Until the last hour, pronounced weakness formed the rule in corn. Temperatures were above normal, just the sort to put the soil in condition and there were rains in the southwest where moisture was desirable to promote growth. Besides, peace falk was too specific not to receive general attention. Liberal receipts counted also as a handicap on the buils. Toward the end, however, au-thoritative denials of peace reports were current and the market railled. The recovery was apparently due also in some degree to assertions that much planting had been put off as a result of fears that the germin-ating quality of seed was doubtful.
