

POOL SENDS OUT PAMPHLET ABOUT WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Restraining Order of Lancaster County District Court Not Broad Enough to Cover the Controversy.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 1.—(Special.)—Despite the fact that he has been temporarily restrained by the Lancaster district court from placing on the November election ballot the referendum proposition to prevent women from voting under the partial suffrage law enacted last year, Secretary of State Pool apparently must go ahead and print and mail the pamphlet on that subject to about 330,000 Nebraska voters. Absent soldiers and sailors are included in this number.

It was estimated at the secretary of state's office Wednesday that the total number of mail enclosures to soldiers and sailors will reach about 12,000.

The court order instructs Pool not to certify the referendum proposition to county clerks until further notice from the court. Nothing is said in restraining order about holding up the preparation and distribution of the pamphlets. The expense of this undertaking is estimated at $5,500 and Mr. Pool would like to avoid this if possible.

The names of local candidates running for primary nominations in Arthur, Colfax, Stanton and Washington counties will not appear in the special pamphlet being sent to soldiers and sailors, owing to the failure of the county clerks of these counties to send in the lists.

Mr. Maurer appeared before Mr. Cleland at James Nichols' office and was assessed with the following fines: Two hundred dollars to Red Cross, $50 to Young Men's Christian association and all expenses connected with the investigation and hearing, approximately $300, which Mr. Maurer paid.

Will Feed 600 Cattle on Canning Factory Waste

Fremont, Neb., Aug. 1.—(Special.)—A Kansas City firm has leased grounds and is arranging to erect sheds for feeding 600 head of cattle here this winter. The silage from the Fremont canning factory has been contracted for for 10 years by the feeders. This same silage will feed cattle at 10 other canning factories over the country, utilizing the waste product to produce beef.

Game Law Violators Fined.

Lincoln, Aug. 1.—(Special.)—Four men living at Henderson, Henry Ott, Jake Jensen and John and Dietrich Peters were fined $25 and costs at Aurora for seining in the Platte river. They were arrested by Deputy Game Warden George Harms. The fine and costs for each man totalled $37.60. A 75-foot net was confiscated. John Federhoffs of North Platte was fined $20 and costs on a charge of shooting four prairie chickens out of season. He was arrested by Oliver Jones, a special deputy.

To Close R. I. Depot.

Lincoln, Aug. 1.—(Special.)—The Rock Island depot at University Place will be closed for the period of the war. An agreement to this effect has been reached between the city officials of that suburb and attorneys for the railroad. The Railway commission will issue an order reserving the right of the city to bring an action after the war is over, to require the Burlington and Rock Island to build and use a union depot in University Place.

Fined for Selling Liquor.

Lincoln, Aug. 1.—(Special.)—Peter Nelson of Millard was fined $200 and costs for selling a pint of whiskey and illegal possession of liquor, according to a report received by Governor Neville from one of his prohibition agents. At Alliance, John Reihlen was fined $100 and costs for unlawful possession of some booze, another agent has wired.

Makes Violins by Hand.

Fremont, Neb., Aug. 1.—(Special.)—Willis Cackler, a gardener, completed his 10th fiddle recently. Mr. Cackler whittles out the instruments with his knife and local violinists say the tone compares favorably with the higher-priced fiddles. Mr. Cackler is a fiddler of the old school, never having learned to play by note.

Proud Circus Performers Point With Pride to Sawdust Ancestry

One hears a great deal about the aristocracy of the stage. The Drews, the Jeffersons and the Barrymores point with pride to the long line of ancestors who trod the boards before them. Yet, though few know it, the circus family antedates most of those who have been footlight favorites.

In the Ringling Brothers' circus which is to exhibit here Wednesday August 7, at 20th and Paul streets, are the Wirths, the Clarks, the McCrees, the Davenport, the Rooneys, the Nelsons, the TyBells and many others whose grandfathers and great-grandfathers wore the spangles of the "white-tops." It is the rule rather than the exception for the son or daughter of a performer to follow in the footsteps of his parents. As soon as they leave school the children join their elders, to be put through the mysteries of their first somersault or to first feel the yielding back of a horse beneath their feet. This is the way the "business" is kept up. The teachers are the most willing in the world, for each parent lives in the hope that his child may become a greater performer than himself. This season there are 400 performers with the Ringling circus and out of this number a census taking would discover that the total includes no less than thirty-four families.

The aristocracy of the family extends to those who play leading parts in this season's colossal spectacle of romance and chivalry. "In Days of Old," Mary Morland, who plays the princess, is of a family well known in the annals of pantomime. Her uncle, Al Miaco, aged 77 years, is a clown with the show. Old as he is, he was not the first to bring the family name within the land of spangles, for his father was a performer before him.
