

SOUTH SIDE MADAME GUERIN STIRS SYMPATHY ON SOUTH SIDE

Business Men Give Ready Response to Appeal for Orphan Children of Stricken France.

It is not often that business men, accustomed to dealing with the practical side of life, are giving to weeping, but tears stood in the eyes of many a veteran of the stock exchange as they assembled in front of the Exchange building Friday afternoon and listened to Madame Guerin of Lyons, France, who is touring America on behalf of the French orphans, tell the sad story of her stricken country at the hands of the Hun.

Madame Guerin, who has lost three brothers in the war, and whose husband is now with his country's forces at the front, told in vivid language of the tens of thousands of homeless children of France, scantily clad and hungry, whose only hope lies in America's generosity.

On many previous occasions speakers at the Exchange building had told of the terror and destruction wrought by the invading hosts of "kultur," but the eloquent plea of Madame Guerin stirred the hearts of the stockmen as no other speaker had done.

Mogy Bernstein, who is managing Madame Guerin's Omaha campaign, also made a short talk. Little Charlotte Brant, who has raised over $8,000 in Omaha or war purposes by her singing and dancing, and Miss Agnes Britton, pianist, furnished entertainment for the audience. Four Omaha young women, Misses Philino Doyle, Rose Whalen, Lois Clements and Miss Fleming, assisted by selling small buttons, bearing the American and French flags, and the inscription, "united in Liberty's cause." The buyer paid any sum he wished to give, and more than $125 was raised in a short time. Several dollars more was raised when the party stopped or a few minutes at Twenty-fourth and N streets.

More than $79 was raised in a similar manner at South Side theatres last Monday night. The funds will be turned over to Madame A. Borghlum, treasurer of the French Orphan society.

South Siders Complain Of Street Car Service

The old question of inadequate street car service is again being discussed by South Side patrons. It is almost impossible to get car service to the packing house and stock yard districts between the hours of 6 and 7 in the morning, they say. The cars are always loaded to capacity before they reach the transfer point at Twenty-fourth and N. streets, where patrons are compelled to wait half to three quarters of an hour for cars. Many are obliged to walk to their work, when loaded cars pass without stopping. Organized action of the patrons is being discussed.

Two Soft Drink Stands Denied License Renewals

Two South Side soft drink establishments have been forced to go out of business because of alleged violations of the prohibition law. Stanley Zager, 3001 Q street, and Walter Waske, 5223 Q street, in whose places police said liquor had been sold, were denied licenses to operate soft drink bars by the city commissioners Thursday. Both places were ordered closed immediately.

Funeral of Lawrence Curran

The funeral of Lawrence Curran will be held from the residence of his son, William Curran, 5139 South Forty-Second street, Sunday afternoon. Services at St. Mary's church at 4 p. m. and interment at St. Mary's cemetery.

Woodmen Supreme Forest Gives Red Cross Ambulance

Acceptance from the government has just been received of a completely equipped Red Cross ambulance offered by the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle of Omaha. "Not a cent of the money for this ambulance has been raised by assessments," said Mrs. Emma B. Manchester, "as we have been able to do this by the voluntary gifts of our members." The Woodmen Circle is also expecting to send Miss Naomi King, one of their number, to France as a canteen worker. The state branch has already accepted her services and notification from the government of her acceptance is expected shortly.

Chief of Petty Officers Butter Visits Mother in Omaha

John G. Butter, chief of petty officers, U. S. Navy, is the guest of his mother, Mrs. J. B. Butter, superintendent of the Old People's home, Fontenelle boulevard.
He enlisted in the navy, radio department, May 12, last, has been attending the Dunwoody institute, Minneapolis, but leaves next week for Harvard university to complete his training, before being sent to sea.

Soldiers Observe Fast of Tisha Be-ab in Army Camps

Tisha Be-ab, the day of mourning of the Jews in exile, was observed yesterday in all of the army cantonments in this country, under the auspices of the Jewish Welfare board, United States army and navy. This annual fast and lamentation for the destruction of Jerusalem took on a new significance this year in view of the fact that a Jewish battalion is now fighting to free Palestine and a British commission is working on plans for its restoration.
The fast of Tisha Be-ab is widely observed by the orthodox because of the triple tragedy that befell the Jewish people on the ninth day of the month of Ab. On this date, 2,504 years ago, the city of Jerusalem was captured, the temple destroyed, and the Babylonian captivity began. Six and one-half centuries later, Jerusalem fell to Titus, the Roman conqueror, on the ninth of Ab. The last despairing effort of the Jews to save themselves from the yoke of Rome failed when the rebellion of Bar-Kochba ended in a massacre on the ninth of Ab 69 years later.

In the Silent Drama

Sun—Margaretta Fischer appearing in "Impossible Susan" proves that although clothes may not make the woman, they do a great deal toward allowing her to develop the qualities in her that would make her appeal to men and liked by women. It is a refreshing humorous story of a likable girl and one in which Miss Fischer appears well in her portrayal of the character, putting an especial charm into the poor girl in her plain clothes, her dog and her telescope trunk, sitting in the center of the parlor of a palatial home.

Rialto—In "Old Wives for New" there is depicted a remarkable novel of contemporary life with the problems of marital relations and the questions of divorce in no mild terms. It is a powerful story and has been wonderfully developed by Cecil de Mille, the director, and put on in a splendid style in the containing of the two leading women.

Empress—Billy Knight's 20 Roosters, who have delighted the audiences at the Empress with their innumerable stunts, bade their local admirers goodbye today. The Empress photoplay offering for the last half of the week, "Lend Me Your Name," classed Tuesday, the picture, the dainty Fox star, will be seen in "Miss Innocence."

Strand—Mae Marsh, appearing in one of the strongest parts in which she has been seen, will play in "All Woman" here today. As Susan Sweetser, a factory girl who has inherited a half interest in a hotel in the Adirondacks, she journeys to the little town to find in place of the pretentious hotel she had expected, more of a saloon and a roadhouse. She will not give up however and return, but decide to stay and fight the liquor interest of the town.

Muse—Peggy Hyland will be seen at the Muse for the last times today in "Other Men's Daughters," a pretty star and a clever story, a play with a moral and many big thrills. Sunday comes Alice Brady in "The Whirlpool."

Lothrop—"De Luxe Annie," the tale of a feminine crook, in which Norma Talmadge appears in the lead, is built on the foundation of the loss of memory of a woman in a struggle with crooks when with her husband. It is a thrilling tale, full of interest and one in which Miss Talmadge is given full play in depicting the changing character of the lead.
