CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS. Corn Eases at First; Later Market Hardens

Due to Coal Order.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Although corn prices at first eased down a little today influenced by liklihood that traffic congestion would be relieved the market later hardened owing to uncertainty as to whether elevators and dryers would be permitted to continue in operation despite restrictive rules as to coal. changed figures to loc advance.

Prospects that government coal saving measures would clear the way for more liberal arrivals of grain here gave the corn market a slight downward stant in the earlier transactions. Selling however ass of a decidely cautious sort, and there was considerable change of sentiment after questions were raised as to whether eleva-tors, especially those without dryers, might night. not be forced to shut down by the measures taken to conserve fuel. Under such cir-cumstances declines were gradually more than overcome. As it was definitely known until after the close that elevators and dryers would not be interfered with.

Advances in outs resulted largely from strength shown by prices at Winnipeg. Besides, receipts here were very small,

Potato day is next on the food administration schedule. Because the potato crop of the United States was a large one last year, the administration believes people should consume more potatoes and thus conserve more of the other foods. So a potato day is soon to be set apart, when the sale of potatoes is to be featured, and when the increased consumption of potatoes is also to be urged. O. J. Schweiger of Chadron, chairman of the state potato committee, has been instructed by State Food Administrator Wattles to call his committee together and devise ways to further the movement in this state.
