

PAINT SHELTON STORE YELLOW; RIOT FOLLOWS

Defense Council Member Beaten; Riot in Which 150 Participated; No Arrests Have Been Made.

Grand Island, Neb., July 29.—(Special Telegram.)—A mob of 150 people entered Hostetter's store Saturday night and a general riot ensued. Mr. Hostetter, proprietor of the store, received a broken nose and was badly beaten about the head and face; Earl Palmer, an employe, was knocked unconscious, and Clifford C. Reed, editor of the Shelton Clipper was badly beaten.

The riot followed a fight, in which Palmer beat up a man named Bishop, whom he accused of being one of a party that applied yellow paint to the store some time before. The mob formed later and made a raid on the store. No arrests have been made.

The demonstration lasted several hours and no attempt was made by the village marshal to stop the rioters. This is the third time acts of violence have been committed following the use of yellow paint.

Reed is a member of the County Council of Defense. He is of draft age, as is Palmer. Neither filed claims for deferred classification.

Rains Assured Large Corn Crop in Cumming County

West Point, Neb., July 29.—(Special.)—Heavy rain the past week has assured the safety of the corn crop in Cumming county. Ears are forming rapidly and filling well and everything points to a bountiful yield. Potatoes are fair. Returns are in from a comparatively few threshings. Wheat is running from 15 to 20 bushels, quality good. Oats are yielding from 32 to 40 bushels, slightly less in quantity than last year, but excellent in quality.

DEMOS TO HAVE BIG ROW TODAY ON RESOLUTIONS

Edgar Howard on Hand to Push Prohibition and Suffrage; Machine Would Ditch These Topics.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) Hastings, Neb., July 29.—(Special Telegram.) Prohibition and equal suffrage are expected to form the basis of a clash in the state democratic convention tomorrow.

Among the early arrivals today there is a persistent movement to confine the platform to patriotic subjects, but a number of the delegates insist on an endorsement of prohibition and equal suffrage.

Edgar Howard of Columbus would add to these a plank which he has prepared committing the Nebraska democrats to the principle of public ownership and operation of water powers and stock yards. He says the decree has gone out that the convention shall not discuss subjects other than the war, but notwithstanding "it comes from the hand of one much loved by all within the imperial palace of the Hohenzollerns, it will not be respected by progressive democrats."

The convention will meet in Prospect park pavilion at noon. Judge H. Dungan of Hastings, who decided to run for United States senator on the petition filed by his friends, will welcome democracy to Hastings for the second successive gathering and the keynote address will be delivered by J. A. Donahue of O'Neill. Much interest prevails in the naming of the committee on resolutions.

If the three planks in dispute are omitted from the committee report, it is said that an effort will be made to get them before the delegates on the floor.

POLITICAL POT BOILS AS STATE MEETS ARE HELD

Republicans Harmonious at Lincoln, While Demos Visit Hastings With Fear and Trembling.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Lincoln, July 29.—(Special.)—Republicans are beginning to arrive today to attend the big state convention here tomorrow. Everybody is happy and they all bring "good tidings of great joy" because of the prospects of republican success in Nebraska. They talk and laugh just as republicans used to do in the good old days when republicans were in control in the state and liable to remain so.

They tell of big conventions in the counties with large attendance and much enthusiasm and everybody feeling sure that a change is coming and Nebraska coming back into its own. Of course the chief topic of conversation is the withdrawal of R. B. Howell of Omaha as a candidate for the republican nomination for governor, which puts the situation back in its original condition when it was expected that S. R. McKelvie would have no opposition for the gubernatorial nomination at the hands of the republicans and insures the utmost harmony and good feeling all around.

Democrats Look Blue.

In contrast to the good feeling shown by republicans coming to the convention is the worry upon the faces of democrats leaving here today for their state convention at Hastings. Most of them are going over in automobiles and the look upon their faces indicates that a blowout or a busted cylinder would be a welcome factor if it gave them a good excuse for not going to the convention.

They are expecting trouble but hope to keep away from it. The soft pedal is the only thing that will keep the convention from getting into a squabble. If both factions of the party mixing in the governorship fight may be averted, but if either side starts things the other will join in the fight with a vim.

Reed May Win.

