BIRTHDAY parties and "movies" walk hand in hand for little Harriett Beaton, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Beaton. Friday Miss Harriett celebrated her fifth birthday at an afternoon party given by her mother for 22 children, all friends of the small miss.

The feature of the occasion was really, truly, motion pictures for the little folk. Red Ridinghood and the Three Bears were the plays chosen, and not a little excitement was caused by the horrid wolf who wanted to eat the pretty little girl.

At the close of the party birthday goodies were served to the children, and in the joys of ice cream and cake the adventures which had been enacted on the screen were temporarily forgotten.

The bride was gowned in white, charmed with silver lace, and carried bride's roses. The bridesmaid wore a pale pink gettys dress with hat to match and carried Ward roses.

The wedding breakfast was served at the groom's home, after which the young couple left on an extended honeymoon.

Davis, Clara Swobe, Hubert Hicks, Glenn Wharton, Clifford Calkins, Alvin Johnson, Will Coad, A. L. Ritchie, Jack Sharp, Eva Wallace and Misses Meliera and Elizabeth Davis and Elinor Burkley.

What's What

On some tables a special fork is always served with a fish dinner. Whether the fish fork or an ordinary meat fork is used, the process of separating the fish from the bone is the same. The knife is held in the right hand merely to steady the fish, which is shredded from the bones by the fork, held in the left hand. It is better not to do this all at once, but, rather, two or three times in the course of the meal.

When ready to eat the flaked portion of the fish, the knife is laid down and the fork is then taken in the right hand. If, despite all precautions, a bone has been taken into the mouth, it should be removed as inconspicuously as possible. There are ways more seemly than the common practice of rejecting a fish bone into a spoon. As it is very dangerous to swallow one of these needle-like bones, no one can afford to eat fish without strict attention to the deboning process.

Winter Exhibits. Following the exhibition of the work of Nebraska artists Mr. Block announced many other interesting ones. In November there will be an exhibition of the work of the mid-western artists.

The work of W. J. Potter will be shown in December. His work is well known in the galleries of Europe.

Nebraska Art On Exhibit Soon

The museum of the Omaha Society of Fine Arts in the Public Library will open Monday, October 3, with an exhibition of the work of Nebraska artists.

Manrico Block, museum director, who has just returned from an extended western trip, is now sending out the prospectus for the exhibition. George W. Eggers, director of art at the Chicago art institute and John Carlson of the Woodstock school of painting, New York City, will be the jury. The conditions of the exhibition are that the artist be either a resident or a former resident of the state of Nebraska and that the work eligible for jury decision has never been publicly exhibited before more than one Omaha artist.

The exhibition bids fair to be one of the most interesting and successful affairs ever sponsored by the Omaha Society of Fine Arts, according to Mr. Block.

Solon Borglum to Exhibit. Many prominent Nebraska artists are now packing their work for shipment to the museum. Robert Spencer of New York, formerly of Harvard, Neb., is among the most enthusiastic over the Nebraska exhibition. He writes he is sending some of his canvases. So also is Herbert Johnson, who is well known for his magazine cover work. Solon Borglum of New York, formerly of Omaha and a sculptor of international fame, has signified his intention to send a group, "Bulls Fighting."

Miss Gertrude Young of the Brooklyn Museum of Fine Arts, a former resident of Omaha, writes that she will exhibit some of her work. Homer Conant writes from Paris that he is sending some of his recent batik work. Jean Marie Guislain of New York is sending some of his canvases. So also is Elizabeth Tuttle Holsan of Chicago, and Alice Cleaver of Falls City write to say they are sending canvases.

Local Artists Interested. Local artists are equally interested. Dr. Robert Gilder, who has spent the past summer painting in New Mexico, has some wonderful canvases, say those who have seen them. Mr. Block and Dr. Gilder spent several weeks together in Santa Fe, N. M., where they were numbered in the big colony of artists who witnessed the Indian fiesta—the corn dance.

August W. Dunbar, another local artist, has numbered over a score of new canvases in his summer's work camping near the state fisheries. He plans to exhibit some of them. So also do Frederick Knight, Miss Julia Knight and Miss Augusta Knight, who have all been busy with brush and palette this summer.

During Mr. Block's western trip he was a guest at Red Crags, Colo., where he visited Birger Sandzen, Lit. D. of Bethany college, Lindsborg, Kan. While in Colorado Springs he spent some time with John Carlson of the Woodstock School of Paintings, New York. He also visited the Broadmoor Art Academy in Colorado Springs.

Estes Park proved to be a mecca for many of the exhibition committee of the Omaha Society of Fine Arts. Mrs. C. M. Wilhelm, chairman of the committee, summered at Elkhorn Lodge, where she entertained them at a breakfast, followed by a committee meeting. The members present were Mesdames Charles Offutt, Mark Levings, David Baum, Miss Margaret Baum. Other Omahans at the breakfast were Mesdames Milton Barlow, Warren Rogers, Miss Helen Hibbard and Mr. Block.

The work of W. J. Potter will be shown in December. His work is well known in the galleries of Europe.

Treasurer Banks Four Thousand

Mrs. J. J. McMullen, treasurer for the Associated Charities dinner-dance, September 15, at the Brandeis Italian Renaissance room, banked $4,000 Friday morning, representing 800 paid reservations for the affair which promises to be one of the brilliant events in Omaha social annals.

and Omaha is extremely fortunate to secure the exhibition, says Mr. Block. John Sargent of New York is one of the admirers of this artist and has bought many of his canvases.

The exhibition of the work of Nicholas Roerich, the famous Russian artist, whose work created such wide comment in Chicago last winter, will be seen here in January.

Care of the Bedroom

By LORETTO C. LYNCH.

Every detail of housekeeping should be attacked from a health standpoint. It is well for the woman to consider this who becomes a little rebellious as spring comes on and wonders, "Why all this fuss?" The care of the beds and the bedroom should be especially treated from this standpoint. For, while a dusty chair in the living-room may be undesirable, it is of far less consequence than either a dirty dishevelled or a rickety bed.

The ideal bedroom has at least two windows and is flooded with sunlight and sunshine on bright days. It is large enough to contain a bed. The ideal floor for a bedroom is uncarpeted save for, perhaps, a small rug in front of the bed or dressing table. After the wood is properly finished, it should be waxed or oiled. The oiled floors of the hospital permit of frequent mopping with a little disinfectant and water.

Single beds are coming more and more into fashion. Health authorities tell us that it is more conducive to both health and comfort for each to have an individual bed. Plain white enameled bed frames are always a wise choice if one's money is limited. But no matter what the frame, buy the best mattress and spring you can afford.

If you buy a bed mattress second hand, be sure to send it away to a reliable firm to be thoroughly sterilized. And, in any event, once every few years, mattresses should be sent away for a couple of days. The ticking should be laundered and the hair or other material it contains should be thoroughly and scientifically cleaned.

Every mattress should be protected not only from soil or surface dirt, but it should be protected so that it may not absorb and hold perspiration or other body excretions. To protect it from surface dirt, make of
