For the Approaching Festivities of Autumn—The Ak-Sar-Ben Ball—

Evening Dresses Dinner Frocks Ball Gowns

Individual Creations — Elaborate Designs

The lavish use of beads, jet, sequins, distinguishes the majority of these dresses, though the wide range of ideas in choice of colors and treatment makes each dress a creation entirely individual. One of the most elaborate of the gowns is in black jet, unrelieved by color, yet designs in solid beading are worked out in beads of different cuttings, which hold the shadow and reflect the light, describing the outlines of an intricate design. Departure from beaded ideas is shown in a group of broaded velvets; their elaborate effect is due entirely to the richness of their material. There is not a dress in the selection but would attract favorable attention at the Ak-Sar-Ben Ball or at other fall festivities.

Omaha in Need of Larger Landing Fields, Says Flyer

Major Lanphier of Fort Sill U. S. Airmen Declares Omaha Logical Stopping Place.

Omaha must look to its landing fields if it would become one of the leading air ports of the future, Maj. Thomas Lanphier, in charge of the army airplane squadron from Fort Sill, Okla., told members of the Chamber of Commerce following a luncheon for the visiting flyers there yesterday noon.

Present landing fields, including the air mail field, are too small, he said. The trees about Ak-Sar-Ben field are too high, according to the major, and too close to the field. Also, there are too many buildings in the neighborhood.

Logical Stopping Point.

"In case of an emergency," he said, "a crash would be inevitable." The field at Fort Crook he characterized as more ideally situated.

Within a short time, the major predicted, virtually all ocean travel will be done in dirigibles and virtually all trans-continental travel will be accomplished by means of airplanes.

"Omaha is a logical stopping place on the transcontinental route," he pointed out. "At least, it would be, if adequate landing fields were supplied."

Outlines Plans.

F. H. Fetters, Omaha engineer, spoke on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and the Omaha Aero club.

He outlined the plans for the coming International Aero congress here in November, and extended an invitation to all the visiting flyers to attend.

Maj. R. A. Rader, in charge of flying at Fort Crook, was present at the luncheon, as were Harley Conant, chairman of the aerial committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. D. F. Quigley.

Pine Manufacturers Oppose Duties Under Fordney Tariff Bill

Washington, Sept. 10.—The duties on poles, posts and ties in the Fordney tariff bill is opposed by the Western Pine Manufacturers' association.

"Importation free of duty of commodities which we are admittedly short of and which constitute raw materials to our industry, such as lumber, shingles, posts, poles and ties, will permit Canada to repay the United States with commodities which do not restrict the progress of American industry and which will aid in the rehabilitation of our exchange with Canada and the increase of trade, as well as will make for the conservation of our natural resources," says the association.

Jack Broomfield Is Sued for Divorce

John H. ("Jack") Broomfield, negro, formerly operator of the Midway resort on Capitol avenue, was sued for divorce in district court yesterday by his wife, Charlean. She charges him with extreme cruelty.

They were married in 1909.

Broomfield is the father of Le Roy Broomfield, who operated the Monarch Gardens, black and white cabaret, 107 West 10th street, until it was closed up by city authorities last November. The elder Broomfield now operates a drug store at 111 South Fourteenth street.

1,000 Buffaloes Are for Sale By Government of Canada

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 9.—One thousand buffaloes are for sale by the Dominion government. They are for the most part bulls and represent the surplus of the herd of nearly 5,000 in the national park at Wainwright, Alta.

The park is the largest wild-game preserve under fence in the world. It contains more than 100,000 acres and could support 25,000 buffaloes readily. But there is little winter pasture because of the deep snows, and a vast quantity of hay has to be cut every year to carry the herd through the cold season. This difficulty will make it necessary to limit the maximum size of the herd to 10,000 head.

Omaha Firm Files Suit On Assessment Increase

The Omaha Fixture & Supply company filed suit against the city of Omaha and Treasurer M. L. Endres and Assessor H. G. Counsman in district court yesterday, alleging that the assessment on its property was unlawfully raised from $40,000 to $60,000. The company asks the court to fix the assessment at the former figure.