On the senatorial situation there seems to be much speculation. Just at the present time some are declaring that the nomination will go to former Gov. John H. Morehead at the primary. They insist that Lieutenant Governor Howard has lost ground since the advent of R. L. Metcalfe into the scrap and that the real fight will be between the former governor and Mr. Metcalfe. With five candidates in the race, which includes besides the above, Attorney General Reed and W. B. Price, a little twisting of the old mule's tail is likely to start a fight which may land Reed in the front. The situation at the convention may clarify things or it may muddy up the already mud disturbed waters of the political pool until it becomes a dangerous proposition for anybody to sail across.

Hun Vandals Destroy Homes and Art Works Along River Marne

London, July 29.—Evidence accumulates that during their brief stay in the Marne salient the Germans have been indulging again in wholesale acts of vandalism. In a message sent from French headquarters, Reuter's correspondent gives details of their conduct while in possession of Chateau Thierry.

The Germans had been in the town some time. When they found they would have to give it up they determined to take the only vengeance in their power. The injuries which they inflicted on the town are such as could not be the result of shelling, the correspondent points out, as those houses which suffered most were entirely uninjured by shell, shrapnel or bullet.

"These houses," he says, "were magnificently furnished, the walls hung with costly draperies and admirable pictures. Today there is nothing that has not been destroyed."

Americans Cross Marne on Boats Submerged by Huns

By Associated Press. With the American Army on the Aisne-Marne Front, July 29.—When the Americans crossed the Marne they discovered the retreating Germans had conceived a trick to deceive the allied air bombers.

Boats and floats submerged and held down by rocks were found so arranged they could be made accessible for use in short order for crossing from the south to the north bank.

In many instances these floats spanned the river and were held by cable and it required only a short time to get them. The Germans did not bus them to use their impromptu bridges, having been kept away from them by the fire of the allied guns. The French and Americans, however, made use of the floats when they came along in hot pursuit of the enemy.

NEBRASKA BASE HOSPITAL UNIT REACHES FRANCE

Cable Messages Received from Members of Unit Indicate it Has Arrived Overseas for Service.

The Nebraska base hospital unit No. 49 has arrived overseas.

The unit, which was composed in the main of Omahans, was recruited in this city, left here in March for Des Moines, where it went into intensive training and recently left the Des Moines camp for an eastern embarkation point. Cable messages received in Omaha Monday from members of the unit indicate the unit has reached its destination "over there" in safety.

Mrs. A. S. Stokes and Mrs. John B. Potts, wives of two of the Omaha doctors with the unit, recently returned from an Atlantic port, where they visited their husbands before they sailed. Both were present when the ship bearing the unit sailed out of the harbor.

"The ship was ordered to sail at an early morning hour," Mrs. Stokes said, "and the passengers given notice to be on board the night before. Dr. Stokes bid me adieu that night and I did not expect to see him for a long, long time."

See Ships Depart.

"Later that night we were informed that there was a ferry across the Hudson, from which it was possible to get closer to the ships as they were leaving the harbor."

"Mrs. Potts and I were aboard that ferry at 7 o'clock the next morning. The vessel was in plain sight as we crossed the river. We waved to those on board until we attracted their attention. Then they waved back, whistled loudly and acted in a delighted manner."

"We were not near enough to distinguish features, but I knew many of the men so well that I could recognize them by their actions. It soon looked like the whole unit was on the side of the ship looking in our direction. We kept up this form of communication until the ship vanished into the great white space."

"We crossed the river six times that morning, as near to the ship as it was possible to get. The ship, with several other vessels and their convoys, sailed out of the harbor in plain daylight and without any attempt at concealment."

Amsterdam, July 29.—The recent monarchist congress at Kiev resolved to form centers throughout Russia for the re-establishment of the imperial regime on the lines of that in power prior to March, March 1917, and to aim at the reunion of the Ukraine and Great Russia under Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholavitch, according to brief details received here. Kiev newspapers report a recrudescence of the activities of the Black Hundred.

When confirmation of the death of the former emperor was received in Kiev many Russian officers were seen with crepe wound about their crosses of St. George.

When his execution was first denied a crowded thanksgiving service was held in Kiev cathedral.

After the service there was bloody fighting in the streets of Kiev between the monarchists and bolsheviks.
