CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Ideal Crop Conditions Aid to Bears in Hammering Prices of Corn.

Chicago, April 17.—Ideal crop conditions made the corn market today average much lower. Prices closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1½c down, with May 31.27 and July 31.46 to 31.46%. Cais gained % to 1½c. In provisions the outcome was a decline of 17c to 40% 42c.

Throughout most of the session, bears in corn had things their own way, forcing July down to 13c under last week's initial figures. Further widespread rains had failen beneficial to newly seeded land and to soil in preparation for planting. Besides the downpours provided greatly needed reserve moisture in many sections. A further weakening influence was the fact that notable declines were reported in the value of potatoes, hay and other farm commodities. During the late trading hewever, corn prices showed semething of a
