

Babe Born to Girl Whose Husband Is In Jail at Fremont

No Relatives in Omaha to Comfort Young Mother as Tiny Infant Opens Eyes On World.

A tiny baby girl opened her eyes to this world in the University hospital yesterday, unaware of her hapless plight.

The sunshine which flooded the hospital ward, where she and her 18-year-old mother lay, does not even penetrate the Fremont prison cell, where her young father is held, ignorant of his infant's birth.

Her only little brother, 18 months old, is in strange, but kindly hands, calling plaintively for "Mother!"

Husband Arrested. Neither is "grandma" here to rejoice over the little one's advent, for to announce her coming is to make known the utter misery the young mother is suffering on account of her husband's arrest.

This Mrs. Clyde H. Millard, 1818 Capitol avenue, declined to do. "My mother is so poor and has so many troubles of her own, I want to keep her from knowing about my sorrows. It would break her heart," sighed the unfortunate little woman.

Her husband, only 26, was arrested and taken back to Fremont a week ago, on the charge of stealing a box of tools he pawned in an Omaha store.

No Food in Home. "My husband did not steal those tools," the wife defends staunchly. "He bought them from a Fremont man. Then we got hard up. He could find no work. Then he pawned them so we could have money to eat," she told welfare workers called into the case.

Police reported there was not a morsel of food in the Millard's one room on Capitol avenue when they called to arrest him.

They notified charitable agencies which sent the wife to the hospital for necessary attention and placed their little son Gordon Wesley, in a rooming home until the mother is released from the hospital.

What their fate will be should Millard be convicted on the charge, they do not care to speculate.

No Place to Go. "I have no place to go. My mother has five children younger than I am and is in poor health, and my husband's mother is too poor to take us in," said Mrs. Millard.

The young woman's present plight is the final burst of the bubble of romance for a little Kansas girl, brought up on a farm.

When her father died, her mother ran a small hotel at St. George, Kan. It was here she met Millard, a railroad man, who wooed and won her.

For a time they were happy. Millard had a good job and was a good provider until when their first baby came, he gave up his railroad job so he would not have to leave her alone so much.

Other jobs were hard to find. They finally drifted north to Fremont and other Nebraska towns in search of work and finally came to Omaha last March.

Mrs. George Doane of the Associated Charities said she would furnish transportation for Mrs. Millard if she decides to return to her mother. The Nebraska Children's Home society is attempting to find a home for little Gordon.

Furniture Expert Gives Lecture Here

In accordance with the modern trend of better home furnishings, more restful color schemes and proper and tasty draperies for the different rooms of the home, the Orchard & Wilhelm company store is holding a series of lectures and demonstrations this week, given by John L. Kelle of New York, who is associated with the Kleinfax Linen Rug company.

The object of the lectures is to indicate the proper placing of furniture, correct forms in draping and harmonizing color schemes.

"I do not want to make anyone dissatisfied with the furniture they already have," Mr. Kelle said, but to show them how they can get the best arrangement out of it. And if they wish to buy new furnishings for the home, to point out the proper kind for each room."

The lectures are held on the second floor of the store from 2:30 to 3:30, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

This afternoon Mr. Kelle will lecture on the bedrooms, showing furnishings for the room for the head of the family, for the boys and the girls, and the guest room. Friday the lecture will concern a combined living room and dining room.

Reorganization of Chinese Cabinet Now Is Forecast

Peking, Sept. 21.—(By The Associated Press).—Reorganization of the Chinese cabinet at an early date is forecast in political circles here. This is said to be due to the alleged persistence of General Chu Yun-feng to resign from the premiership, and the failure of Acting Minister of Finance Pan Fu to meet the requirements in financially rehabilitating the government. It is reported that Dr. W. W. Yen contemplates resigning from the post of foreign minister and as head of the Chinese delegation going to Washington as a result of the demand that he reduce the delegation by 50 per cent.

