutted by a fire which broke out about 4:45 this morning, causing a damage which E. S. Miller, president of the company, estimates at about $100,000.

The warehouse, which was of concrete structure, contained woodwork and machinery which was soon to have been installed in the new four-story concrete mill adjacent to it, nearing completion. The new structure was not damaged.

The Omaha Cereal company is a new industry brought to Omaha about five months ago and was to have the new mill in operation by November. "This will set us back about ninety days," said Mr. Miller. "There was very little electric wiring in the building and I am at loss to account for the origin of the fire."

The building was partially covered by insurance.

One-Minute Store Talk. "Your store service ought to get a lot of advertising," said a clothing customer yesterday. "Unless a man acts like a woman in a millinery shop and wishes he had everything in sight, five to fifteen minutes put in here gets more real action than I ever saw before."

Greater Nebraska prides itself in a wide-awake organization that is dedicated to real service, to saving time and money for its patrons.
