

PEACE AT ONCE. CRY RADICALS IN RUSSIAN REVOLT

Terms Must Be Clear and Without Secret Character, Declares Workmen's and Soldiers' Congress.

(By Associated Press.) London, Nov. 12.—A dispatch received from the semi-official Russian news agency gives the text of a resolution adopted last Friday by the Workmen's and Soldiers' congress in Petrograd, calling for peace, the proposal declaring that all belligerents should enter immediately into negotiations "for a democratic and equitable peace."

"The government considers a peace to be democratic and equitable," says the resolution, "which is inspired by a majority of the working classes of all the belligerent countries, worn out and ruined by war—the peace which the Russian workmen called for on the fall of the monarchy. It should be an immediate peace, without annexation (that is to say, without usurpation of foreign territory, and without violent conquest of nationalities) and without indemnities."

Propose Immediate Peace. "The Russian government proposes to all belligerents to make this peace immediately, declaring themselves ready without delay to carry out all the conditions of this peace through plenipotentiaries of all countries and nations."

"By annexation or usurpation of territory the government means in accordance with the sense of justice, of democracy in general and of the working classes in particular, any annexation to a great and powerful state of a weak nationality without the consent of that nationality and independently of its degree of civilization and its geographical situation in Europe or across the ocean."

"If any population be kept by force under the control of any state and if contrary to its will expressed in the press or in national assembly, or to decisions of parties, or in opposition to rebellions and uprisings against an oppressor, the population is refused the right of universal suffrage, of driving out an army of occupation and organizing its own political regime, such a state of things is an annexation of violent usurpation. The government considers that the active carrying on of the war in order to share weak nationalities which have been conquered between rich and powerful nations is a great crime against humanity."

Open to Suggestion. "Accordingly, the government solemnly proclaims its decision to sign peace terms which will bring this war to an end on the conditions mentioned above, which are equitable for all the nationalities."

The proposal further says the foregoing must not be considered final, but that the government consents to examine into any other peace terms "only insisting that these terms be set forth as speedily as possible by some belligerent, and that the terms be absolutely clear, without the slightest ambiguity and without secret character."

14 members were also appointed. That same afternoon the two councils took possession of the government building, and the reign of Liliuokalani was at an end.

Republic Proclaimed. On July 4, 1894, the republic of Hawaii was proclaimed, with Sanford B. Dole as president.

On January 16, 1895, just two years after being deposed, Liliuokalani was arrested on the charge of being a participant in a plot to overturn the existing government and resume her sovereignty. Eight days later she formally renounced all claim to the throne. After nine months' confinement in her former palace, she and 42 others were pardoned, and when, on August 12, 1898, Hawaii became a territory of the United States, she declared her fealty to the country that had adopted her.

The later years of her life Liliuokalani remained quietly at home. She had ceased to reign as a sovereign monarch, but she still reigned as queen in the hearts of her people, the native Hawaiians, who venerated her and paid her court as though she still sat upon the throne. She was a composer of hundreds of Hawaiian songs, some of which became popular in the United States.

Lenine's Tenure Is Not Secure, Stockholm Hears

Stockholm, Nov. 12.—According to reports received here, Petrograd continues outwardly quiet, but there are indications that Nikolai Lenine's tenure is by no means secure. This information has reached the American minister, Ira Nelson Morris, from competent sources. The proprietors of the greater number of government employes and a considerable number of the workmen of the bitter class refuse to give allegiance to the Lenines. Minister Morris also has been advised that the Bolsheviks are in full control at Helsinki.

QUEEN LIL, FORMER HAWAII HEAD, DEAD

Last of Line of Dusky Monarchs Dies in Honolulu After a Most Extended Illness.

Honolulu, T. H., Nov. 12.—Queen Liliuokalani of Hawaii, whose death had been expected for several days, passed away this morning. The queen had been in ill health many months. A week ago she began to fail rapidly and last Thursday physicians announced that the end was near.

Preparations have been made for the body to lie in state, with a territorial guard of honor.

Social events planned for the United States congressional party visiting here probably will be called off.

Last Vestige of Royalty.

With the death of Queen Liliuokalani has passed the last vestige of royalty in the Hawaiian Islands. The eighth and last monarch to hold sway over the insular group, she reigned for only two years and that brief flicker of sovereignty was extinguished more than 20 years ago in a revolution which led to the annexation of the islands to the United States. But notwithstanding her effacement from public affairs, Queen Liliuokalani never abandoned her regal pose nor lost the affection of her former subjects, and continued to her death a most interesting personality.

She was born September 2, 1838, in Honolulu. Her name was Lydia Kamakua. In her memoirs, "Hawaii's History by Hawaii's Queen," she traced her ancestry back to the foundation of the Kamahameha dynasty and claimed relationship to the royal family of the five sovereigns of that name.

In accordance with a custom common in Hawaii in those days, Liliuokalani was given away in her infancy by her father to another chief, by whom she was adopted in exchange for one of his children, this custom being observed to cement ties between the different clans and chiefs.

The future queen's new mother was Konia, granddaughter of Kamahameha I. Her adopted father was Pahi, a high chief. They had a daughter of their own, Bernice Pauahi, who later became Mrs. Charles R. Bishop. Liliuokalani's own parents had nine other children, most of whom, like herself, were adopted into other families. One of them was Kalakaua, afterwards king and Liliuokalani's predecessor on the throne.

Meets Future Husband. The young princess received her education in the old Royal school, all the pupils of which were children of the royal family or of the high chiefs. It was while attending this school that Liliuokalani first met the boy who later became her husband, John O. Dominis, son of an American sea captain. She was married to him September 16, 1862, and she and her husband moved to Washington Place which Captain Dominis, her father-in-law, had built as a private residence.