Proposed Changes in U. S. Reserve Rates Discussed

Washington, Sept. 21.—The federal reserve discount rate, it is understood, was discussed in the light of changes in some localities and the average gold reserve of more than 67 per cent for all reserve banks at the quarterly meeting of the advisory council of the federal reserve board. Economic conditions also were considered.

No formal report was made to the board by the council and no indication was forthcoming of a possible reduction in rates.

Financial Writer For Public Ledger Gives Impressions of Omaha

Bit of Iowa in Nebraska at Carter Lake Draws Mention; Omaha's Americanization Program Lauded; Old Settlers' Day and School Campaign Cited; Golf, African, Scotch and Barnyard, Discussed.

By RICHARD SPILLANE.

Editor's Note.—Richard Spillane is financial writer for the Public Ledger in Philadelphia. He was in Omaha several days last week in the company of the reporter of this paper. He writes for the Public Ledger under "Alec and Business" September 13.

On the Road, Sept. 14.—Omaha does a work of Americanization worthy of study by other cities. About 1,000 foreign-born are naturalized there each year. The Chamber of Commerce has arranged that when the new citizen receives his papers it shall be in the assembly room of the chamber or in the round of the court house or in the public library. Usually it is at the chamber. Notices are sent to the embryo citizens and their wives and children are invited to be guests of the chamber. Prominent citizens attend to welcome the foreign-born. The American flag is put in conspicuous position. Able men make addresses. The visitors are made to know the whole city is interested in them as additions to the great American family. They are told what America stands for, what it has done and the opportunity offered here for industrious, honest people of any and every land. They are informed that the Chamber of Commerce offices are open to them.

Usually the speakers include a representative of the courts, a representative of the city government and a representative of the chamber. Usually some of the new citizens make responses. A buffet luncheon is served. There are cigars for the men, confections for the women and children, and there is welcome and informality to it all.

Promotes School Campaign. The Chamber of Commerce of Omaha promotes a "Know Your City Campaign" in the schools. Pupils from all the schools are taken at intervals to the various points of interest in the municipality, the industrial establishments, the parks, over the many arteries of travel and so on. Then, to those who write the best essays, the chamber awards prizes.

Another unique feature is the establishment of an old folks' day. All the old folks are the guests of the city at a celebration in one of the parks. For between 70 years and 80 years wear white badges, those between 60 and 90 blue and those above 90 gold. Young people wait on them, take them to and from the celebration in automobiles and take home to them. There are addresses, parade in pairs of the guests. Flowers are given to them and flower buds showered on them. And there is music.

Part of Iowa is in Nebraska. It isn't much, but it is physically separated from the home state, and probably will remain so, for it has been away from home 40 years.

Way back in 1881 the Big Muddy, as the Missouri river is called, went on a rampage, as the rivers of the west sometimes do. The water rose to heights never known before. There had been a big bend in the river just above Council Bluffs and the raging waters straightened out part of this curve by making a new channel for themselves. When the flood subsided the river not only had cut a slice off Council Bluffs, but had piled silt in its old bed and severed from home and mother so that it not only was joined to Nebraska, but surrounded by Nebraska land.

The bit of Iowa comprises about 1,000 acres. Nearby is what is known as Carter lake. This was named in honor of a manufacturer of white lead, whose plant is there today but dismantled. There's a Carter Lake club on the lake shore. The club has about 300 or 500 members, but the permanent residents of the bit of lost Iowa do not exceed 150 or 200 in number.

There have been suggestions of straightening out the state line, but this never has been done. Today if any one breaks a law in this strayed portion of Iowa all he has to do is walk away a short distance and he is out of reach of the law. Or if any one nearby in Nebraska offends against the statutes he may move into this bit of what you might call No Man's Land, for Iowa pays no attention to the bit of earth that wandered away nor does Nebraska to the stray that came and huddled by her side.

Golf Is Popular. Golf has a wide appeal throughout the middle-west and northwest. Persons of means play the game in its Scotch form, there being links in nearly every city. Not a few of the public parks have golf courses, too. African golf is popular. A variation of the eastern and southern method of play may be seen in almost every city. The gentlemen roll six bones instead of two. Barnyard golf has a sudden and remarkable return to favor. In olden days this game was known as quoits. There is one thing that can be said in recommendation of barnyard golf. It doesn't cost so much as the regulation golf or African variety. All you need is an old horseshoe and a lot of time. Both horseshoes and waste time seem plentiful from the abundance of players.

