Capture Fortress of Bolsheviki at Vladivostok After Few Hours of Hot Machine Gun Fighting.

Correspondence of Associated Press. Vladivostok, July 20 .- Three thousand bolshevik red guards entrenched themselves in the fortress here and defended themselves with furious fighting when the Czecho-Slovaks took over the command of the city on June 29. The red guards were aided by 50 Magyars and German prisoners of war.

The Czecho-Slovaks had surrounded the fortress and placed machine guns on the roof of the British consulate and on the roof of the railway station near by. They called upon the bolsheviki in the fortress to surrender, but the red guards shot down their messengers. Immediately the machine guns opened fire and for two hours a stream of bullets rained on the fortress. So fast and furious was the firing that the men in the fortress were unable to return the fire from its windows. Suddenly there was a tremendous explosion. A Czech had crawled near the fortress under the fire barrage and thrown a mine into the building. A white flag appeared at one of the windows, a party of Czechs rushed to the main entrance of the fortress, burst open by a hand grenade. The bolsheviki threw down their arms and surrendered.

Czechs Lose Four Men.

In this conflict the Czecho-Slovaks lost four men, with 15 wounded while of their opponents 149 had been killed and wounded. Thus, in the course of a few hours, the all-powerful soviet had been overthrown and its delegates arrested, its military staff overpowered by force of arms, and its army of red guards had either surrendered or thrown away their arms and dispersed without fighting. When the local bolsheviki had decided to disarm them on June 30. the Czecho-Slovaks forced all this action by presenting an ultimatum to the soviet demanding the disarmanent of the red guards on the ground that it was necessary to safeguard the transport of the Czecho-Slovak forces rom Russia.

When the soviets refused to comply with the ultimatum orders were given to arrest these delegates and all of the prominent bolsheviki. War flags were hoisted on foreign warships in the harbor. Four soviet torpedo boats attempted to put to sea, but were stopped and surrendered to officers of the Japanese cruiser "Asahi" and British cruiser "Suffolk."

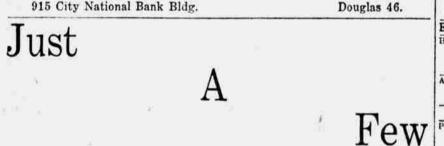

Reds Are Arrested.

The British and Japanese cruisers landed additional forces and aided the Czecho-Slovaks in occupying all important points including the powder Faul E. Schatter, Solly of Scherole and Schule Schule, Marblehead, O.

He has been trying to break into the fighting forces ever since the war started. He tried for the first officers' training camp. Failing to gain admission to this, he joined the "Lucky Seventh" regiment, which later proved to be unlucky.

During service with the Nebraska National Guard a few years ago he made a high record as a marksman. A farewell party was given him by large number of his friends from St. Mark's English Lutheran church, of which he is a member.
