"Anything Once" Gives Good Western Comedy a Chance Franklin Farnum, star of Bluebird photoplays, will present his smiling and agile shadow-self on the screen at the Hipp theater today and Monday, when "Bluebird Day" will be marked by presentations of "Anything Once." This is a comedy-drama of the most hilarious import, describing in thrills and sensations the contest an eastern "rounder" waged against his neighbors in the far west who would frighten him away from the ranch that a wealthy uncle had willed upon condition that he live there six months before coming into full possession of his valuable heritage. The young man, to fulfill all conditions, must marry a certain pretty and distant cousin within the six months' time, as a second condition of the eccentric ranchman's will. When the easterner cannot be frightened an attempt is made to kidnap his prospective bride. All ends well, of course.

Turn Hair Dark With Sage Tea Grandma kept her locks dark, glossy and youthful with a simple mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grand mother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the muss mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can disagree with it. It is applied simply by moistening your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.