Four Women Named on Jury To Try Alleged Wife Slayer

Seattle, Sept. 21.—Seven men and four women were seated tentatively in superior court as jurors to try James E. Mahoney on the charge of murdering his elderly bride, who disappeared shortly after their marriage last spring and whose body is said to have been found in a trunk in Lake Union here. The 12th seat in the jury box was temporarily vacant when court adjourned for the day.

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and discomfort. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good drugstore and use it like a cold cream.

Dangerous Curve Ahead!

Cecil Withdraws Demand Mandate Terms Be Fixed

South African Delegate to League Is of Opinion American Claims Can Be Settled.

Geneva, Sept. 21.—Lord Robert Cecil, representing South Africa, after indicating to the political commission of the league of nations assembly that he thought the American claims on mandates could be satisfied, withdrew his demand that the terms of the A and B mandates be fixed at once.

It was pointed out that the A mandates were so tied up with the treaty of Sevres that it would be impossible to proceed immediately to adopt them. But Lord Robert insisted that the B mandates concerning the former German-African colonies could be fixed at once.

H. A. L. Fisher of Great Britain said that the council could not accept a suggestion by the assembly to adopt the mandates as proposed while negotiations were going on between the United States and the four mandatories.

Lord Robert replied that it was a question of taking into account the suggestions of the United States. The council could boldly modify the mandates, he said, in the sense indicated by the United States and give the territories the status of which they were so much in need. Mr. Fisher insisted that the council would refuse such a suggestion.

Alter Mr. Fisher, M. Raynal, France, and M. Boulet, Belgium, had assured the commission that their governments would give the necessary commission every facility for scrutinizing the administration of the territories under mandate, Lord Robert withdrew his resolution and the commission adopted the recommendation that the assembly ask the council to insist that the powers and negotiations with the United States reach an agreement at the earliest possible moment.

Democrats Plan To Renew Attack On Tax Measure

Minority Report on Bill Prepared by Senator Walsh—Charge Advantage Given To Large Corporations.

Washington, Sept. 21.—Plans for an attack upon the provisions of the tax bill as amended by the senate finance committee were under discussion at a conference of democratic members of the committee.

A minority report was prepared by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts and Gerry of Rhode Island, two of the democrats on the committee. This report, which probably will be ready tomorrow, will be signed by all the democrats. Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the committee, is expected to present the report.

Attacks upon the proposed repeal of the excess profits tax and the reduction in the higher surtaxes are intended to feature the minority report. The democrats will charge that the bill is designed to give advantage to the large taxpayers and the corporations, but without corresponding benefit to the small taxpayers.

It is considered quite likely that the senate will vote to repeal freight and passenger transportation taxes entirely, instead of cutting them in two as proposed in the senate committee bill.

Air Congress to Spread Fame of City Over World

Capt. H. E. Hartney, Second in Pulitzer Race Last Year, Speaks Here on Importance of Aviation.

The International Aero congress to be held here in November will put Omaha on the aerial map in letters a foot high, according to Captain H. E. Hartney, secretary of the Air club of America, who was dined at the Fontenelle Tuesday night by local business men, aviators and members of the Omaha Aero club.

Captain Hartney is the flyer who took second in the Pulitzer cup race last year. He came to Omaha to gather information at first hand concerning the meet in November.

"This country must build a reserve air force capable of wiping out any hostile fleet which might threaten our shores," Captain Hartney said Tuesday night. "This becomes more important with the apparently approaching condition where all nations will limit their armies and their armaments."

Raymond R. Farquhar of Lincoln, president of the Nebraska State Fair association, discussed the association's plans to establish a landing field in every town in Nebraska.

Several mail planes may take part in the November meet, according to A. R. Dunfee, superintendent of the