Long after, when she had been driven from the throne of Hawaii, she retired again to this place and it was her home during the remainder of her life. Liliuokalani ascended the throne of Hawaii January 29, 1891, immediately following the receipt of news from San Francisco that her brother, King Kalakaua, had died there in the Palace hotel nine days previously.

In 1887 Liliuokalani visited foreign countries. She went to London to participate in the golden jubilee celebration of Queen Victoria. It was always afterwards her boast that she was kissed and embraced by Britain's queen.

January 17 organization of a provisional government in Hawaii was completed, with Sanford B. Dole at its head as president of the executive council and minister of foreign affairs. An advisory council of Italian-King Appeals to Nation to Repel Invaders

Rome, Nov. 12.—King Victor Emmanuel has issued an appeal to the nation saying that the enemy, thanks to an extraordinary combination of circumstances, has been able to concentrate all his forces against Italy. The Austrian army, defeated in every struggle for 30 months, his majesty declares, obtained numerous seasoned German reinforcements.

"Italians, citizens and soldiers," says the appeal, "be one single army. Every act of cowardice is treachery. Every disorder, every recrimination, is treachery. To the enemy, who counts less on a military victory than on weakening our spirit and on our passivity, let us reply with one voice that all are ready to give all for victory and the honor of Italy."

SPIRITS CLASH OVER PROPOSED CITY ORDINANCE

Pastor of Spiritualist Church Accuses Police Woman of Selling Love Powders When Kugel Introduces Bill.

The spirits clashed before the city council committee of the whole meeting yesterday, when a regulatory ordinance, prohibiting the practice of clairvoyance, palmistry, fortune telling, trance or life reading for pay, was recommended for passage.

Acting upon information brought to him by special investigators, Superintendent Kugel of the police department introduced and championed this measure, which is to eliminate the charging of fees by those persons the measure affects.

The ordinance will not interfere with the operation of regularly established spiritualist churches whose members may contribute in any manner they choose.

Impose Upon Credulity. Mr. Kugel explained he had evidence that persons alleged to have been identified with spiritualist organizations had been selling love powders, charms and amulets; also imposing upon the credulity of patrons whose fortunes were told.

Thomas Z. Magarrell, minister of the First Spiritualist church at 2726 South Tenth street, opposed the ordinance, adding this statement: "These women of our organization are legitimate and no higher standard of morals is taught anywhere in Omaha."

"Is it not a fact that you have a private electric bath in your office and that you give treatments to men and women alike?" asked Mayor Dahlman of Magarrell. "Some women ask to be treated by women," replied the minister of spiritualism. Magarrell admitted that in some instances he did administer electric treatments to women himself, but that was at the option of the patron.

Policewoman Accused. The name of Kittie Cox, Superintendent Kugel's special investigator, was brought into the proceedings. Mrs. Cox formerly was a fortune teller and medium. Magarrell charged that Mrs. Cox read both of his palms for $2 and sold him an amulet. Attorney Randolph, representing the spiritualists, read a statement signed by Magarrell, charging that Kittie Cox of 101 South Twenty-ninth street had been selling love powders and giving readings for pay since he advent as special investigator in the police department.

Miss Julie Titcomb, president of the Fontenelle Spiritualist church, 2414 Cuming street, stood alone in favoring the passage of the ordinance, notwithstanding that Dr. George Warren of Chicago, president of the National Spiritualist association, came to Omaha to oppose the ordinance. Miss Titcomb stated that Ella Gardner, pastor and message bearer of Fontenelle.

elle church, earns from $10 to $30 a day by giving readings. Miss Titcomb explained that spiritualism to her is a beautiful religion—a religion of love and beauty—and she is opposed to it being commercialized.

Never Sold Love Powder. In reply to charges made before the council that she was after Magarrell's scalp, Mrs. Cox, outside of the meeting, stated that she had evidence of irregularities at the Magarrell establishment on South Tenth street. "I never have sold a love powder or anything of that sort," replied Mrs. Cox, who was known as "Madam Gylmer" when she was a clairvoyant in Omaha. City Commissioner Hummel referred to some of the places operated by clairvoyants and mediums as "dumps," but did not specify locations.

The scrap among local spiritualists is between members of the National and International organizations. Miss Titcomb told the commissioners that her organization—the National—admitted to members of the International because of alleged commercial tendencies. Magarrell is identified with the International Spiritualists' union.

Inter-Allied War Committee Directs Italian Campaign

Paris, Nov. 12.—Premier Painleve returned yesterday from his visit with French and British officials to the Italian front, and expressed confidence in the victory of the forces of freedom. A meeting of the war council was held yesterday afternoon. After the cabinet meeting a semi-official note was issued confirming the new establishment of a permanent inter-allied staff under Generals Foch, Wilson and Cadorna, to sit at Versailles. The note adds that nothing has impressed the Italian government and people more than the extraordinary celerity with which they arrived at this decision.

"It is the first time that unity of action on a united front has been truly realized," says the note. "Nothing will do so much to heighten the prestige of France." The Matin says it was decided at the conference in Italy that France and Great Britain would increase the armed support already given to Italy, the effort to be shared equally by the two powers. The United States also has been considered, the newspaper says, in planning for future co-operation. The Italian campaign will be directed by the inter-allied war committee. General Foch, the French representative, will remain in Italy for the time being and will play a preponderant role in the direction of the operations, which must take a wide scope.
