

League to Decide Albania-Greece Territorial Row

Harvard Graduate to Present Dispute Over Territory Conceded by Powers In 1913.

By The Associated Press. Geneva, Sept. 3.—At its forthcoming meeting, the assembly of the league of nations will, for the first time, be called upon to decide a territorial dispute.

The case will be presented to the assembly by a Harvard graduate, Bishop Noli, who is head of the Albanian delegation.

The council received a report by the blockade commission, which recommends an amendment to the covenant of the league going away with the requirement of a unanimous vote in a case where the council is required to decide whether there shall be a blockade against a nation having representatives on the council.

In an animated meeting of the disarmament commission, the failure was registered of the proposal of the assembly last year that an attempt be made to induce the powers to limit armaments for two years to the amount of their next budget.

Charles Noblemaire, representing France in the place of M. Viviani, made a heated protest against the charges of militarism lodged against France. He declared his country was maintaining men under arms on the Rhine "not because it wanted them there, but because the powers, in making peace, had assigned to it, largely the duty of watching the Rhine."

When all were ready to co-operate for mutual security, he added, France would be glad to demobilize these men.

Court Waives Contempt Charge at Omaha Brokers

Officers of the American Brokers and Development Company of Omaha will be punished for contempt of court unless they turn the company records over to John O. Sterner, a stockholder, or to an auditor before next Tuesday, according to an order issued by District Judge L. B. Day yesterday.

Judge Day ordered Sam B. Musser and R. C. Strickland, officers of the company, to appear before him Tuesday to "show why they are not guilty of contempt." On the position of the stockholder Sterner, Judge Day ordered these officers to turn their records over for audit several days ago. The order was served by a sheriff, but the two officers refused to relinquish the records, according to allegations of Sterner.

Man Who Changed His Mind a Good Rotarian

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) Paris, Sept. 3.—Ambassador Myron T. Herrick was receiving a few friends who had motored down here to meet him on the arrival of La France. They were in the dining room of the ambassador's private suite, and he was having soft boiled eggs and cafe au lait as the French serve it.

Mr. Herrick was talking about men who changed their minds quickly. "I knew a man once who changed his mind so rapidly and continually that he told me he occasionally found the seat of his trousers in front," said the ambassador.

"He was a regular Rotarian," remarked Col. Bunau-Varilla, owner of Le Matin, who was greatly interested in Rotarians as a result of their recent visit to France following the convention in Edinburgh.

Attempts Made to Boost Rents for U. S. Conference

Washington, Sept. 3.—The attempt of some property owners in Washington to boost rentals on homes desired for the staffs of foreign delegates who will attend the disarmament conference, was brought to the attention of the cabinet.

In working out preliminary plans, chief of which relate to the problem of finding adequate accommodations for minor officials and clerical troops, cabinet members found that one owner of a house offered for sale at $15,000, demanded a monthly rental of $3,000.

Administration officials declared the incident showed "such a violation of the spirit that ought to be maintained" that it called for a cure by the good sense of the people of Washington.

The conference, as an official explained, is not a "lark." Washington committees are co-operating with the administration in the task of finding homes and it was said that the "first offense of profiteering" might be handled under the District of Columbia rental control act, which congress recently extended until next May.

Much of the cabinet meeting was devoted to a discussion of conference plans. It was decided to use the two east wings of the Navy building for visiting delegations. The building will be remodeled and the first floor of each wing fitted up as committee rooms. The general sessions of the conference will be held in the Pan-American Union building, just across the street from the Navy building.

It was stated at the White House that no objection had been reached as to the number of delegates, this depending upon the number to be designated by other nations participating.

Omaha Grain

Cash wheat offerings sold at an advance of 10c/2c today, taken generally. Corn was 1/2c higher.

Chicago Grain. By CHARLES D. MICHAELS. Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. Chicago, Sept. 3.—Heavy buying of wheat today, led by houses with Western connections, and a stronger bull market carried prices to the highest of the week and made the best finish of the week.

The wheat market furnished a big surprise in the last hour, becoming very strong after being comparatively slow and easy early. Heavy buying was by seaboard houses as well as commission houses in general and by the strongest of the local professionals, who were sellers on the previous day.

There were intimations of a large export business, but nothing confirmed. Buying was understood to be based on the statement that millions of bushels of wheat and other grains will be needed for that country.

September Corn Higher. The delivery of 250,000 bushels corn on September 15th was made today, and it was readily taken by cash houses at 14 1/2c.

Financial

The New York Times. By ALEXANDER DANA NOYES. Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. New York, Sept. 3.—With the exception of the Chicago board of trade, which by tradition never closes down except on a legal holiday, all important exchanges in the United States were closed today and will remain closed over the Monday holiday.

The money market and the foreign exchange market were nominally open and the weekly bank statement was made as usual, but with the important European exchanges also observing a full holiday on Saturday, actual business was naturally much at a standstill.

The incidents which marked the closing days of the week are of a character to lend particular interest to the course of events on the market during the coming week. This coming week there will be given out the statement of the steel corporation's unfilled orders at the end of August, showing what has been the actual course of the trade effort of the past month, and to what extent, if at all, the recent complete merger of consumers has grown less evident.

There will be published also during the week the figures of the country's trade balance for August, which will show what effect, if any, the recent recovery of iron prices has had on actual output. It will be remembered that the output of iron was shown last month to have decreased 20 per cent from the preceding month and to have fallen to the lowest point since December of 1920.

Traditionally, the monthly production of iron is one of the signs to which financial markets look for the first faint evidence of trade recovery.

Stronger coming week there will be published also the government's September report on condition of the grain crops, which, particularly at the end of August because of the alternate advances and declines in wheat during the past week, under the influence of the unusually large export business and of the quantity of volume of shipments from the farms.

There will possibly be plainer signs coming week as to what effect the very low cotton crop estimate will have on the market for cotton and on willingness to sell at southern holders; the monthly index numbers of average commercial prices at the end of August will show whether the recovery in cotton prices last month has sufficiently offset the irregularity of prices for other products to continue the level of general prices.

Not least important, the federal reserve board's report on the condition of the money market will be published, and will give some indication as to whether the recent recovery in cotton prices will be sufficiently to check the prolonged reduction of rediscounts and of note circulation.
